Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—[Special.]—At 1:30 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning a force of strikers, 300 strong, started from McAdoo for the Coxe Bros. & Co. collieries at Derringer, where a number of men had remained at work. Twenty minutes later Sheriff Harvey and a force of deputies were in pursuit.

The men from McAdoo are being reinforced at every mining village they pass, and their force probably will number 1,000 before Derringer is reached at 6 a. m.

The plants in the Tomhicken Valley are guarded, and if the marchers elude Sheriff Harvey and his force they can easily prevent the miners from going to work this morning.

It was the most elaborately planned and closely guarded march the strikers have made thus far. The men from McAdoo went to the rendezvous, two miles south of Hazleton, in small squads. There they met the men from other mining districts.

Sheriff Harvey, when he left Hazleton at 1:30 o'clock, hoped to intercept the column near its starting point and induce the men to return home. He has not returned to Hazleton at this hour, and it is supposed the strikers started before he appeared and that he and his deputies are following them to Derringer.

The Sheriff's force is numerically too small to cope with the miners, if they make a determined stand in the Hazleton region. However, the men have thus far respected the command of the local authorities and may do so now.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—[To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.]—Fully 90 per cent of the anthracite coal miners are now on strike. Between Mahanoy City and Ashland only two collieries are working, and these two are shorthanded. The men are patient and determined. They will not go back to work till their demands are granted. Our prospects are brighter tonight than ever.

JOHN MITCHELL,
President United Mine Workers' association.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—[To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.]—The operators in the Scranton district were rash enough today to try to resume work at one colliery. I not only prevented that, but closed down the washery as well. The men of my district are standing firm. No change will come till our demands are granted.

FRED DILCHER,
National Organizer, Scranton District.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—[To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.]—Nearly 1,000 more men are idle in the Hazleton district today than on Saturday. Lattimer is badly crippled. Markle's Jeddo collieries are in the same fix. We are going to gain men and strength daily.

BENJAMIN JAMES,
National Organizer, Hazleton District.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Bloody Monday in the anthracite region has come and gone without disorder, but it has been a great day for the strikers. In the Schuylkill region, where 2,200 troops are on duty, 20,000 men refused to go to work. There was an abundance of protection, but few to protect.

From Mahanoy City to Ashland only two collieries mined any coal today. These were at Cambridge and Keeley's Run, where several hundred men reported for work at 7 a. m. The miners' boast that there would be fewer men at work today than on Saturday has proven true. The operators had everything they desired, except men. There were hundreds of coal cars to be filled and a small army to guard the men who filled them, but there were no men.

President Mitchell stated tonight that 90 per cent of the anthracite miners were idle. The strike leaders feel now there is nothing to be done but to hold their men in line and they will win.

At dawn the first move in the day's test of strength was made. Nearly all Brigadier General Gobin's little army broke camp at 6 a. m. and scattered over the country in every direction. Four companies were hurried to Audenried and McAdoo, but were withdrawn when Burgess McGeehan protested against their presence.

Too Few Men to Resume Work.

Two hours after the troops had awakened the colliery doors were thrown open. Then it was that the great strength of the miners was demonstrated, for so few men were on hand that the effort to resume work was abandoned.

The presence of troops so close to Hazleton, would induce many men to quit the strikers' ranks, the operators here believed, but the shut-down was nearly as complete as in the Shenandoah district.

At Lattimer, of blood memory, not more than 400 men donned their working clothes, where a few days ago 1,400 were at work. At Markle & Co.'s Jeddo mines only one colliery was producing coal. Eckley was closed, and Beaver Meadow was struggling with a reduced force.

Reports from the Scranton district show the shut-down there to be complete.

CHICAGO PUPILS GIVE $4,330.48.

MORE IS STILL TO COME.

REPAY DEBT TO TEXAS CITY

Pupils in the public schools of Chicago yesterday contributed a total fund of $4,330.48 for the aid of the Galveston flood sufferers. The fund is not yet complete. In some schools no collections could be taken, owing to the Jewish holidays, and in others the attendance was light on this same account. For this reason the time for receiving donations from the school children has been extended by Superintendent of Schools Cooley until Wednesday evening. The fund reported yesterday was by 184 out of 247 schools. Others are yet to be heard from. Forty-eight of these schools have already sent their collections to Secretary Legner.

The plan for a general subscription on the part of the school children was first suggested in the columns of THE TRIBUNE. Ethel Donelson, a pupil in the Grant School, wrote a letter to THE TRIBUNE ten days ago asking for the authority for a school children's donation. Her suggestion was supported the next day by Postoffice Inspector Walter S. Mayer, also in a letter to THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Mayer stated, as an additional reason, that the Galveston school children had contributed to the relief of Chicago after the fire. The consent of the members of the Board of Education was obtained informally by THE TRIBUNE and it was ratified last Wednesday night at the meeting of the board.

Letter Which Started It.

The letter which was the origin of the fund follows:

"Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wish to ask through your paper that action be taken by the school children of Chicago to aid the suffering children of Galveston. Many who cannot subscribe to the citizens' fund can give something, and the blessing it would give to these suddenly homeless dear ones would be great. We would not miss a few pennies, so let each central school take a daily collection for thirty days only, to be placed in the hands of some responsible persons—yourselves, if agreeable. Will you kindly give space to this? Yours, truly, ETHEL DONELSON,
"927 Monroe and Oakley, member Grant School."

Repay a Good Deed.

In the raising of the fund the Chicago school children have repaid, in a measure, a debt to Galveston which was incurred after the Chicago fire, when the Galveston schools were dismissed and the pupils solicited aid for this city. The manner in which the Chicago pupils repaid the debt was told to Governor Sayers last night in the following telegram:

"Governor Sayers, Austin, Tex.: Chicago school children today raised $4,330 for the aid of Galveston in return for the aid of Galveston school children after the Chicago fire. CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

Reports of the amounts collected in 184 schools were made to THE TRIBUNE last night by principals in answer to telegrams sent to the schools during the day. Some principals reported that collections would be taken today and tomorrow on account of the Jewish holidays. Others were unable to get reports from their scattered branch schools. The total will receive additions today and tomorrow.

One Victim Tells the Story.

While the collections were being made in the Graham School, Union and Forty-fifth streets, Charity Rowell, 13 years old, who had spent the night of the storm on the roof of her father's farmhouse on Galveston Bay, went from room to room telling of her experiences in the flood. She is just now the guest of Miss Benson, an eighth grade teacher in the Graham School. She told how everything on her father's farm had been swept away, and how her father barricaded the house with unused doors and how the family had escaped by spending the night on the roof.

MAYOR TAKES THE BLAME

DECLARES HIMSELF RESPONSIBLE FOR M'GANN'S COURSE.

Tells Civil Service Commission He Ordered Certain Contracts Given to Four Men and Revoked the Instruction When Harm Came of It—Letter Concerning Conduct of Inquiry on Board of Local Improvements—Hearing Resumed and Evidence Heard.

Mayor Harrison yesterday took the burden of undenied charges of irregularities off the shoulders of his Commissioner of Public Works, Lawrence E. McGann, who, it was expected, would have to bear them for the administration as a scapegoat. The Mayor admitted "mistakes," but said that the blame rested with him. He said that he had followed the ways of his predecessors and had fallen into errors which led to abuses.

In a communication addressed to the Civil Service commission and read by President Lindblom when the trial of the Board of Local Improvements was resumed, the Mayor took the responsibility for an order which resulted in the formation of a contractors' combine. In addition to lifting the burden from Commissioner McGann, who signed the order, the Mayor gave the Civil Service commission an idea of how he thought the trial should be conducted. It is expected that his advice will be followed.

Mayor's Suggestion for the Inquiry.

"If this investigation is being carried on for other than political purposes," said the Mayor in his advice, "public interests would be protected better, at least so it seems to me, by examining methods in vogue in the transaction of business by the Board of Local Improvements, rather than by an investigation of matters which the members of the board as well as myself admit to have been abuses, and which they recognized as abuses two years ago, and which were put at an end at that time, once and for all, by the adoption of proper and effective measures."

Mayor Harrison assumed responsibility for the order which gave all house drain work to four contractors. This, he admitted, was a "mistake," but he stated that as soon as it was discovered his order, being misconstrued by his subordinates, was bringing about abuses the order was revoked.

During the trial an order signed by Commissioner McGann had been presented. It instructed F. E. Davidson, former Superintendent of Sewers, to give all house drain work to certain contractors. Mr. Davidson had testified that he called the commissioners' attention to the fact that the "boys" had combined, to the detriment of the taxpayers, he believed. He said Mr. McGann's answer was that "his was an administrative office and had nothing to do with politics."

Declares McGann Not Responsible.

Of this order the Mayor said:

"In justice to Mr. McGann I feel it my duty publicly to state that I accept full responsibility for the writing of this letter, as in the month of September, 1897, I addressed a letter to him covering the same subject matter and in substantially the same language, and about the same time probably gave him instructions of a similar character relative to other local improvement work whereof the cost did not exceed $500.

"This letter was written in good faith and duly transmitted in the regular order of business. It was not intended in writing this letter or giving these instructions to direct, to authorize, or to sanction the violation of any charter provision, law, or ordinance applicable to contract work, but merely to indicate that, all other things being equal, work should be assigned to the contractors named. I thought only to follow the example of preceding administrations, and in doing so to award the work to contractors whom I knew as good men, providing always they performed good work at the lowest price."

In the continuation of the trial Superintendent John A. May admitted facts tending to prove that the methods used in sending copies of the specifications for improvements to property-owners had nullified the object for which they were sent. Mr. May admitted that the specifications had not reached the property-owners until after the work had been completed. The notices had been sent in the order in which the improvements were decided upon and that they had not caught up with the work.

Amzari Edwardo Alzari engaged in a duel with stilettos early this morning on Clark street, between Harrison and Polk streets, with a fellow-countryman, whose identity has not yet been established.

Alzari stabbed his opponent in the heart, causing his death in an ambulance as he was being taken to the County Hospital. The body was left at the County Morgue.

Alzari was taken to the Samaritan Hospital, where his wounds were dressed, and then to the Harrison Street Police Station. He said he resided at 384 Clark street and that he became engaged in a quarrel with his antagonist, whom he met on the street shortly after 2 o'clock. He said he never saw the victim before.

LOSES $4,000 IN THE THEATER, AND FINDS MONEY UNDER A SEAT.

George Max Esterly, a returned Klondike miner whose home is at Whitewater, Wis., lost his wallet, containing $4,000 in currency and negotionable papers, while attending the performance of "Brother Officers" at Powers' Theater with his wife last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Esterly are stopping at the Great Northern Hotel.

After their return from the theater Mr. Esterly discovered his loss, and wasted no time reporting it to Lieutenant Rohan of police headquarters. Detective McLean was put on the case, and, accompanied Mr. Esterly to the theater, where, with the assistance of the watchman, the wallet, with its valuable contents untouched, was found lying under the seat in the orchestra circle occupied by Mr. Esterly during the performance.

FLOODS SWEEP TEXAS VALLEYS.

STREAMS ARE RAGING.

HIGHEST WATER RECORDED.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Word was received here from Llano saying that San Saba, forty miles north of there, with a population of about 1,000, was partly destroyed by the flood in the San Saba River.

The news came by telephone, and it was said that all bridges on the San Saba were carried away. The San Saba is still rising.

No news could be had from San Saba people tonight, the wires all being down. It is feared there has been great loss of life in the bottoms, as the rise was in the night and came without warning.

Marble Falls Destroyed.

It is reported here at a late hour tonight that the town of Marble Falls has been washed away by the Colorado River, and that there is a fifty-foot rise at Kingsland. Efforts to reach Marble Falls are without avail. It is a small town of 800 people twenty-five miles above Austin, on the Colorado River, and is the terminus of a branch of the Austin and Northwestern road.

Colorado Still Rising.

The Colorado River here at 10 p. m. was rising rapidly and people in the lowlands have prepared to move out, having been warned by the police.

Telegrams were received here tonight from Kingsland, 100 miles north of here, urging that the people along the valley of the Colorado River be warned that a terrific flood is coming down, and that the river is higher than ever before known in that stream.

The Colorado River has already risen fifteen feet at Austin within the last few hours, and this additional flood, if the startling reports from above are correct, will inundate the whole valley and do great destruction to property.

The section west and north of here, along the Perdenales River, was visited by a terrific rain and wind storm last night. Meager reports were received here today, showing that the storm did much damage. Many cattle were swept away by the Perdenales overflowing its banks. Ranch buildings were also destroyed. It is reported that a number of people were caught in the flood and drowned.

Northern Sections Flooded.

Denton, Tex., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Heavy rains fell over north Texas again last night and all creeks and rivers are higher than in months. All trains are running late and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas track between here and Dallas is submerged by the overflow of the Elm Fork of the Trinity.

Heavy Damage at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—County Commissioner William Baird said today that the damage to county roads, bridges, and culverts in this, No. 1, precinct by the storm will reach $25,000. It is estimated that the losses in the county will exceed $100,000.

Trinity River Raging.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 24.—The Trinity River is higher tonight than it has been since 1890, when it broke all records. The water tonight lacks only six feet of reaching the 1890 mark and is still rising. Owing to heavy rains last night and yesterday on the Elm Fork, the West Fork, and the Clear Fork, all of them emptying into the Trinity above Dallas, the prospect is that the stream is going past the 1890 mark some time tonight.

The Weather bureau ordered storm signals up for a northeast gale on Lake Superior and a southeast gale on Lake Michigan and Lake Huron last night. On Lake Michigan the wind will be high and dangerous for small craft, but it is thought large loaded steamers may go along without trouble. The barometer at Minneapolis last night registered 29.12 and at Duluth 29.54, showing a trough of low pressure, which may bring a heavy storm on the lakes. The wind on Lake Michigan last night reached a velocity of twenty-five miles an hour and was constantly increasing. Sailing vessels were reported as seeking shelter along the west shore.

PORCH CLIMBERS LOOT GEORGE PRUSSING'S HOME AND GET $800 IN JEWELRY.

Robbery Committed While Members of the Family Are in the House—Entrance May Have Been Through Front Door.

The residence of George Prussing, a wealthy builder contractor at 558 Dearborn avenue, was entered by porch climbers last evening and $800 worth of jewelry and clothing was stolen. Several rooms in which plunder might have been secured were not visited. Members of the family were in the lower part of the house during the entire evening and there is a difference of opinion as to whether the thieves gained entrance through the front door, which may have been left open, or through a window in the front room of the second story.

The robbery was effected without attracting a single member of the household. It were seen standing near the edge of the sidewalk in front of the house about 8:30 o'clock, were either the principals or their assistants in the robbery.

Two members of the family heard noises at different times in the rooms of the second floor of the house, but supposed that other members of the family were moving about in their apartments and gave no further heed to the matter until the discovery was made at 9 o'clock that the house had been looted.

Among the articles of jewelry taken were three gold watches worth $450; three pins, with settings of diamonds, worth $200; other small pieces of jewelry and articles of wearing apparel worth $100, and Mrs. Prussing's purse, containing $50

SECRET IN WOMAN'S DEATH

MRS. EVA BOSS AND DR. T. W. WALLACE FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

She Succumbs but Man Recovers—Escaping Gas in Latter's Apartments, at 178 East Seventy-ninth Street Thought Insufficient to Be Cause of the Trouble—After Man Is Able to Walk Patrol Wagon Goes to Take Him to Station.

Dr. Thomas W. Wallace, 178 East Seventy-ninth street, and Mrs. Eva Boss, 7846 Coles avenue, were found unconscious by Mrs. J. K. Dick in the doctor's apartments last night. Mrs. Dick lives in the same building. A gas jet was turned partly on and the fluid had filled the room, although an open window had so diluted it that the police believe some other agent caused the unconsciousness of the couple.

There are two gas jets in the room. One was burning and from the other gas was escaping. The police maintain that there was not enough gas in the room to overcome the couple. If sufficient gas had accumulated, they say, it would have been ignited by the flame of the other jet.

Mrs. Boss was taken to her home, where she died at 1 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness. Her body was taken to Kreb's undertaking rooms, 9040 Erie avenue.

Dr. Wallace, more able to stand the experience, rallied slowly under treatment, and finally was able to sit up. Efforts to learn from him what caused the unconsciousness met with failure. This awakened the curiosity of Lieutenant Melaniphy of the South Chicago police. He sent the patrol wagon for Dr. Wallace when he had recovered early this morning.

Doctors Work Over the Patients.

Drs. John Staneff and Charles F. Swan were called when the couple were found. They worked over the patients for several hours. It was seen that Mrs. Boss was likely to die. At midnight the final collapse began. Drs. J. A. Anderson and H. Veatch were called into consultation. Dr. Anderson declared that the woman was dying then.

The physicians were asked for an opinion as to the cause of the condition of the couple. They were reticent about discussing the case.

Policeman Calls on Dr. Wallace.

At the apartments of Dr. Wallace a guard was placed to keep the curious away. Every one who asked information was refused it. After the death of Mrs. Boss a policeman went to talk with Dr. Wallace. He alone was admitted. He found the doctor sitting up and in the care of an attendant. The attendant told him not to answer questions. He remained silent.

Seeking to Conceal Something.

"I did not think much about this case," said Lieutenant Melanipper, "until the reticence of the physicians led me to make an investigation. Now, while I am not in a position to make any charges, I have ordered Detectives McNamara and O'Donnell to keep the physician under surveillance till he recovers and then arrest him. The gas story is not plausible. It is not clear to me how two persons would be overcome in a room with a window open and one gas jet burning, for there was another jet besides the one from which the gas poured. It seems to be the intention, of some of the physicians at any rate, to cover up something, and that something is just what I want to know about. Why Wallace should be told not to talk, if everything is all right, is more than I can understand, but we will know all about it before the matter is dropped."

Send for the Patrol Wagon.

At 2:15 o'clock this morning Detective O'Donnell sent word to the station for the patrol wagon. He said Dr. Wallace was able to walk and that he had placed him under arrest. The wagon was dispatched for the doctor.

It is intended to hold Dr. Wallace at station till after the inquest. Further action will depend on the verdict of the Coroner's jury.

Boss asserted last night that he was at a loss to understand the cause of his wife going to the doctor's office a second time on Sunday evening. He said she had been taking treatment for some time, but he thought she was improving in health and would recover.

Before going to South Chicago Dr. Wallace had an office at Forty-seventh street and Wentworth avenue. He was formerly married, but his wife died some time ago.

COUNCIL GIVES SESSION TO GAS.

OFFER ELEVEN MEASURES

Aldermen Bring in Flood of Resolutions, but Only Two Pass, Others Being Referred.

DEMAND BENEFIT OF WAR.

Mayor Instructed to Investigate and Then Use His Discretion in Paying City's Lighting Bills.

TESTS OF QUALITY ORDERED

WORK OF THE COUNCIL.

The City Council last evening passed two orders bearing on the gas situation as follows:

By Alderman Smulski—Directing the Mayor to investigate the gas war and use his discretion in paying the city's bills.

By Alderman Goldzier—Ordering the Gas Inspector to test the quality of gas sold in the city.

The following ordinances, orders, and resolutions bearing on the same subject were introduced and referred to the Judiciary committee:

By Alderman Coughlin—Asking the Legislature to repeal the frontage law and permit the city to establish a municipal plant.

By Alderman Kenna—Refusing any permits to Municipal company for street and alley openings.

By Alderman Dixon—Providing for a committee of three to ask the Legislature for authority to erect a municipal gas plant.

By Alderman Brenner—Instructing the Corporation Counsel to begin proceedings seeking to void the consolidation act.

By Alderman Novak [Eighth]—Instructing the Corporation Counsel to investigate the right of the Municipal company to do business in Chicago.

By Alderman Patterson—Fixing the price of gas throughout the city at 75 cents.

By Alderman Eisfeldt—Fixing the price of gas throughout the city at 75 cents.

By Alderman Blake [Twenty-sixth]—Refusing permits to the People's Gas company until a uniform rate of 75 cents a 1,000 is established throughout the city.

By Alderman Bennett—Seeking the appointment of a committee of twenty-five to organize a gas company, of which the stockholders shall be the gas consumers.

Other work was done by the Council as follows:

Passed—An amended ordinance for the Chicago Terminal company.

Received—The Controller's report as to necessary reductions in city expenditures.

Referred—Bids for the Thirty-ninth street sewer to the Finance committee.

Gas and the questions raised by the existing gas war on the North Side took up all the time, and was formed the theme of all the speeches in the City Council last evening at its first meeting after the summer vacation.

"If you want cheap gas this Council is the place to listen to it," exclaimed Alderman Brenner at the end of a long, rambling argument, and then wondered at the uproarious laughter which followed.

Demand Benefit of War for City.

The only thing of importance which was done, however, was the passage of the following resolution, presented by Alderman Smulski:

"The Mayor is hereby directed to investigate the gas situation in this city and report to this body at its next regular meeting his findings, so that this Council can act intelligently in the premises; and in the meantime

"The Mayor shall give such directions to the Controller as to the payment of any bills claimed to be due from the city to the People's Gaslight and Coke company as he may deem proper and just."

This last paragraph is intended as instruction to the Mayor not to pay, on account of the city, more than other consumers are paying in the same territory, where the city may have police and fire stations using gas, or street lamps are established.

Great Waste of Eloquence.

It was over the resolutions, ordinances, and orders which were referred to the Judiciary committee that all the eloquence was wasted. Alderman Coughlin started the ball with a long lot of preambles, winding up with a resolution asking the State Legislature to repeal the recent frontage law, as well as to give the City of Chicago permission to establish a municipal gas plant. He made a long speech and asked the rules be suspended for the passage of his resolution.

Alderman Jackson suggested that inasmuch as a lot more of similar resolutions were on the clerk's desk they ought all to be sent to a committee so that something intelligent might come out of the whole, and asked for a reference to the Judiciary. The vote by which this order was made was 38 to 26, and was the test vote of the meeting. The roll call follows:

Municipal Plant Scheme Referred.

Alderman Kenna followed with an order on the Commissioner of Public Works, instructing him to issue no permits to the Municipal company for the opening of streets or alleys, and Alderman Dixon providing for a committee of five Aldermen and four citizens to go to Springfield and ask the Legislature for permission to the city to erect and maintain a municipal gas plant. They both went to the committee without debate, along with some resolutions adopted by a meeting in the Third Ward, which were sent in by Alderman Alling.

Then Alderman Brenner started the ball rolling again by the introduction of the resolution instructing the Corporation Counsel at once to bring proceedings seeking to void the act of the Legislature whereby the various gas companies of Chicago were consolidated under the charter of the People's company. He asked that the rules be suspended for the passage of this resolution, and made a long speech, in which he had much to say about the iniquity of trusts and the enormity of allowing gas companies to consolidate.

Alderman Kunz, however, rather shattered the effect of his eloquence by calling attention to the fact that at a recent meeting of the Council Alderman Brenner had voted for the ordinance by which the People's and the Ogden companies expected to consolidate. The resolution was sent to committee by practically the same vote as Alderman Coughlin's.

Seek to Stop Municipal Company.

Alderman Novak (Eighth) then offered a resolution instructing the Corporation Counsel to take such legal steps as would stop the Municipal company from doing business without a franchise, and Alderman Kunz opposed it on the ground that it would stop the gas war. The resolution went to committee along with an amendment by Alderman Patterson asking for a report from the Corporation Counsel as to the right of the city to compel the People's company to furnish gas all over the city at the same rates the Municipal company is now giving on the North Side. It was also agreed that the committee make a report next Monday evening.

Alderman Patterson then introduced his ordinance, which seeks to fix the price of gas furnished by any company in Chicago at 75 cents a 1,000 cubic feet. Alderman Eisfeldt also had one on the same lines, and both were sent to the committee.

Alderman Goldzier had an order instructing the Gas Inspector to test the quality of all gas sold in the city, which was passed without comment.

Alderman Blake (Twenty-sixth) then struck a new lead with a resolution instructing the Mayor to issue no more permits for street and alley openings to the People's Gaslight and Coke company until a uniform price of 75 cents is established throughout the city. It went to the committee, along with a final resolution by Alderman Bennett. This resolution provided for a committee of twenty-five citizens which would consider the gas question and report on the advisability of forming a new gas company, all the stockholders of which were to be residents of Chicago, and, as far as possible, consumers of gas. The limit of the amount of stock to be sold to any one person was to be the par value of $1,000.

Terminal Ordinance Passed.

The ordinance of the Chicago Terminal company was amended so as to provide for a subway at Forty-seventh avenue, and that the company keep all viaducts in repair, and then was passed.

Controller Kerfoot sent in a recommendation that the appropriations be reduced to $3,419,200, as already published, and it was sent to the Finance committee over the protest of Alderman Duddleston, who wanted to know whether "the Controller or the Council was running this city."

Bids for the completion of the Thirty-ninth street sewer were referred to the Finance committee. John P. Agnew & Co. had the lowest bid, at $118 a foot, and Gahan & Byrne were next at $128.38.

Alderman Coughlin had referred an ordinance providing for "recreation piers." His plan is to build piers from the lake front into the lake 500 feet long and 100 feet wide, which can be used for promenades in the summer time.

Electric Sign for a Chinaman.

Alderman Kenna procured permission for Sam Moy, the Chinese merchant, to put an electric sign in front of his place of business in Clark street. It is said to be the first time a Chinaman ever followed so closely in the ways of Americans.

Alderman Blake (Fifth) had the name of Fake street changed to Harrison avenue on the ground that "its name is the laughing stock of the ward."

Alderman Patterson had passed a resolution asking the Board of Education not to change text books except when actually necessary.

Alderman Werno reported that the Committee on Redistricting the City was not ready to report formally, but was making progress.

SUES "L" FOR BREAKING LAW.

Suit for $26,400 damages was filed in Justice Gibbons' court yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel Fyffe against the Lake Street Elevated railway company. Detectives have been at work for ten days securing evidence of violations of the ordinance prohibiting the company from coasting trains down the Fifty-second avenue incline at Austin without having the train under control of the motorman; from running at a speed of more than ten miles an hour, and for failure to stop the trains at crossings having stations. The detectives discovered 132 alleged violations of the ordinance in two days.

Several lives have been lost at the crossings and a large number of persons have been injured. The company has failed to place flagmen at Willow, Waller, Franklin, and Austin avenues. The city has put policemen at those crossings at the expense of the company.

Alderman Frank L. Race of the Thirty-fifth Ward stood guard Sunday night for several hours at the Fifty-second avenue crossing.

Judge Chetlain has entered an order releasing Fire Escape Inspector Michael J. Rayspis from the custody of the Sheriff. Rayspis was held on the finding of the Coroner's jury for not enforcing the fire escape law, resulting in deaths at the burning of the Henning & Speed Building.

THREE COURTS WANT WILLIAMS

Realty Dealer at 218 La Salle Street Sought by Sheriffs of Two States and by Government.

Government officers, Deputy Sheriffs, and police are searching for Charles J. Williams, a real estate dealer at 218 La Salle street, who has forfeited his bonds in an Indiana justice court and disappeared. The bail was $500, but there are pending against Williams three indictments, under which the bonds aggregate $30,000. His absence was discovered last week, when deputies went to Indiana to serve capiases. Then it was learned that government officers had been searching for Williams on charges connected with his management of the postoffice at Glen Park, Lake County, Ind., of which he had charge until his sudden disappearance. The indictments held by the State's Attorney charge Williams with assault.

COURT MAY LET VANCE WORK.

Holds Writ Restraining Him from Seeking Employment Except with Donker & Williams Too Broad.

Judge Dunne listened yesterday to arguments on a motion to dissolve an injunction restraining H. G. Vance from engaging in business except as the foreman of the leather goods department of the Donker & Williams company. Last July Vance contracted to work for Donker & Williams as foreman for a year. Some weeks ago he left his position, and an injunction was issued to restrain him from seeking other employment. Judge Dunne gave no final decision, but said: "As the injunction now stands this man must resume his old position or starve. Such a broad order is beyond the spirit of the law."

JOIN THE FIGHT ON GAS.

Five Hundred Citizens, Said to Represent 1,700, Organize a Consumers' Protective Association at 274 Thirty-first Street and Criticise the People's Company—More Assemblages for Other Sections of the City—Injunction Case Set for Saturday.

Five hundred citizens of the South Side organized themselves into the South Side Gas Consumers' Protective association last night at 274 Thirty-first street, denounced the People's Gaslight and Coke company for extortion, demanded the same rates enjoyed by citizens in other sections, and urged the City council to pass such legislation as will reduce and regulate the price of gas in the city. They characterized the gas frontage bill as a twin measure of the Allen law and called upon the holdover Senators and candidates for the Legislature to pledge themselves to use their best efforts and their votes to relieve the citizens from the burden under which they have been suffering. The condemnatory resolutions were given to Alderman Alling for presentation to the City Council.

While only 500 citizens were present, 1,700 consumers of gas on the South Side are said to have signed the roll of membership and pledged themselves to assist in securing an equitable rate. Charles J. Jones was elected President; William Manzer, Vice President; A. B. Perrigo, Treasurer; and Louis J. Behan, Secretary. Committees on legislation and organization were appointed.

Strong speeches condemning the course of the People's Gaslight and Coke company were made by Perry A. Hull, Robert E. Cantwell, and Louis J. Behan. Regardless of politics, the citizens are banding themselves together, they said, and unless relief is afforded them from the extortionate rates they are compelled to pay they will make their influence felt at the polls, to the sorrow of certain candidates who have thought lightly of organized non-partisan opposition.

There will be a meeting of North Side citizens tomorrow night at the Star Theater, North Clark and Kinzie streets, under the auspices of the North Side Business-Men's association.

The Chicago Gas Consumers' Protective association will meet tomorrow evening at 1608 West Harrison street.

Mathew Hibbeler, President of the Twentieth Ward Improvement club, has called a meeting for tonight at 8 o'clock at Aldine Hall, 169 Center street, for the consideration of the gas question.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the mass meeting to be held Thursday evening at Central Music Hall for the formal protest against the gas rates. Frank H. Cooper will act as chairman of the meeting, which is to be addressed by Mayor Harrison and other prominent speakers.

Judge Baker's call for Saturday morning will contain a motion for a temporary injunction restraining the People's Gaslight and Coke company from cutting off the gas from the property of J. Frank Allen or from charging more than 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas.

EIGHT DIE IN A STORM WHICH SWEEPS ACROSS A MINNESOTA VILLAGE.

Many Buildings Destroyed, One a Brick Saloon, in Which Several Men Had Sought Shelter, Being Picked Up by Cloud and Crushed.

Faribault, Minn., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Eight persons were killed and several seriously injured by a storm which struck the Village of Morristown, twelve miles west of here, this evening. A number of buildings were demolished, one of them being a brick saloon, in which several persons had sought shelter.

The dead are:

BROOKS, ELMER.
GATZKE, OTTO.
MILLER, JACOB.
PITMAN, FRANK.
ROHRER, JOHN JR.
WAITE, H. S.
WEAVER, JACOB JR.
PETERSON, ——.

Gatzke, Paul.
Pitman, Lewis.
White, Porter.
Wilder, Frank.

Seven of the men killed and all the injured were in the saloon, a brick building. This was lifted into the air, falling a heap of débris. Three persons in the structure escaped as the walls left the foundation.

A barn was picked up and carried a block, two horses being left standing in their stalls. Another barn on the outskirts of the town was demolished, Peterson, a hired man, being killed.

The funnel-shaped cloud struck the town from the southwest, its path in the village being half a mile in length. The storm made jumps of a block, passing over many buildings without harming them, but whenever it came down everything was crushed.

H. S. Waite, one of the dead, was a Republican nominee for Representative.

YOUNG MEN ARE ARRESTED BY POLICEMAN ON WAY HOME FROM A CALL.

William Waller and Edward Lahl Attempt to Joke with Patrolman Wallace and Are Lodged in Jail for a Short Time.

William Waller, 361 North Lincoln street, and Edward Lahl, 316 Hastings street, called on their sweethearts, sisters, living at 683 Ashland avenue, on Sunday evening. They started for home at a late hour, but instead of reaching their destinations they landed in the Maxwell Street Police Station, where they spent several hours.

The young men were waiting for a street car when Patrolman Wallace approached. The policeman was smiling good-naturedly and the young men felt no alarm. When he wanted to know where they lived Waller smiled and said "anywhere." Then he discovered how serious it was to joke with a policeman.

The patrolman immediately raised his fist, it is charged, and struck the young man in the face. When he protested against that sort of "joking," the young men say, the policeman, followed up the attack by using his club. Then he called a patrol wagon and both young men were locked up. They managed to communicate with friends and were released on bonds.

The policeman was unable to offer any evidence against the prisoners yesterday morning, and stated that he arrested the young men because they were hanging around the corner. Justice Dooley discharged them after hearing the facts.

DOCTORS MEET AT A DINNER.

Fifty members of the Physicians' club of Chicago attended the regular meeting and dinner held at the Sherman House last evening. Professor Albion W. Small of the University of Chicago was toastmaster, and directed the discussion of the general subject, "The Requirements for Admission to the Medical School."

Dr. Frank S. Johnson advocated a high standard of general education, both classical and scientific, for the medical school candidate.

"How Best Raise the Standard" was discussed by Dr. Bayard Holmes. Dr. E. Fletcher Ingals said that the requirements of medical schools in South American countries were much higher than here.

Professor George E. Fellows of the University of Chicago suggested means for bringing the medical schools and the institutions of general learning into closer union.

KILLED AND HURT IN A COLLISION.

CAR RUNS INTO WAGON.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, }
New York, Sept. 24. }

One Killed and Many Injured in a Collision.

An accident to a Third avenue trolley car tonight was followed by a collision in which one man was killed and a dozen passengers injured. A disabled car with lights extinguished, crowded with passengers, was being pushed along at a high rate of speed by a second car, the motorman of which was unable to see the track ahead. The two cars dashed into a heavily loaded brewery wagon between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets with a crash, followed an instant later by screams of injured and panic-stricken passengers.

Imprisoned in the wreckage were the injured, many of them women, and although rescuers worked heroically it was many minutes before the sufferers could be released and taken to a drug store nearby, which was converted into a temporary hospital.

Morris Sternfelt, a wealthy retired commission merchant, 133 East Seventy-fourth street, was instantly killed. His head was almost severed from his body and one leg was cut through as with a knife.

Among the more seriously injured who gave their names to ambulance surgeons were John A. Lubey, 325 East Fifty-ninth street, cut about the head and suffering from internal injuries; Mrs. Corwin, cut about the face and head; Edward G. Leggett, scalp wounds, and Mr. Marion, contusions about the head and body. Many others injured refused their names and were taken to their homes.

James R. Keene Home; Stocks Tumble.

Coincident with the arrival of James R. Keene from Europe stocks have taken a tumble, and the wonder in Wall street is what move the great Bear will make next. He came in on the Umbria yesterday after a five months' absence, benefited in health and full of vigor, his good condition promising lively times in the street. The fact that he expressed himself bullish in Liverpool before sailing has made his intention all the more mysterious, and those who intimately know his methods think that the wonderful old operator contemplates some great coup.

One conclusion is that Mr. Keene is getting ready to take advantage of the rise that will follow the election of McKinley, which the street thinks is certain.

The other is that he will try to put Brooklyn Rapid Transit to 35. The lowest point it ever reached after Flower had taken hold of it was 49, on June 25 last. The lowset in its history was 18. That was before Flower started to bull it. It opened at 50¼ today, and its lowest point was 48¾.

Early in the day Mr. Keene announced that he would not be interviewed until tomorrow. He is too busy to talk and wants time to look about him before expressing opinions.

Money continues to come in for the relief of the Galveston sufferers, and up to tonight the aggregate totals of the funds organized by the Merchants' association, Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Van Wyck amounted to $192,217, which does not include many other similar funds nor the contributions of supplies.

Shortage Charged Against Fire Commissioner Scannel.

There were two surprising developments today in the fight between the old and the new benevolent associations in the Fire department. The first was a report that an alleged shortage of $2,000 had been discovered in the accounts of Commissioner Scannell as treasurer of the Fire Department Life Insurance fund. The other was that Chief Croker had told Captain James D. Clifford, President of the old association, that he would not transfer him again if he would quit talking for publication. These two reports were the sole topic of discussion today in the fire houses, and the one of the shortage created some excitement among Tammany people.

Politicians did not know which report to consider the more remarkable. Friends of the old benevolent association said today that after Commissioner Scannell was through "breaking" Captain Clifford and others, as he has threatened to do, perhaps he would explain the apparent shortage.

Mme. Eugénie Mantelli, the contralto, was married this evening to Ferdinand de Angelis at St. Agnes' Roman Cahtolic Church. The Rev. Thomas J. Donlon officiated. Henry Weiman was best man and Miss Adelaide Haagen bridemaid. Only a few persons witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by a wedding supper at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Fireworks Explosion Startles Broadway.

Lower Broadway, in the vicinity of Chambers street, was shaken by an explosion this afternoon. Rumor of a great disaster was passed along, and strength was added to it when the fire engines and hook and ladder trucks dashed up. The explosion was among some fireworks brought over from Newark for delivery. The driver had loosened the ropes preparatory to taking off the boxes, which contained a lot of Japanese torpedoes, when one of the boxes, about four by two feet in size, fell to the pavement. The concussion caused the torpedoes to explode, and they went off with a crash that shook the houses in the street and shattered panes of glass for doors away. The driver was knocked off his feet and rendered senseless. He was badly burned about the face, and may lose his eyesight. John Rendinio, a messenger boy, of 158 Cherry street, who was standing near the wagon at the time, was also knocked down. Young Rendinio's face was burned, and the explosion tore parts of his trousers away and injured his legs.

John William Mollenhauer of the Mollenhauer Sugar Refining company, Brooklyn, has brought suit against his wife, Julia M. Mollenhauer, in the Supreme Court for absolute divorce upon statutory grounds. Justice Herrick allowed the defendant $10 a week alimony and $250 counsel fees, the counsel to agree upon a referee. Mrs. Mollenhauer recently attracted publicity by visiting a negro cake walk with her negro maid, being escorted home by friends of the latter, all of the party, it was charged, being in an intoxicated condition.

The Rev. Mr. Stokes Helps Reclaim a Wayward Girl.

The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes Jr., the young millionaire who has devoted his life to the church, was the means today of helping a wayward girl along the path of reformation. The girl is Clara F. Marks of New Haven. Her parents are respectable people in comfortable circumstances. Many times the girl's conduct has caused her parents great distress and humiliation. They brought their troubles to the attention of the young minister, and he promised to do all in his power to reclaim the girl. The first step in this work was taken today, when the girl, who is 18 years old, was committed in the Adams street court, Brooklyn, to the Wayside Home. The commitment was made by Magistrate Bristow at the telegraphed request of the Rev. Mr. Stokes.

Million Dollar Bankruptcy Petition.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States District Court today by George N. Bissell of White Plains, who, prior to 1889, was a partner in the firm of Amos Bissell & Son, doing business at Milford, N. Y., in live stock. The firm was dissolved in 1889 by the death of Amos Bissell, the only other partner, who was the petitioner's father. The petitioner was Amos Bissell's sole heir, and became sole owner of all the accounts of the said firm, including liabilities of $1,079,785, and assets of $25,832, of which $25,359 is a claim against the Second National Bank of Cooperstown, N. Y. The liabilities are divided as follows: Taxes due, $4,507; debts, preferred by law, $383,585; secured claims, $116,209; unsecured claims, $443,811; notes and bills which ought to be paid by other parties thereto, $56,742, and accommodation paper, $74,929.

Supply of Small Currency Inadequate.

Frank A. Vanderlip, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, conferred with bankers in this city today with reference to supplying the extraordinary demand for small currency. While what is known as "hand-to-hand" money is always rather scarce at this season, the supply of $1, $2, and $5 bills is now wholly inadequate. The Subtreasury had great piles of soiled or mutilated currency turned in for redemption today. After conferring with the bankers this afternoon Mr. Vanderlip said that he had ordered $500,000 in $20 gold certificates to be shipped to New York from Washington at once. That, he thought, would relieve the situation and supply the banks with a class of money that they did not have. He added that he thought the next step would be to supply small denominations at the Subtreasury.

Death of One of the Pekin Legationers.

News of the death at Yokohama of Walter Ewen Townsend of the British Legation in Pekin was received in this city today. Mr. Townsend was a son of A. M. Townsend, the agent in this city of the Hongkong and Shanghai banking corporation. He was born in England in 1879 and was educated in one of the English universities. A little over a year ago he was appointed as one of the student interpreters at the British Legation at Pekin. He was in the British Legation throughout its siege by the Chinese, and was severely wounded. When the city was relieved he was one of the first to make the trip to Tien Tsin by boat. His constitution being weakened by his wound, he contracted typhoid fever before reaching the coast. He was taken at once to the naval hospital at Yokohama, where he died yesterday.

Various Opinions Regarding Price of Steel Rails.

Some railroad officers say that the reduction in the price of steel rails from $35 to $26 a ton is not enough and that the new price is still too high to induce the railroads to become large purchasers. Others, however, are inclined to accept the new rate without much quibbling. President Fink of the Norfolk and Western said: "We will buy our rails as we need them, independent of the price. We bought last year at $35 and we will buy this year at $26 without waiting for lower prices. The truth is, we don't object to paying reasonably high prices for steel, though of course we don't want to pay too high, for the steel and iron business is the best barometer of the country's business that we have. If these products command good prices you may rest assured that general business is good."

Establishing Home for Old Men, Once Wealthy.

Men who have made and lost fortunes may soon have a home in Poughkeepsie. Richard B. Ferris, who for fifty years has been Vice President of the Bank of New York, and who manages the $250,000 fund established by the late Samuel M. Pringle for a Pringle memorial home for aged men, has been negotiating for a week for the purchase of the mansion on Academy street, Poughkeepsie, which was built by the late Oliver T. Beard. A lawyer from this city representing Mr. Ferris says that the arrangements for the purchase of the mansion and for the maintenance of the home for men, once wealthy, now poor, are practically completed. The late Samuel M. Pringle was register and teller of the Bank of New York for forty-one years, having succeeded his father, who had been teller of that bank for forty years.

Louis Bell, a Wall street broker, offered to wager today $100,000 to $50,000 that McKinley would be elected. There was an abundance of 2 to 1 McKinley money in sight today. Mr. Bell's offer involves more money than any single bet during the present campaign.

Another Stock Brokerage Firm Goes Under.

The failure of Egbert Mills & Co. of 2 Wall street was announced on the floor of the Stock Exchange shortly after noon today. The firm consisted of Egbert Mills, the board member, and S. K. Mitchell. The copartnership was formed on May 11 last year. Mr. Mills said that the liabilities of the firm were about $250,000. It was a suspension, he said, not an assignment. He said he expected to resume busiess in a short time. The cause of the suspension, he said, was that he was "long" in the market and his customers did not respond promptly to calls for margins. The sales under the rule for the account of the failed firm were about 4,000 shares.

Kentucky Being Fitted for Service in Chinese Waters.

With all the guns of its main battery aboard, the massive steel battleship Kentucky crossed the bar at Sandy Hook today, and is now at the Brooklyn navy yard. As soon as the greatest fighting machine in the American navy has been completely fitted out it will sail for China to join the United States fleet, the most formidable ever collected in Oriental waters. The Kentucky will carry a full complement of officers and men.

First O'Brien, in Torpedo Boats, Launched.

First of the United States naval vessels to bear an Irish name, the torpedo boat O'Brien, resplendent in a coat of green, was launched today at the Nixon ship yard in Elizabeth, N. J. Miss Myra Lincoln O'Brien of Philadelphia, a direct descendant of the revolutionary hero for whom the boat was named, christened the new vessel. The launching of the O'Brien marks another step in the consummation of the government plan of perpetuating the names of the more prominent figures in the American revolution. The new torpedo boat is 175 feet long, 17 feet beam, and is of 165 tons displacement. It will carry a crew of sixty officers and men.

ARE RESCUED BY LIFE-SAVERS.

Robert Meihle and Fred Gensmer Have an Exciting Experience on Lake Michigan.

Robert Meihle, 1408 Addison avenue, and Fred Gensmer, a Rogers Park fisherman, were caught in a strong breeze while in a sailboat on Lake Michigan yesterday, which came near costing their lives. When out several miles the strong wind with the shifting of ballast caused the vessel to become unmanageable. In addition to this both men became seasick.

After drifting about for an hour, Meihle took off his shirt and hoisted it to the top of the mast as a signal of distress. The signal was noticed by a lookout at the United States Life Saving Station at Evanston and the crew was immediately sent out. The two men were taken aboard the lifeboat and the crew returned to shore with the sailboat in tow.

It was some time before Meihle and Gensmer recovered from their attack of seasickness and were able to return home. The sailboat which they used is an old vessel and was at one time used as a steam launch.

GUN BURSTS UNDER TEST.

MYSTERY IN ACCIDENT AT SANDY HOOK PROVING GROUNDS.

Blank Charge Is Used When the Six-Inch Field Piece Is Wrecked—Officers Suggest Deterioration of the Powder as the Reason and Hint at the Probability of Serious Disaster from the Same Cause—Details of the Report Are Not Given to the Public.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, }
Washington, D. C., Sept. 24. }

Mystery in Bursting of Gun Under Test.

A gun burst in a test at the army proving grounds at Sandy Hook, N. J., Sept. 12, but of the incident nothing has been disclosed by the ordnance officers stationed at that place or those on duty in the army ordnance office in this city. There need not be so much mystery about the event, say other army officers, especially as the circumstance is in every way remarkable. Under ordinary conditions the destruction of a gun at the proving ground would be the subject of some kind of report, the gist of which would be divulged by the military authorities here, but in the present instance nothing appears to be vouchsafed.

The gun was a three-inch fifteen-pounder field piece of the Briggs-Seabury pattern, fitted with Tompkins mechanism. It probably was being proof-fired. A blank charge was used, when the gun burst beyond repair. It is unusual, say ordnance officers, for a gun to be injured under such circumstances. If a projectile had been in the gun it might have been impossible for gases to escape, but with a blank charge the gases have a chance to emerge through the muzzle. For this reason the bursting of the gun perplexes the ordnance experts.

The reports received in Washington are evidently of such a nature as to warrant their contents being regarded as confidential. It is suggested by some of the artillery officers that the powder used was of deteriorated character, such as is discovered in army ammunition. If this be the case it is a serious matter, since it hints at greater disasters in actual firing of the guns. It is likely there will be an investigation into the incident.

Novel Experiment to Learn Speed of Projectiles.

Naval ordnance officers are prepared to make experiments with a six-inch gun. It is proposed to bore holes through the tube of the gun and affix pressure gauges, which shall record the pressure and velocity of a projectile in transit through the gun. This will furnish some valuable information regarding the shell before it leaves the gun and after it has been fired. The facts are now matters of theory, and it will serve an important technical end if the conditions of the shell can be ascertained while it is still in the gun tube. The tests are awaited with much interest, as they are the first of the kind to be conducted by ordnance experts anywhere.

Big Stock of Coal to Be Kept at Narragansett.

Arrangements are being made by the Navy department for the equipment of a big coaling station in Narragansett Bay. The station will have facilities for handling and storing about 30,000 tons of fuel. The complaint is made that at most of the temporary stations along the coast there are no adequate methods of coaling ships of war. It is a serious problem confronting the naval officers who have to do with the coaling of ships. There is much delay in handling coal and the apparatus at most places is of the old type.

It is likely the Secretary of the Navy will give his consideration to a plan for coaling at sea, a scheme which has been tested with some of the naval ships. The plan contemplates using colliers, under steam, which shall tow the ships being coaled and save the fuel of the latter without interfering with their progress. The constructors have a device which may be attached to colliers so as to admit of supplying fuel to naval vessels while they are under way.

The plans for the coaling station at Frenchman's Bay, on the coast of Maine, are being altered. The bids for the work recently received have been rejected on account of the excessive cost involved.

On Oct. 1 the official trial trip of the battleship Wisconsin will occur. The ship, which was recently completed at the Union iron works in San Francisco, has left the Mare Island Navy Yard for the Puget Sound, where it will be docked.

WARSHIP PLATE FAILS IN TEST.

Sample of Lot Made for Two Vessels Proves Defective—Retrial to Be Allowed.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—A sample plate of a series of plates for the protective decks of the cruisers Chattanooga and Cleveland failed to stand the required test at Indian Head today. It was subjected to the fire of a six-inch gun at an angle of nine degrees, and was completely shattered. About 120 tons of steel were in the lot of which the plate was a sample, and ordinarily the collapse of the plate would mean the rejection of the lot. But as the sample selected was the worst plate to be found in the lot another trial may be allowed. The breaking up of the plate, it is said, indicates that the treatment of the plate was not uniform.

WILL SEND DUNTON TO CHICAGO

United States Marshal Decides Preliminary Hearing Unnecessary—Union National Bank Sues for $15,000.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 24.—William B. Dunton did not have a preliminary hearing today before United States Commissioner Garrett. Morgan Treat, United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Virginia, decided a hearing unnecessary, and the alleged defaulter will be sent to Chicago for trial in a day or two, as soon as the papers necessary for his removal are received. Dunton is a physical and mental wreck, and it is feared by some that his mind may give way before he is placed on trial.

Suit for the recovery of $15,000 has been brought in the Circuit Court against William B. Dunton by the Union National Bank, where he was formerly employed. The papers filed in the court and signed by the chief clerk of the bank, Moses D. Witkowski, declare that Dunton is indebted to the bank in the sum of $11,000 for money belonging to the bank, embezzled and taken by him.

FROM WHEEL INTO HOT WATER.

Murray Meere, Aged 3, Meets Death in Evanston by Running Into a Tub with His Velocipede.

Murray Meere, the 3-year-old son of Mrs. Hattie Meere, 1815 Ridge avenue, Evanston, died last night at the Evanston Hospital from falling into a tub of scalding water. He ran against the tub while riding a velocipede in the house. The impact threw him into the tub. The mother was washing and had the tub on the floor in a back room. She stepped out for a moment, when she heard the boy scream. She rushed back into the room and found him climbing out of the tub. He died about five hours after the accident.

CONVICTS IN JOLIET CENSUS.

Prison Town Finds Its Total Increased by Penal Institution Outside the Corporate Limits.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 24.—The citizens of Joliet were disappointed today to learn that the census figures included 1,367 prisoners in the penitentiary, although that institution is not within the city limits. This cuts Joliet's population from 30,720 to 29,353. The prison figures appear in the total for the Sixth Ward, which is a mile from the prison. An investigation is under way.

BATTLESHIPS IN MIMIC WARFARE.

Squadron Attacks Defending Fleet, Supported by Land Batteries, and Loses.

CONTEST RAGES FIERCELY

SMALLER CRAFT EFFECTIVE

Newport, R. I., Sept. 25, 1 a. m.—Cloaked by darkness, a hostile squadron, made up of the battleships Kearsarge and Indiana and the gunboats Eagle and Scorpion, together with six torpedo boats, attacked a fleet made up of the Massachusetts, the New York, the Vicksburg, and Leyden, supported by the land batteries, off Newport last night. From what can be seen at this hour (Tuesday morning), through the smoke that overhangs the bay after the battle, the defending squadron was triumphant.

Captain Folger of the Kearsarge commanded the attacking craft, and Admiral N. M. Farquhar directed the defenders. The maneuvers, all of which commenced at 9:45, and lasted nearly three hours, was in reality a night battle, to test the effectiveness of an attacking squadron, aided by torpedo boats, against a naval force aided by shore batteries, in which the searchlights for the time being were used in place of shells.

Searchlight in Place of Shells.

If a torpedo boat could come within range of the searchlight of one of the hostile ships without discovery it would fire a red rocket, putting the man-of-war out of service, as the rocket signified the opportunity of blowing it up.

If, on the other hand, a battleship got an opposing craft within range of its light and was able to keep that vessel under its rays for the required time, the battleship's victory was shown by a blue rocket.

The preparations for the mock sea fight were carried out in detail to the extreme, with as much attention almost as if a real fight were impending. Every man was at his post, the guns ashore and afloat were manned, and there was great anxiety on the part of the defenders as the first faint trace of the foe was discerned coming out of the darkness.

The defenders had watched for several hours when the roar of an attacking gun awoke the echoes which rolled back from the Jamestown shore, and in quick succession came the heavy boom of a large caliber gun, and then the short metallic ring of light ordnance, the flashes and thunder telling the hundreds of civilian spectators on shore that the attacks had begun and that the port defenders were ready to repel the enemy.

Two Torpedo Boats Sneak Through.

The incoming squadron attempted to pass Fort Adams and Fort Wetherill, which defend the east channel, and Fort Preble on the west. The torpedo boats Gwynn and Rodgers did succeed in passing Fort Preble in safety under cover of darkness. The Gwynn got within the range of the Massachusetts' searchlight and had signaled that the battleship was out of action, when the Vicksburg in turn rendered useless the smaller craft. Then the Rodgers figuratively blew the Vicksburg out of the water.

Only the Rodgers Afloat.

Thus for over two hours the battle raged, and, owing to the vigilance of the defending force, only the torpedo boat Rodgers remained in action.

The decision as to the victor will come from a Board of Arbitration appointed to judge the battle by the points scored by each individual ship. The defending squadron is generally believed to be successful, for the reason that the shore batteries and assisting squadron repelled the attack and left only one of the hostile boats afloat.

BARONESS VON SCHUTZBAR, CHICAGO GIRL, THE VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS ROBBERY.

Wife of Chamberlain to German Emperor Reports Loss of $2,000 Worth of Jewelry—Strange Story of Her Trip to America.

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Police are investigating what they declare to be one of the most mysterious diamond robberies ever committed in this city. The victim is the Baroness Rosita von Schutsbar, wife of Baron Rudolph Edward von Schutzbar, chamberlain to the Emperor of Germany.

The Baroness, who is an attractive young woman, was married to the Baron in Chicago in June, 1896. She is the daughter of Colonel C. H. Marston of Chicago.

The Baroness von Schutzbar arrived in this city from Germany on Sept. 1. She went to the Murray Hill Hotel, where she was joined by her father and her sister, Mrs. Maude Asay of Grand Rapids, Mich. They remained there a few days and then took an apartment at 51 East Fifty-ninth street. Three days after their arrival there Colonel Marston and Mrs. Asay left for the West.

The Baroness reported to the police last Friday that she had been robbed of a diamond studded gold watch, a gold purse, and other jewelry valued at $2,000.

"I will not remain at this place any longer," said the Baroness. The same day an employé of the Murray Hill Hotel called at the Fifty-ninth street apartments and took the Baroness and her trunks to the hotel.

The police have since conducted an investigation, but have failed to throw any light on the mystery. Meyer, the apartment janitor, informed the police that the Baroness had told him that she came to this country because her husband was about to fight a duel with a well known German nobleman.

MAY NOT BUILD THE BRIDGES.

Drainage Board to Withdraw Its Offer if City Does Not Soon Indorse the Plans.

Unless the City Engineering department promptly approves the plans for the new bascule bridge at Canal street the Drainage board will rescind its offer to build five modern lift bridges over the Chicago River for the benefit of navigation. Thus far every plan prepared has been objected to, or if tacitly agreed to has been loaded down with conditions which the board declares would be impossible to accept. As a result, no progress in the construction of bridges has been made since last March.

The first bridge selected to be rebuilt was the one at Canal street. The Drainage board, in order to expend its funds for bridges and come within the law, found it necessary to design the structures so as to increase the capacity of the river. With this end in view it was decided to build bypasses in the rear of each of the end abutments. The plans for the bridge were prepared and forwarded to the city for approval. In a few days they were returned with word that the bypass feature of the side abutments was objectionable. It was suggested that the Drainage board guarantee the end piers of the foundations for a period of years.

Cancer

There are never any external signs of Cancer until the blood is polluted and the system thoroughly contaminated by this deadly virulent poison. Then a sore or ulcer appears on some part of the body; it may be small and harmless looking at first, but as the cancerous cells form and are deposited by the blood near the sore, it increases in size and severity, with sharp shooting pains. No matter how often the sore is removed by the surgeon's knife or flesh destroying plasters, another comes and is worse. The real disease is in the blood, and the treatment must begin there. The poisoned blood must be invigorated and purified, and when this is done cancerous cells can no longer form and the sore will heal naturally and permanently.

Mrs. Sarah M. Keesling, 921 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., writes: "I am 41 years old, and for three years had suffered with a severe form of Cancer on my jaw, which the doctors said was incurable, and that I could not live more than six months. I accepted their statement as true, and had given up all hope of ever being well again, when my druggist, knowing of my condition, recommended S. S. S. After taking a few bottles the sore began to heal, to the surprise of the physicians and in a short time made a complete cure. I have gained in flesh, my appetite is splendid, sleep is refreshing—in fact, am enjoying perfect health.

SSS overcomes this destructive poison and removes every vestige of it from the system, makes new, rich blood, strengthens the body and builds up the general health.

If you have a suspicious sore, or have inherited any blood taint, send for our free book on Cancer, and write to our medical department for any information or advice wanted; we make no charge for this service. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention, and will be held in strictest confidence.

MOB MOVES ON WORKING MINE.

Strikers from McAdoo March to Derringer with Sheriff's Posse in Pursuit.

BATTLE MAY BE RESULT.

It is reported tonight that there is a possibility of the strike spreading to the soft coal fields. An agent of the bituminous mine workers reached Shenandoah today to investigate the report that soft coal was being sent into this region to supply the shortage caused by the anthracite strike. Labor men declare if it is found soft coal has been sent here every union miner in the offending bituminous field will go on strike.

Thousands Mourn Riot Victim.

Five thousand miners today attended the funeral of John Choyenski, the Shenandoah striker killed in Friday's riot, and over his open grave swore not to return to work till their cause had triumphed. The little Polish cemetery, that seemed to cling to the mountain side, was crowded with men. They had marched for an hour through the town, four abreast, with the precision of soldiers. Then they had followed the hearse and robed priest to the graveyard. The ceremonies were simple, but the scene impressive. In groups of 100 they crowded bareheaded around the grave, while the earth was being thrown, vowing to remain steadfast till the operators surrendered.

Father Matulaitis and Father Kronstankiewicz, the Polish priests of Shenandoah, called on General Gobin today and urged that the troops be withdrawn. They pledged themselves to restrain their countrymen from all disorder. General Gobin told them the troops would remain till the Sheriff said they were needed no longer.

Local Authorities Oust Soldiers.

At McAdoo, however, the military bowed to the will of the authorities. When Lieutenant Colonel Hutchison led three companies into that town early this morning he encountered Burgess McGeehan. Mr. McGeehan declared the Lieutenant Colonel must withdraw and withdraw he did. Thereafter McAdoo, the turbulent, enjoyed a day of peace.

Shenandoah is to be shorn of a part of its glory by the troops. Because of the scarcity of water, General Gobin has found it impossible to secure good camping ground for all his men, and a regiment will be sent to Mahanoy City. There are several large collieries there whose owners are pleased at the idea. As soon as the camp is established another effort will be made to resume mining operations.

Today and tonight miners' meetings were held at Lattimer, Beaver Meadow, and wherever the strike leaders think men are at work. They declare that within a day or two these last strongholds of the operators will be taken and 140,000 miners will be idle in Pennsylvania. Today's gain they estimate at 1,800.

National Organizer George Harris addressed a crowd of 2,500 strikers at Mount Carmel this morning, and 5,000 more heard him talk at Shenandoah in the afternoon.

Operator Arms His Employes.

Considerable excitement was caused at Shenandoah this morning when a crowd of 200 strikers surrounded a miner on his way to work and ordered him to go home. The guard was called out and the crowd dispersed. The incident, however, caused much anxiety. J. C. McGinnis, the Keely Run Captain, at once armed all their employés. "We will fight if necessary," the mine boss told his men. "When I fire you fire, and fire to kill."

An hour later word came from Gerrardville that a riot was in progress there. The cavalry troop started at a gallop that took them to the village in quick time, but found no disturbance there.

Archbishop to Meet Employers.

In regard to the efforts of Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia to bring about a settlement through arbitration, Mr. Mitchell said:

"Archbishop Ryan will call upon the Presidents of the various railroads which have mining interests in this region, at the request of the United Mine Workers, and will tender his good offices in the struggle. If the officials refuse to meet his grace, it will certainly demonstrate their insincerity in publicly declaring their willingness to treat with their men, and will place them in the same position as that once occupied by Mr. Vanderbilt, who forcibly said that the public had no interests which a corporation was bound to respect."

When Mr. Mitchell was asked if the striking miners had received any benefits from the United Mine Workers of America since the strike was inaugurated, he simply said "No."

Two Collieries Abandoned.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 24.—Three hundred mules were taken from the Reliance and Alaska mines of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company today, and sent to the Schuylkill County corral. The company gave notice to 2,500 men and boys employed at the operations previous to the strike that unless they returned to work by Saturday the collieries will be abandoned for a lengthy period. The strikers claim the order was given out with the view of scaring them into the mines before the termination of the strike. They say they will remain idle, regardless of the order.

Gompers Predicts Victory.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 24.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was here tonight to deliver an address on labor at the fall festival, which is now in progress at Music Hall. He was pronounced in his opinion that the anthracite strikers will win.

GOTHAM PRICE AGAIN RAISED.

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The most striking feature of the local coal situation today was the advance of $1 per ton on pea and buckwheat coal. This advance was general, and affects the steam trade, which hitherto has been supplied by the large retailers at prices prevailing previous to the strike. The prices quoted today were $4.50 a ton for pea coal and $4 a ton for buckwheat.

"In my opinion, even with the strike over, the price of coal will not be greatly reduced," said J. Samuel Smoot today. "I doubt whether it will get much lower than $5.75 or $6 per ton all winter."

GOVERNOR CANNOT INTERFERE.

Pleas for Arbitration in Miners' Strike Sent to Executive Find Him Unable to Act.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—Governor Stone received telegrams today from Chicago, Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, and numerous other cities urging him to use his good offices in the interest of adjusting the differences between the mine operators and their employés in the anthracite region. There is no provision of the State constitution authorizing the Executive to exercise any such power and Governor Stone is without a remedy to bring the results desired by the senders of the telegrams.

WILLIAM C. LYON, WHO DIED YESTERDAY.

TRY TO LEAVE COUNCIL.

PLUMBERS SEEK WITHDRAWAL FROM CENTRAL BODY.

Members of Union Meet Defeat in Attempt to Leave Building Trades—Labor Leaders Concede Edward Carroll's Deposition from Plasterers' Delegation—Steamfitters Appoint New Business Agent—Ornamental Glassworkers Go on Strike.

Members of the Plumbers' union sought last night to withdraw from the Building Trades council and try their fortunes as an independent organization. A delegate who wished to return to work without being assailed by the doubts of the master plumbers that he would not retain his position made the motion to withdraw. His action was assailed by a volley of protests, but received a second. Another delegate promptly arose to lay the motion on the table, and when President Clinch put the question it was carried by a strong majority.

The attempt of the plumbers to pull out of the central body was a surprise. The conflict, which has cut short operations in the building market for almost a year, was caused by differences between the plumbers and their employers, and this fact has kept them loyal to President Carroll throughout the fight.

Carroll's Withdrawal Conceded.

The withdrawal of Edward Carroll from the delegation appointed to represent the Plasters' union by President Irons is now conceded, and his prospective successor at the head of the central body is being discussed. William G. Schardt of the Carpenters' union is expected to be the new President. Mr. Schardt was a candidate for the Presidency when Mr. Carroll was elected in July, and his defeat is said to have been due entirely to expediency.

Elect New Business Agent.

Charles Rau was elected business agent of the Steamfitters' union last night, to succeed James Daley, who declined to stand for reëlection because of his candidacy for County Commissioner. The union authorized the new business agent to visit the employers and arrange for the members to return to work under union conditions without an agreement. This action is expected to give many of the men work for a few months before the season closes.

Glassworkers Strike.

Two hundred ornamental glass workers went on a strike yesterday because of the refusal of the manufacturers to sign the union agreement. The manufacturers contend they are willing to sign the agreement, provided other firms within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago recognize the union in a similar manner. The union men did not seem to be inclined to ask employers outside of Chicago to unionize their shops, and the proposition fell through. Some of the firms signed the union agreement and the men went to work as usual today. The firms which continued work are: The Clinton Glass company, Mandel Bros., Hugo Eberhardt, Gianini & Hilgart, Misch & Artmaier, John Langa, Mitchell & Helbash, Brandt & Co., Walter Helmerich, Adolph Leindecker, and W. O. Ebert. Among the large firms who refused to sign are: Flanagan & Biedenweg, Hooker & Co., Kinsella & Co., Ford Bros., Neuhauaser & Co., Suess Ornamental Glass company, Linden Glass company, Louis Millett, and Crossman & Sturdy. At these places no work was done yesterday.

COAL MEN TO ADVANCE PRICE.

Wholesalers Discuss Increase on Rates for Soft and Smokeless Fuel Going Into Effect on Oct. 1.

Representatives of several leading coal firms met yesterday afternoon at the office of the Sunday Creek Coal company in the Ellsworth Building to discuss the advance that will be made in soft and smokeless coal Oct. 1. West Virginia and Ohio coal, which is recognized as the principal substitute for hard coal in emergencies, will be advanced from $2.75 to $3 per ton wholesale. On the retail market this coal has been bringing $4 and $4.50. It is claimed that this advance is made every fall, and that it is not the intention of coal men to force the public to pay a penalty because the hard coal market is short.

"I did not attend the meeting," said W. S. Bogle, President of the Crescent Coal and Mining company, "and do not think it is the desire of the bituminous coal dealers to demand a higher price for their coal. A slight advance in soft coals is made every year, and this doubtless is the change that is in prospect."

An advance of 50 cents per ton on hard coal is predicted tomorrow. Wholesale men deny that this will take place, but the retail coal men insist that they must pay more for their supply than they did before the price was advanced to $7 per ton, and they purpose to get even in some way, even if the customer must suffer.

"I have heard of no change in the price of hard coal," said J. C. Ryan of W. P. Rend & Co., "but if the strike continues the price is bound to advance and to become practically prohibitive to the average consumer. He will have to resort to the use of smokeless coal, which he will find cheaper, if not quite so satisfactory. If the strike continues for three weeks, as I think it will, the supply of hard coal in Chicago will be exhausted before the docks can be replenished, and were it ended tomorrow there would be little coal on the Chicago market by Oct. 15."

A telegram was sent to Governor Stone last night by the members of the First Congregational Church of Evanston asking him to use all possible means to bring the coal miners' strike to a settlement by arbitration. The telegram follows:

> By unanimous vote of the First Congregational Church of Evanston, Ill., you are respectfully requested to bring every proper influence to bear upon employers and employed to the end that the miners' strike may be settled by arbitration and the impending destruction of life and property averted.

A similar telegram was sent yesterday by the Oak Park Congregational Church.

DRIVEN TO ADMIT MURDER

REMORSE FORCES CONFESSION FROM JOHN RYAN.

Four and a Half Years Ago, Accompanied by Two Companions, He Threw a Cuspidor and Fatally Injured George Fetner, a Porter, During a Quarrel in a South Clark Street Resort—Gives Himself Up to Detectives at Central Police Station.

Driven by remorse which had been with him constantly during his sleeping and waking hours for almost five years, John Ryan went to the Central Police Station yesterday, and surrendered himself as a murderer. He approached Detective Sergeants Thompson and Morris in the corridors of the City Hall, and asked to be locked up.

"I can stand it no longer," he said. "I am going mad from this continual strain. Lock me up."

The man was taken to Chief of Detectives Colleran's office, and there explained that four and a half years ago during a quarrel in a resort at 443 South Clark street he hurled a cuspidor at George Fetner, a porter, which inflicted injuries that later resulted fatally.

Ever since the night of the assault Ryan says his conscience has been troubling him. At last to escape the torment he decided to give himself up.

On the night of Jan. 8, 1896, Ryan and two companions—William Jackson and Joseph Fanning, alias "Sky Red"—entered the place. Towards midnight a dispute arose, and in the quarrel that followed a cuspidor was hurled through the air and struck Fetner on the side of the head, inflicting severe gashes. At the time Ryan and his two companions made their escape and Fetner was taken to a hospital. He lingered there for some time, but finally succumbed to his injuries. The murder caused considerable excitement in the district, and every effort was made to apprehend the assailants.

At the time Fanning was arrested, but was later released.

"Three days after that night," Ryan said to Detectives Thompson and Morris, when he gave himself up, "I left for Howard, Mich. From there I went to Saginaw. Two weeks later, however, I returned to Chicago and have been here ever since. I have met Fanning on one occasion since that night, but I have never seen Jackson."

GYPSIES IN CAMP DOWN-TOWN.

Large Band Crosses Lake from St. Joe and Awaits Reinforcements Before Resuming Journey.

More than a hundred gypsies camped on Dock street, near the Graham & Morton steamboat landing last night. They arrived from St. Joseph, Mich., at 11 o'clock on the City of Louisville. At 4 o'clock this morning they were to be joined by about seventy-five more of the tribe, who were to come on the City of Milwaukee from St. Joseph.

All the women and babies were loaded on the wagons of the band, which was under the command of General Superintendent John Arondo. He lined the wagons up on the east side of the street, the forty horses were tied on the west side, and the tribe occupied the middle of the thoroughfare. Before the last wagon was off the boat several of the women were visiting business-houses asking to read fortunes.

Arondo, the Captain, said that they were from Detroit. As soon as the rest of the tribe reaches Chicago, he said, they would proceed to the gypsy camp at Fortieth and Kedzie avenues. Soon they would begin their journey South.

CLERGY ASK FOR ARBITRATION.

Chicago Methodist Preachers Want Striking Miners and Operators to Get Together.

Without a dissenting vote the Chicago Methodist preachers' meeting passed the following resolution favoring arbitration as a means of settling the big Pennsylvania miners' strike yesterday morning:

> Resolved, That it is the sense of the Chicago Methodist preachers' meeting that the question between the operators and the coal miners in the State of Pennsylvania should be submitted to arbitration for settlement.

Secretary Mattison was directed to send copies of the resolution to President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers and Governor Stone of Pennsylvania.

The Rev. M. M. Parkhurst said: "If the operators can unite for mutual protection, why should the miners not be allowed the same privilege? The railroad companies, I understand, are pulling with the operators."

FILES STRIKE SUIT APPEAL.

Memories of the railroad strike of 1894 were revived yesterday when the appeal of the City of Chicago against the Pennsylvania railroad's judgment of $2,792 was filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. This is the old suit for damages which was started by the railroad company on account of the destruction of its cars at Grand Crossing on July 6, 1894.

Ald. McCormick Claims an Alibi.

Alderman J. J. McCormick, whose name was published as being present at the dogfight on Saturday in Blue Island where two men were shot by Joseph Farmer, denies he was present at the fight. "I think my name was given by some of my enemies," said the Alderman. "I was not out of my place of business Saturday."

Hahnemann Medical College will open this evening with a program of addresses and music. Among the speakers will be the President, Dr. George F. Shears, Dr. A. L. Blackwood, and Dr. E. Stillman Bailey.

WILLIAM C. LYON IS DEAD.

PROMINENT CITIZEN AND CLUBMAN EXPIRES.

Heart Disease Ends Former Board of Trade Member's Career—Joined His Father in Business When 16 Years Old—Engaged in Railroad Enterprises—Liking for Bohemian Life Manifested by Interest in Theatrical People—Joseph Jefferson's Friend.

William C. Lyon, a former member of the Board of Trade, and for twenty-five years an active member of the Chicago club, died yesterday of heart disease at his residence, 262 Michigan avenue. He had suffered with the disease for two years. His illness becoming serious during the last two months, he was confined to his home most of the time, where his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Lyon's long career with the Board of Trade and his interest in politics, club life, and actors won for him many friends. He was the son of John B. Lyon, known in commercial circles forty years ago for his corn deals.

The funeral will take place from the residence tomorrow at 2 p. m. The services, which will be private, will be conducted by the Rev. William J. Chichester. Burial will be at Graceland Cemetery.

Mr. Lyon attributed his early connection with the Board of Trade to his inability to enter a university. He was born at Conneaut, O., on Dec. 15, 1852. He came to Chicago seven years later. On completing his early education, because of his youth he was refused admission to a university. At the age of 16 years he joined his father in business in the capacity of an office boy. Several years later he was made a partner with his father, his youth winning for him the name of the "boy speculator."

Was Interested in Railroads.

In 1871 Mr. Lyon joined George J. Brine as senior partner in the firm of Lyon & Brine. He was engaged later in railroad interests. For several years he was General Manager of the Springfield, Effingham and Southeastern railroad, residing then at Sullivan, Ill. With the absorption of the road by the Illinois Central he entered extensively into the railroad business, and until ten years ago was interested in the building of roads in Illinois. Mr. Lyon had financial interest in the system of turnstiles in use at the World's Fair. While declining to hold any political office Mr. Lyon was an active worker as a Republican in the politics of the First Ward.

Liked Bohemian Life.

Mr. Lyon's interest in the stage was said by himself to be due to his liking for bohemian life. He was a friend of Joseph Jefferson, and one of his claims was that he had been a witness behind the scenes during each of Mr. Jefferson's plays. Mr. Lyon was unmarried. He once said: "A man who has as strong a liking for club life and association among stage people as I have has no right to marry."

"Mr. Lyon's death will be mourned by all those who were active in the Board of Trade twenty-five years ago," said W. S. Crosby. "He was regarded as one of the most genial business-men on 'Change."

Mr. Lyon left a brother and three sisters. John B. Lyon Jr., his brother, is located in Idaho. The sisters are Mrs. Calvin Cobb, Mrs. W. P. Conger, and Mrs. R. W. Hammill. Mr. Lyon was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

DEATH OF VETERAN STOCKMAN.

Lewis R. Hastings Dies in Lubbock, Tex., from Apopletic Stroke Received Several Weeks Ago.

Lewis R. Hastings, a widely known stockman and old resident of Chicago, died in Lubbock, Tex., yesterday from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy received several weeks ago. He was 70 years old. Frank Hastings, a stockman of Essex, Ia., and the son of Mr. Hastings, attended his father and was at his bedside when the end came. The body will be brought to Chicago. The funeral is expected to be held from his late residence, Forty-third street and Union avenue. Burial will be at Oakwoods.

Mr. Hastings went to Texas a month ago to wind up the affairs of the stock firm of Gregory, Cooley & Hastings, which was dissolved at the time of the death of H. H. Cooley, a few weeks ago. Three members of the family survive Mr. Hastings. They are his eldest daughter, who is Mrs. John J. McRoberts, 4330 Emerald avenue; his son Frank, and an unmarried daughter, Carrie.

Lewis R. Hastings was born in Ohio in the year 1830. When still in his youth he went West, and there became known as an extensive shipper of cattle. He came to Chicago in the '60s, and received cattle here, trading at the Merrick Stock-Yards, then located on the South Side on the lake front. When the Union Stock-Yards were built he became a member of the firm of Gregory, Cooley & Hastings.

JOHN BUTLER, PIONEER, DIES.

Comes to Chicago in 1854 and Works for One Company Forty Years.

John Butler, aged 68 years, a pioneer resident of the city, died last evening at 8 o'clock at his residence, 425 West Harrison street.

Mr. Butler came to Chicago in 1854, and a few years later he entered the service of the Chicago Gaslight and Coke company. He completed forty years of service with this company about three years ago, when he was retired upon a pension. Most of the time he was foreman for the company and was known as "the man who knew every foot of pipe under ground on the South Side."

He was born in the northern part of Ireland, in 1832, and came to America when still a young man, settling first in New Jersey. He married in this city, his wife dying in 1883. He leaves three children, Thomas, Mary, and Maggie.

OBITUARY.

DR. PRESTON B. SCOTT, aged 68 years, of Louisville, Ky., a physician, and President of the Association of Physicians and Surgeons of the Confederate Army and Navy, died yesterday.

HOLDS LUNDIN TO GRAND JURY.

Court Hears Conspiracy Case and Recommends Investigation of Conduct of Lake County Officials.

Maurice Lundin, against whom the charge of conspiracy was preferred by Armin Benedek, 600 West Division street, was held to the grand jury under $500 bonds yesterday by Justice Miles Kehoe. The court also recommended that the conduct of George W. Lawrence, Sheriff of Lake County, Ind., and J. McAleer, Assistant Prosecutor of the same county, codefendants with Lundin, be investigated by the Cook County grand jury. Adolph Miller, a Chicago constable, implicated with the other defendants, was released by Justice Kehoe, who decided that Miller's connection with the case was entirely within the bounds of his official duty.

In summing up the case Justice Kehoe held that the evidence from first to last went to show that Lundin had acted with malice toward the complainant. He had secured his arrest and had had him taken to Indiana on extradition papers when both he and the accused were residents of Illinois, where the laws provide that a man can be tried wherever the property which he is supposed to have stolen is found.

Benedek was at one time in the employ of Lundin as interpreter in a business which the latter conducted in Hammond, Ind. He quit Lundin and engaged in a similar business on his own account, establishing offices in the Schiller Building. Lundin claims that Benedek carried away with him two or three dictionaries, Polish and Slavonic, and several letters which were valuable in the business in which he was engaged. The market value of the dictionaries was claimed by the complainant to be 20 cents each.

It was for the alleged theft of these articles that Benedek was arrested and taken to Indiana.

CLOSE EVIDENCE AGAINST SMITH.

Attorneys for State Prove Grain Shipped and Smith's Knowledge of It.

OWNERSHIP THE DEFENSE

LONG ARGUMENTS ARE MADE

The testimony for the State against Lloyd J. Smith was closed in Judge Holdom's court yesterday. Proof was offered that Mr. Smith knew that grain had been shipped from the elevator without the cancellation of receipts. The defense tried to show that this grain was the property of the Chicago Elevator company and that therefore the right to ship it existed. Much of the time was taken up in objections to questions and arguments between attorneys.

Smith Notified of Shipments.

W. H. Coleman, shipping clerk under Lloyd J. Smith's management of the elevator, testified that between April, 1899, and February, 1900, he had spoken repeatedly to Mr. Smith of the dangerous condition of affairs of the company, and had been told by Mr. Smith that he would have matters "fixed up." This was never done, however, said the witness.

James D. Keenan of A. O. Slaughter & Co. testified that his firm never had given a single order to the Chicago Elevator company for the shipment of No. 1 Northern spring wheat, the class alleged to have been sold illegally by Mr. Smith to I. M. Parr & Co. of Baltimore. Despite the fact, testified Mr. Keenan, that Slaughter & Co. had held the warehouse receipts for all the wheat described every bushel of it evidently had been shipped out of the possession of the Chicago Elevator company, as today Slaughter & Co. hold receipts for 140,965 bushels, of which there is not a kernel in either of the elevators of the company. The receipts, twenty-five in number, were introduced in evidence.

Grain Owned by Slaughter & Co.

Evidence was presented showing that the No. 1 Northern spring wheat stored in the elevators of the company during the summer of last year had been bought by A. O. Slaughter & Co. through a representative on the Board of Trade and had been transferred to the Chicago Elevator company's elevator. This, contended the attorneys for the State, indicated that Slaughter & Co. owned the grain, contrary to the assertion of Attorney Wing for the defense, who in his opening statement to the jury said he would prove that there never had been any wheat in the elevators of the company that had not been bought and owned by the company itself. It was also shown that on Jan. 16, 1900, Mr. Smith came into the offices of his company with Clerk Hawley of the State Registrar's office and in the presence of Shipping Clerk Coleman inquired as to the condition of the company's business. It was shown that at the time there were outstanding receipts to the amount of 700,000 bushels of wheat, while there were only 300,000 bushels in the company's possession.

Attorney Wing contended that the warehouse receipts, which were made out in the name of A. O. Slaughter & Co., were thus made out from business exigencies, Slaughter & Co. having in reality no title to the grain. The firm, alleged Attorney Wing, had acted all along as the bankers of the Chicago Elevator company, advancing money to buy wheat, and, perhaps, buying wheat for them, the title to the grain always being in the Chicago Elevator company. A. O. Slaughter & Co., said Mr. Wing, did not buy the wheat for themselves, never had bought wheat themselves for purposes of speculation, and never intended to engage in the business.

Claims Right to Ship the Grain.

"The fact of the situation was," said Attorney Wing, "that the shipments alleged to have been made illegally were shipments of grain owned by the Chicago Elevator company. Owning the grain, and having its title and custody, they had a perfect right to do whatsoever they wanted with it."

"Had those circumstances really existed," replied Judge Holdom, "I cannot conceive how Mr. Smith would ever have been brought into this court."

Attorney Wing took the position that the grain, being in reality owned by the Chicago Elevator company, their right to ship it at their pleasure was incontestable. This statement was attacked by Attorney Barnes for the State, who cited a decision of the Supreme Court in a case in which the holder of a warehouse receipt for grain knew at the time he accepted and advanced money upon it that the grain had been shipped from the warehouse. It was held that the holder could recover because the warehouse receipt, being negotiable, might have been sold to an innocent third party.

Court Rules for State.

"This case is well cited," said Judge Holdom, commenting on the position taken by the attorney for the State. "It makes no difference if the Chicago Elevator company really owned the grain and never had borrowed a cent on it, the fact that they had issued a negotiable warehouse receipt for that grain should have restrained its shipment. At any moment A. O. Slaughter & Co. might have sold those warehouse receipts to a third party, who was entitled to present them to the Chicago Elevator company and demand immediate delivery."

Near the close of the session Mr. Wing read a lengthy decision rendered by Judge Tuley in 1896 which stated that warehousemen had no right to mix grain of their own with that of patrons storing with them. Mr. McEwen then read an act of the Legislature passed in 1897, on account of Judge Tuley's decision, which gives warehousemen the right to mix the grain as described.

WRECKED IN LAKE SUPERIOR.

Steamer St. Andrews Strikes Rocks at Passage Island—Crew Rescued After Hard Struggle.

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Captain Featherstonhaugh and the crew of the steamer St. Andrew, which was wrecked on Thursday night off Passage Island, Lake Superior, have arrived here en route for their homes. The steamer ran hard on the rocks at Passage Island, two miles out of its course. Three of the crew were able to jump ashore. Soon after a big sea swept over the vessel, and in the receding wave it was carried out fully a hundred feet, where it sank in deep water. There were thirteen of the crew aboard, who held on to the bulwarks, and for four hours the seas broke over them.

A fisherman on the island notified the Captain of the tug Georgina, who went to the rescue. Captain Featherstonhaugh and his crew were brought off and taken to Port Arthur.

SCHOOL OF LIFE SEEKS A HOME.

Dr. H. W. Thomas Finds It Difficult to Find Suitable Quarters for His Proposed Church Club.

A suitable location and rooms in which to establish the "School of Life" in connection with the People's Church are being sought by Dr. H. W. Thomas, the pastor. Dr. Thomas and a number of the members of his church yesterday visited a number of the down-town buildings, but could find none that would serve. The offices they inspected were either too small to accommodate a large number or did not have a lecture-room, which is needed.

NEEDS OF GALVESTON PEOPLE.

Sufferers Want New Clothing, Cots, and Bedding More than Anything Else—Money Contributed.

Constant communication is kept up between the Chicago Relief committee and the Galveston Relief committee. Commissioner of Health Reynolds wired to Chairman W. A. McVitie on Saturday afternoon for additional information as to what was most needed. A few hours later a telegram was received, stating that care was being taken of 550 sick and wounded, that about 16,000 persons were needy and destitute, and that new cots, shoes, clothing, and bedding were needed.

Central Church, Dr. Gunsaulus	$180
Second Baptist Church	53
John Owen, Treasurer Oakwood Union Evangelical Church	10
Church of the Redeemer	44

Mrs. J. W. Northrop, in charge of the Wabash avenue receiving depot, is constantly receiving supplies, such as are needed, and could take care of a great deal more if they were sent to her. The amount of clothing that has passed through her hands amounts to nearly $20,000 in value.

An entertainment and ball for the benefit of the Galveston sufferers will take place tonight at Aurora Hall, Milwaukee avenue and Huron street, under the auspices of the Cracker Jack Pleasure club.

GALVESTON'S LIST STILL GROWS

Latest Compilation Places Number of Fatalities at 3,859—Close Observers Consider It Too Low.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 24.—The list of dead from the storm of Sept. 8 now represents a total of 3,859 names. The indications are that not more than 4,000 people will be actually accounted for. It is thought that 800 or 1,000 people were lost whose names are not obtainable, which would make the total death list on Galveston Island about 5,000. Close observers, however, still insist that the complete list will be fully 7,000.

STREETS TOO ROUGH FOR MAIL.

Delay in Paving Reason for Removing Boxes on West Side—Residents Meet Tonight to Protest.

Colonel L. T. Steward, superintendent of the carrier division of the Postoffice, asserts that the removal of mail boxes from the district around Ashland boulevard and Polk street, which has met with angry protests from the residents of the vicinity, is on account of the condition of the streets. Boxes have been removed from many corners throughout the district, and employés of business houses and residents are forced to walk several blocks to deposit letters.

A meeting has been called for this evening at 716 West Polk street, to petition the postal authorities to replace the boxes.

"There is no intention of removing the boxes permanently, as asserted by the residents," said Colonel Steward. "Several streets in the district have been torn up for repaving, and are impassable to our collecting wagons. Our contracts, and the postal rules, call for a twenty-five-mile route by the wagons, and it is impossible to make collections from the boxes in that district without exceeding that distance. There is an inexplicable delay in the repairing of the roads, and as we could not increase our force of collectors, we were forced to remove the boxes. As soon as the streets are in a passable condition the boxes will be replaced."

UNIVERSITY MAY LOSE SEAL.

Princeton's President Suggests That Whisky Firm Can Charge Infringement of Its Patent Rights.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The fact, announced last week, that a Philadelphia distiller intends to use Princeton's seal as a trade mark for a brand of whisky, will be brought before the trustees for action. President Patton said: "Whether there is or is not a remedy I do not deem myself competent to say. The university seal will no doubt still serve to authenticate any document to which it is attached, unless, perchance, we should be sued by the whisky company for an infringement on patent rights."

Fined for Making His Children Beg.

Judge Gibbons took notice of an almost obsolete statute yesterday long enough to fine Michael Jandililie $20 and costs for sending minor children into the streets to beg. The defendant was arrested last May by the police. His two daughters, Josephine and Camilla, aged 9 and 11 years respectively, had been seen begging, and the father was taken in custody. This is the first fine imposed under this statute for many years.

M'KINLEY BEATS BRYAN ON A POLL.

Vote by Marshall Field & Co. Employes Shows Over 85 Per Cent Republican.

TEST A VOLUNTARY ONE.

Expression Regarded as Important Indication of Political Sentiment.

GET NEWS FROM THE WEST.

A poll of the wholesale department store of Marshall Field & Co. made yesterday shows that of the 1,000 employés of that establishment 85 1-10 per cent will vote for McKinley and 14 9-10 per cent for Bryan. The figures are:

For McKinley	851
For Bryan	149
Majority for McKinley	702

The poll was made by some of the employés of the house on their own account and for the purpose of satisfying some curiosity on how the employés stood politically. The management knew of it, but had nothing to do with it, and it was entirely a voluntary expression of the feelings of the employés.

The poll is regarded as of considerable importance, as Marshall Field & Co. has always been regarded as a Democratic house. Four years ago it gave McKinley a good majority, about the same which this poll indicates it will this year, but in 1892 it was almost unanimously for Cleveland, and has always numbered a majority of Democrats among its employés. Mr. Field, while never taking an active part in politics, has always been classed as a Democrat, but of the gold variety.

Polls from Western States.

Vice Chairman Payne of the Republican National committee said yesterday he had received some polls from Western States which convinced him that Kansas and Wyoming would surely be Republican this year. The poll of Wyoming showed every county in the State Republican, and in Kansas it predicted a fair-sized Republican majority. "From what I can learn," added Mr. Payne, "of conditions in Nebraska I think that State will go Republican also."

As to Colorado Mr. Payne said he had no good information, more than there were many changes from Bryan to McKinley. This last statement was corroborated at Democratic national headquarters by Congressman Shafrock of that State, who made his estimate to Chairman Jones of a majority for Bryan of 60,000 this year, or about 40 per cent what it was four years ago.

Fairbanks Thinks Nebraska Safe.

Senator Fairbanks of Indiana, who has been in the Western States carried by Bryan in 1896, brought back the same story. He reported that Kansas was surely Republican this year, and he thought Nebraska was also.

TWO NOONDAY MEETINGS HELD.

Yates Illinois Republican Club Begins Series at 107 Dearborn Street—Commercial McKinley Organization.

The noonday meetings of the Yates Illinois Republican club were inaugurated yesterday at the headquarters, 107 Dearborn street. Senator William E. Mason and Dewitt C. Jones were the speakers. Former Judge Lorin Collins was the chairman. Many persons were excluded on account of the limited space of the hall.

Senator Mason charged the Democratic party with trying to cloud the issues by bringing in imperialism and the trust question, and said:

"The only real issue of the country is whether it shall have a sound dollar."

He said the President had no power to give up an inch of territory in the Philippines. He ridiculed the idea of militarism.

Dewitt C. Jones said Bryan was trying to mislead the people on false issues. The government, he said, had nothing to apologize for, and the President's record was one of the strongest arguments for the campaign.

Isaac Miller Hamilton, J. W. Wilkerson, and H. R. Rambon will speak today, and a musical selection will be given by Chadwick's male quartet.

The great storeroom at 126 Market street, occupied by Commercial McKinley club No. 1, was packed when Treasurer F. F. Haigh called the noonday meeting to order. Hundreds who were unable to get seats stood in the aisles and back of the chairs, until there was not a foot of unoccupied space on the floor.

The speakers were Dr. T. W. Hanford, A. H. Hyman, secretary of the Marquette Club, and D. H. Paddock of Kankakee. Mr. Paddock stirred the audience with his simple, homely arguments in favor of the retention of the Republican party in power.

"It makes me mad when I hear a Democrat talking of trusts," said A. H. Hyman. "A party that has such men at its head as Clark, Daly, Croker, 'Bobby' Burke, and Carter Harrison ought not to mention trusts."

WILL USE THREE DOCUMENTS.

Republicans Rely on McKinley's Acceptance Letter, Tanner's Speech, and Hoar's Communication.

Only three campaign documents will be distributed among Chicago voters by the Republican County committee. President McKinley's letter of acceptance, Governor Tanner's speech delivered at Oswald's Grove last Saturday night, and Senator Hoar's letter to George S. Boutwell of Massachusetts comprise the list. The Executive committee decided yesterday that these papers cover the ground so thoroughly and present the case so convincingly that it is unnecessary to put out additional literature.

The question of registration was taken up by the County committee and plans were adopted to secure on Oct. 9, the first date for registering, as many names as possible enrolled. It is the intention to have arrangements completed for beginning the work on Oct. 5.

Interest from now on will be centered to some extent on the great rally of Oct. 27, when all of the uniformed organizations will be shown in a monster street parade and demonstration.

EX-GOVERNOR HOGG IN TOWN.

Comes to Take a Hand in the Campaign, He Says—Going to Make Speeches.

Ex-Governor J. S. Hogg of Texas arrived in Chicago at 9 o'clock last night, coming directly from his home in Austin. He went to the Auditorium Hotel, where Chairman Jones sought him out for a long interview. The Governor said he had come to take a hand in the campaign. He will go on the stump.

FINDS COAL DEALER INNOCENT.

City Sealer Satisfies Himself That J. R. Thornton, Accused of Selling Short Weight, Is Blameless.

City Sealer Quinn has satisfied himself that the charge against J. R. Thornton, coal dealer at 177 Ontario street, charged with selling short weight coal to Patrolman Clune of the Chicago Avenue Station, is innocent of the charge, and the case will be dismissed this morning by Justice Kersten. The scales at Mr. Thornton's yards were tested and found correct for loads not exceeding 4,000 pounds. On more than that there was a slight error, but not otherwise than would be detected in the average scale.

YATES AT WORK ALONG THE OHIO.

OLD SOLDIERS IN LINE.

RALLY HELD AT GOLCONDA.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Metropolis, Ill., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Judge Yates and Colonel Frank O. Lowden arrived here at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will devote several days to the river counties in the Cairo country. This was their initial meeting on the Ohio River. It had been well advertised, and one of the greatest crowds ever seen in Massac County welcomed the visitors. D. W. Helm, chairman of the County committee, acted as President of the day. A grand street demonstration was in waiting, and the speaking began immediately after, as a fifteen-mile carriage drive was necessary as soon as the public exercises were over, to get the party to Golconda, where Judge Yates and Secretary of State Rose spoke tonight.

Judge Yates spoke for twenty minutes at the afternoon meeting here, paying particular attention to the old soldiers in the audience, of whom there were many.

The more extended speech of the afternoon was made by Colonel Frank O. Lowden of Chicago, who accompanied the Judge through Egypt at his personal request. Colonel Lowden is one of the most effective speakers in the land. His methods are classical and at the same time most attractive.

Country Faces Grave Danger.

Colonel Lowden opened his remarks by the statement that the country was again confronted with its quadrennial danger, the possibility of Democratic success at the polls. He spoke of the disasters which had followed the election of Cleveland eight years ago and said these conditions were partially due to the incapacity of the Democratic party to rule. He continued:

"Four years afterward the Democrats were compelled to discover a new issue and free silver became the cry. A resonant voice swept in from the prairies which cried: 'If the Democratic party cannot create values, let it legislate values.' The boy orator of the Platte and the boy philosopher called 'Coin' in Harvey's immortal work, tolling in unison, evolved the theory that all our ills were attributable to the 'crime of '73.' Strange phenomenon, the deadliest crime against the people in history, its fruits not apparent, however, for almost a quarter of a century, and only then when the Democratic party was in supreme control. The people began to study the question, and the campaign, being one of education, was, as it always is, fatal to Democratic success."

Colonel Lowden went on: "Another four years have passed. The workingman rides in a car and no longer counts the ties. The enterprising farmer has paid off his mortgage and now owns one upon the home of some Populistic orator who would rather talk than work.

Bryan Among the Prosperous.

"No, my friends, calamity cannot be the watchword in this present campaign. When Bryan was first nominated he scheduled for taxation, jewelry $50, one horse $10. During the years of Republican rule, which since have intervened, he has acquired a fortune of $250,000 or more. As J. Sterling Morton says: 'Verily, his mouth has been a mint.' 'Jerry Simpson has become addicted to the soft luxury of socks.'"

Colonel Lowden then made the point that the first and foremost issue in the campaign is again the money question. He said: "The Democrats have declared that imperialism is the 'paramount issue.' As, however, their 'peerless leader' himself has said, 'It is the people and not conventions that make the paramount issue.'"

Colonel Lowden then briefly discussed the trust and other issues which the Democrats were proposing. His speech was applauded to the echo, and at its conclusion the audience was strenuous in its demand that he should continue, although the time had come for the departure for Golconda.

All day long at the stations, little and big, Judge Yates was greeted by thousands who wanted to shake hands with him and assure him of their good will and best wishes.

M'KINLEY'S POLICY PRAISED.

Congregational Ministers' Association Passes Resolutions of Sympathy and Approval.

Resolutions expressing unqualified approval of President McKinley's policy in China, sympathy for relatives and friends of unfortunate missionaries and their families, and demanding guarantees of proper protection to all missionaries and native Christians as well as compensation for all property destroyed were adopted by the Congregational Ministers' association at its meeting held yesterday in the lecture-room of the Y. M. C. A. Building. The resolutions were introduced by Dr. Simeon Gilbert, and concluded as follows:

We would make expression still further of our profound belief that these multiplied martyrdoms are not to be vain, and that somehow in God's own way out of all this agony and sorrow and all this worldwide agitation the total cause of Christian missions is to gain a measure of sympathetic attention such as it has never before received.

The Rev. F. A. Noble addressed the ministers on the "Forward Movement," in the course of which he referred to the great importance of enlarging the Christian forces both in China and other foreign countries and at home, saying, among other things:

"The politicians are talking up and down the line on the problem in the Orient, but that is nothing but the babble of the winds. All we hear is God's command to carry the gospel of truth and civilization into the dark continents of the earth."

Other speakers were the Rev. H. P. Perkins and the Rev. Edgar J. Penny of Tuskegee, Ala.

No Fusion in Sixth Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 24.—It is officially announced at Democratic State headquarters that there will be no fusion between the Democrats and Populists for Congressmen of the Sixth District of Kansas. The announcement was made after a futile conference of party leaders for the purpose of inducing one of the candidates to withdraw.

Nominated for Congress.

Political Notes.

Richard Croker denies that he is to be in the Cabinet if Bryan is elected.

Senator Quarles of Wisconsin addressed a Republican rally at Rockford, Ill.

The Democrats of the Third Congressional District of Louisiana yesterday nominated R. F. Broussard to succeed himself in Congress.

The Indiana State Republican committee's poll of the State shows a larger plurality for McKinley than in 1896. The Democratic committee declines to make any statement.

Sells Dyed "Red Birds" and Hares.

The police of the North Side are searching for Michael Shorn, who has been selling in Rogers Park and Edgewater "red birds" and "Belgian hares." His fifty or more customers learned afterwards that their purchases were dyed. Peter Engel, Harry Palmer, Justice Kline, and John Mundt are among the victims.

PAVEMENT BREAKS; 9 HURT

CROWD AT PROHIBITION MEETING THROWN INTO A BASEMENT.

Presidential Candidate Woolley Prepares to Address People of Huron, S. D., When the Wooden Sidewalk Gives Way, Precipitating 75 People 12 Feet—Panic Ensues—Six Women Are Seriously Injured, Another and Two Children Also Disabled.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Brookings, S. D., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—By the breaking of a sidewalk John G. Woolley, Prohibition candidate for President, his lieutenant, Volney B. Cushing of Maine, and seventy-five residents of Huron, S. D., were thrown twelve feet into a basement this afternoon. Seven women and two children were injured in the fall, six of the number seriously, and a score were more or less bruised. The politicians escaped with slight scratches.

The many women in the crowd were panic-stricken by the accident, and in the rush to liberate themselves from their temporary prison several were trampled upon. These were rescued with difficulty.

The injured:

Barrows, Jennie, Redfield, S. D.; face badly cut.
Barrows, Lavanche, 4 years old, Chicago; badly cut about face.
Deyo, Mrs. John, Huron; ankle fractured and bruised about the body; serious.

The meeting had been well advertised and a large audience assembled to greet the cold water advocates. It was an open air affair and the scene was on the corner of the principal business streets of the little town. Woolley and Cushing were just mounting the speakers' stand when the wooden pavement gave way with a crash, precipitating its occupants to the ground below.

When the work of rescue had been completed, the injured being taken to nearby homes, the meeting proceeded, both Woolley and Metcalf delivering their scheduled speeches.

WATER CASES TO GRAND JURY.

Authorities Decide to Ask Indictments for Alleged Thefts in the Stock-Yards District.

After a conference yesterday afternoon between Superintendent Nourse of the city Water department and State's Attorney Deneen it was stated that the grand jury will consider the reports of alleged theft of city water in the Stock-Yards district at its session Wednesday.

Special inquiry was made of Mr. Nourse concerning the result of the investigation by the city officials around the plant of the Continental Packing and Provision company. The charges against T. G. Thompson of the Chicago Hair and Bristle company, and Jacob Hoelle of the International Packing company were also discussed, and probably will be submitted to the grand jurors. State's Attorney Deneen would not give out the names of the witnesses who will be called. The investigation may take several days.

What Superintendent H. O. Nourse believed to be the most promising discovery he has made in Packingtown ended yesterday in the capped eight-inch main in Forty-second street, uncovered last week. He withdrew the force from the pipe leading into the plant of Armour & Co., Forty-fourth street and Packers avenue, to follow up the suggestion of a citizen that it was thought might develop something sensational in the plant of Swift & Co. It is understood that the Armour pipe is not in any way illicit.

Half a dozen inspectors were sent to Packingtown with instructions to enter the boiler-room of Swift & Co.'s butterine plant with the employés. Four policemen followed them, with orders to arrest any person suspected of tampering with the water supply. Workmen found an eight-inch pipe, containing lukewarm water, in the court leading into the boiler-room of the butterine plant. It was traced south to Forty-second street, where it turned west. Before the turn it was tapped again and cold water was found. The discharge from the break, however, had no force back of it, and the officials think that the water was what had remained after the pipe had been capped several years ago.

Representatives of Swift & Co. have authorized Mr. Nourse to make whatever investigations on that company's property he may desire.

NEW FACES AT NORTHWESTERN

Students Registered but Number Withheld—More Men than Women—Academy Has an Increase.

Northwestern University officers yesterday declined to give out the number of students who applied to enter the college of liberal arts. Registrar Atwell had expected that during the four days' registration over 650 students, of whom 200 would be freshmen, would appear. When the work of registering ceased last night he refused, however, to state the number.

The new students who appeared had had a better preparation for college than those of any preceding year. The number of men far exceeded that of the women, something that has not occurred before.

At 8 o'clock in the morning the office of the academy was opened. A large number of new students already were in waiting. Before the office closed nearly 250 had registered. This is the best day's registration that ever has been made in the academy and a large increase over the number enrolled last year is expected before Thursday night, when the registration closes.

The first recitations of the Cumnock School of Oratory were held, and Professor Cumnock announced a gain of twenty-five over last year's enrollment, the total this year being 107.

Chairman William Deering appointed from the Board of Trustees a committee of seven who are to examine the qualifications of those who are mentioned for the Presidency of the university. The committee is as follows:

M. H. Wilson,
H. H. C. Miller,
N. S. Davis Jr.,
G. F. Swift,
H. S. Towle,
A. H. Revell,
F. P. Crandon.

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR OPENS.

Carnival Week at Springfield Inaugurated with Day for School Children.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The Illinois State fair opened today with a large attendance. It was Children's day, all the school children of the State being admitted to the grounds free.

More exhibits are made this year in the machinery and poultry departments than ever before, and in the other departments the high standard set in the past is fully maintained. Everything was practically in position today except the displays of the several counties of the State in the Dome Building, and these will be ready for inspection tomorrow morning.

Senator John Humphrey, Senator D. A. Campbell, and Henry J. Kline, a West Side business-man, were yesterday selected by the County board to represent Cook County at the State fair and at the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture on Wednesday.

In the resolution which named these representatives Commissioner Beer said: "Cook County has no agricultural society in regular standing, such pretended societies that do exist only holding meetings once every two years for the purpose of influencing the election for their own personal gain and not for horticulturists at large."

The board in choosing the three delegates exercised the right given it by the statute, which provides that such choice shall be made in counties where there is no agricultural society.

ROOSEVELT WINS VOTES OF WOMEN.

ALL CHEYENNE TURNS OUT

GOING TO DENVER TODAY.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Governor Roosevelt arrived at Cheyenne at 7 o'clock this evening. It was raining and the streets were running streams. The Governor rested for an hour and then was escorted to Turner Hall, where he spoke. As the hall was not large enough to accommodate one-half the people, a second meeting was held in the opera-house. John Proctor Clarke of New York addressed the opera-house gathering, while the Governor spoke in the hall. The Governor finished his speech in the hall at 8:30 o'clock, then spoke before the 1,500 people assembled in the opera-house. Despite the bad night, the streets were thronged with people when a division of local rough riders set out to escort the Governor to the hall.

A band from Douglas, more than 100 miles distant from Cheyenne, which came down especially for the occasion, led the way, and a flambeau club, defying the sputtering heavens with all brands of colored fire, tramped behind the rough riders, doing its utmost to make the night merry. The people of Cheyenne were greatly disappointed on account of the rain, as they had planned to show the Governor a "good time." In fact, they had it all fixed to give him the record-breaking reception of his trip in the West and Northwest.

Starts for Denver Today.

The Governor expressed himself as highly pleased with his reception in Wyoming tonight. He will leave Cheyenne at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for Denver, where he speaks tomorrow night. En route he will make short talks at several towns. He will be joined here tomorrow morning by Senators Wolcott and Lodge.

Through the great wool country of Wyoming Governor Roosevelt traveled during the day, and the Governor spoke at Rawlins, Hanna, Medicine Bow, and Laramie, winding up at Cheyenne.

All through Wyoming the women have shown deep interest in Governor Roosevelt. At Rawlins this morning a group of young women school teachers were at the depot when the Governor stepped from his car. "O, there he is," said one, "just like his pictures." Then she waved her hand at the Governor, who bowed. "I'm going to vote for you," she shouted. "I'm 21."

Address to Miners at Hanna.

Hanna is a mining town and takes its name from Senator Marcus A. Hanna, who formerly was interested in the coal mines there. There are 350 miners representing almost all nations of the earth employed in the coal mines at Hanna. Negroes predominate, however. When the Governor's train arrived it was backed on a spur to the mines, wherein all work was suspended and the men came to the surface with the lamps on their heads to hear him speak.

The train stopped but two minutes at Medicine Bow and the rain was driving in streams against the little depot, under the eaves of which a crowd was trying to shelter itself. The Governor stood in the rain and talked to them until the train started. A cheer from his drenched but loyal auditors followed him into the car.

Prosperity Much in Evidence.

At intervals all day today the Roosevelt special was sidetracked for long, swift freights, denominated "Asiatic express trains" by the railroad company because they are carrying merchandise to the Western seaboard to be shipped thence to the Philippines and the Sandwich Islands. That is one reason why the people out here are expansionists. The Union Pacific railroad has in Wyoming nearly 3,000 laborers at work building new track and repairing the old. Wyoming coal has supplanted in the smelters of the West that shipped, until recently, from British Columbia, and Wyoming wool has been going up in spite of a sluggish market.

On the Governor's train today was United States Marshal Frank Hadsell of Cheyenne. Mr. Hadsell has a relic of interest to Chicagoans. It is a revolver once carried by Eugene Field. Mr. Hadsell found it among the effects of Judge William L. Ashe of Cheyenne. It is a four-chambered weapon, and on the brass of the stock is engraved in script, "Old Missouri. She never hangs fire. Eugene Field, 1872."

REUNION OF A HEALTHY FAMILY

Among Levi Root's Immediate Descendants There Has Never Been a Death, with One Exception.

Newman, Ill., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The second reunion of the Root family was held in this city today. There were present twelve children of Levi Root, ranging in age from 36 to 70. There are living seventy-nine grandchildren, 108 great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren. With one exception, there never has been a death in the family of Levi Root, one son being killed during the rebellion fighting for the flag. This is the first time that all the twelve children have been together, some of them not having met for twenty-eight years. Dinner was served by the two resident children, D. O. and L. L. Root, attended by ninety-six relatives. The twelve children and their offspring reside in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska.

SOUTHERN CITIES SHOW GAINS.

City.	Population.	Increase.	Per cent.
Chattanooga	32,490	3,390	11.65
Savannah	54,224	11,035	25.60

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—The Census bureau announces that the population of Chattanooga, Tenn., is 32,490, as against 29,100 in 1890.

This is an increase of 3,390, or 11.65 per cent.

The population of Savannah, Ga., is 54,224, as against 43,189 in 1890. This is an increase of 11,035, or 25.60 per cent.

TWO MORE ZIONITES OUSTED.

Mansfield, O., Police Guard Elders Found at a Hotel Until They Can Be Deported.

Mansfield, O., Sept. 24.—Zion Elders Mark A. Loblaw of Chicago and James Watts of Hammond, Ind., both British subjects, arrived here today and went to a hotel, where their identity was discovered. A citizen marched them to the city prison, where they remained until noon, when they were deported. A large crowd was at the depot when they left. No trouble was experienced in getting them out of the city.

Trinity Entrance Examinations Soon.

The entrance examinations for Trinity, the new Catholic college for women at Washington, will be held on Oct. 9, 10, and 11 in all the leading cities of the country. The place arranged for the Chicago examinations is St. Xavier's Academy, Wabash avenue and Twenty-ninth street. There is a fee of $5 for examinations taken at any other place than Washington. Blank forms of application may be obtained at any time from the secretary of the college.

ISSUE SOUND MONEY CALL

MEMBERS OF BUSINESS-MEN'S ASSOCIATION TO REORGANIZE.

Circular Sent Out Calling a Meeting at the Grand Pacific Hotel Tomorrow Evening to Prepare for Taking an Active Part in Campaign Work for Election of the Republican Ticket—Efforts of Four Years Ago and Their Results Recalled.

The Chicago Business-Men's Sound Money association will reorganize for campaign work, and the intention is to put forth as great efforts for the election of McKinley as were made four years ago. The following call has been issued for a meeting tomorrow evening:

"Chicago, Sept. 22.—In the campaign of 1896 no organization contributed more to the success of the ticket headed by McKinley and Hobart on the platform of sound money and commercial honor than did the Chicago Business-Men's Sound Money association. Its splendid work of education among the voters on the meaning and importance of the issues connected with that campaign was a magnificent illustration of what could be accomplished by an organization of men whose sole purpose was the support, maintenance, and perpetuation of laws based on sound money and commercial honor.

"Now, after four years of unprecedented prosperity, the result of restored confidence upon the overwhelming defeat of free silver, we are again confronted with the same issue of free silver, with a few minor issues thrown in for the purpose of deceiving the voters, such as anti-expansion, militarism, etc. Confronted, indeed, with the possibility of the administration of the affairs of this great nation by men and measures well calculated to wreck it, there is a spontaneous and universal demand for the reorganization of the Chicago Business-Men's Sound Money association, to the end that it may once more throw the weight of its influence and effort on the side of good government, sound money, and national honor.

"With this purpose in view, we cordially and urgently request you to attend a meeting of your neighbors and business associates at the Grand Pacific Hotel on Wednesday evening, Sept. 26, 1900, at 7:30 o'clock."

The call is signed by:

HANNA TO STAY EAST A WEEK.

Republican Campaign Manager Says Situation in the West Is Encouraging.

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Senator Mark Hanna arrived today in New York from Chicago and announced his intention of staying here one week, when he will return to Chicago.

Mr. Hanna discussed the political issues of the day in his own way. He flatly denied, however, having made several statements accredited to him.

"Do you intend to do any speaking in the East in the present campaign?" he was asked.

"I cannot tell yet. I have not made any arrangements."

In regard to the situation in the West Mr. Hanna said: "It is improving, especially since speechmaking has begun. The meetings are large and enthusiastic."

Mr. Hanna's attention was drawn to the public offer made by Chairman Edmiston of the Populist National committee to debate with Mr. Hanna on public questions.

He laughed. "You can tell him that any time he wishes to take issue with anything I have said he's at liberty to do so."

Mr. Hanna was asked for his opinion of the significance of Mr. Bryan's trip to Chicago.

"I suppose he and Jones and Vice Chairman Stone have gone to get up an issue that will do in New York," was his answer.

CROWD WILL HEAR BEVERIDGE.

Demand for Tickets to Auditorium Meeting Large—Senator Arrives and Is Entertained at Dinner.

The indications are that Senator Beveridge will address an immense audience at the Auditorium tonight. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Marquette club. Judge N. C. Sears will preside. Senator Beveridge will be the only speaker. The demand for tickets has been so great that the Committee on Arrangements is preparing for an overflow audience.

Senator Beveridge arrived in Chicago during the afternoon, was met by Chairman Goodwin of the Political Action committee of the club, and taken to the Virginia Hotel. This committee gave an informal dinner at the hotel last evening for the Senator. The invited guests were Chairman Rowe and Secretary Fieldhouse of the State committee, Chairman Lorimer and Executive Chairman Jamieson of the County committee, Judge Sears, James P. Wheadon, Harry New, National Committeeman for Indiana; Fred A. Bangs, President of the Hamilton club; and A. A. Taylor.

The attending members of the Marquette committee were:

Leonard Goodwin,
F. H. Gansbergen,
A. H. Hyman,
Charles Catlin,
Walker Weil,
S. M. Dickson,
J. B. Campbell,
H. N. Wagg,
J. F. Going.

Senator Beveridge left at 9 o'clock for Evanston, where he will remain until late this afternoon at the house of J. C. Schaffer.

Senator Beveridge, speaking of the situation generally, said last night:

"Now is the time to fight rather than predict. However, I feel confident that McKinley and Roosevelt will carry every Northern State, also Maryland, West Virginia, and Delaware. It is my belief that the race question in the South will interfere to some extent with Republican success there. We should get a much larger vote, though, because nearly all the Southerners are expansionists.

"I have not been long enough in the campaign to discuss conditions intelligently. At the end of two or three weeks' traveling and talking with the people in different localities I hope to have better knowledge of the situation."

Senator Beveridge called at National headquarters in the afternoon and discussed plans for his campaign trip.

NEWSPAPER THIEVES ARE HELD

Samuel Whittler, 10 years old, and Robert O'Brien, 12 years old, who were arrested on Sunday morning with several stolen Sunday papers in their possession, were held to the Juvenile Court yesterday by Justice Kersten. The boys were seen to take five papers from a box in front of 256 North State street. They sat down to arrange the different sections when a policeman appeared. They both ran, but were caught after a chase of two blocks. Ten boys have already been held to the Juvenile Court for stealing papers on the North Side.

The conference on imperialism, money, and trusts which the National Civic federation has been planning to take place at Central Music Hall on Oct. 4 has been abandoned.

Chicagoan Arrested for Embezzlement.

Alexander Moffat, an order clerk recently employed by the International Packing company, was arrested yesterday at Hebron, Ind., and brought to Chicago to answer a charge of embezzlement of $1,500 from his employers. He left Chicago ten days ago. His method was the interception of C. O. D. orders and pocketing the proceeds. Moffat lives at 4541 Throop street. He had been employed by the International Packing company for seven years.

William J. Bryan will put all his eggs in one basket, and base his hope of election on his chance of carrying New York. This was decided yesterday in a conference at Democratic national headquarters, at which were present, in addition to Mr. Bryan himself, Chairman Jones and Vice Chairman Stone of the National committee, Committeemen Campau of Michigan and O'Brien of Minnesota, and Congressman Shively of Indiana.

It was decided that Mr. Bryan should be in New York from Oct. 16 to 20 inclusive, and return there on Oct. 27. Whether he is to wind up the campaign in that State was not finally settled, though practically agreed on. The announcement was not made absolute, however, as the program is still subject to change.

The statement given out by Chairman Jones after the conference was:

"What we have been debating this afternoon was the program for Mr. Bryan after his dates in New York from Oct. 16 to 20, and again Oct. 27. We have practically agreed on the plan, but cannot give it out now, as it may have to be changed in some particulars."

Ex-Governor Stone Makes the Change.

Ex-Governor Stone, who has been in charge of the New York headquarters, is the man responsible for the determination to make the fight in that State. He came here during the day with the statement that, while he could not promise that the Electoral vote of New York would be cast for Bryan, still the State was fighting ground, and with Croker's help in New York City there was a chance of success. That Croker would do all he could to help Bryan, Governor Stone brought ample assurance.

The original plan of campaign was to try to elect Bryan without the vote of New York. This meant carrying all the Western States which he carried in 1896 and Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, West Virginia, and Delaware in addition, with some other State, like Wisconsin, Michigan, or Illinois, to make good measure. It was in accordance with this plan that Bryan insisted on the special 16 to 1 plank in the platform in order to hold the Western States which four years ago had declared for free silver. "Imperialism" was made the paramount issue in the hope of capturing Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, and some middle State. With the Goebel election law in force, Kentucky can be counted any way the Democrats in charge may desire.

Recent reports from Western States, however, according to political observers, show Bryan is not going to get the votes there he did before. It is thought he is sure to lose Wyoming and South Dakota, and in all probability Kansas and Washington, with a good chance of losing his own State of Nebraska. Indiana is considered almost surely Republican, and there are no breaks in the Republican ranks in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, or Minnesota. Under these conditions, without the help of New York or New Jersey, the election of Bryan would be hopeless.

Governor Stone, who has been in constant communication with Richard Croker since the New York Democratic State convention, in speaking of the political conditions in the East, said he thought New Jersey could be carried for Bryan. Asked as to New York State, he replied:

"I regard it as good fighting ground. I think we have a chance there."

In reply to an inquiry as to how the State was to be carried, he said: "We have every assurance that Mr. Croker and his friends will do all they can in New York City."

"But can Mr. Croker help you outside of New York City?" was asked.

"Outside of the city we will depend on the State committee."

Denies Promising a Cabinet Place.

Mr. Bryan took occasion to deny that he had promised Mr. Croker a Cabinet position either for himself or ex-Senator Murphy, dictating the follinw statement:

"I have not given to any one, either verbally or in writing, a promise of a Cabinet position or any other position, and I shall not during the campaign make any such promise to any one. I have not authorized and shall not authorize any one, verbally or in writing, to promise any Cabinet position or any other position to any one. If I am elected I shall be absolutely free to discharge all the duties of the office according to my platform, as far as the platform goes, and according to my own judgment in all matters not covered by the platform."

He did not say what promises may have been made to Mr. Croker or other New York Democrats by any of his representatives. Ex-Governor Stone, who has been conducting the negotiations between the Democratic National committee and Tammany, refused to shed any light on the bargains which had been made. When asked as to how much money had been contributed by Croker to the Democratic fund, Governor Stone laughed, and, in a mock heroic manner, answered: "We are conducting this campaign on principle, not by money," and then walked away with a smile on his face.

Mr. Bryan refused to make any answer to Senator Stewart's charge that he has been guilty of treason in encouraging the insurrection in the Philippines, nor would he make a statement of any kind further than the one quoted above. He left for Lincoln at 5:30 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Bryan will keep his original dates in Illinois, the Democratic State and National committees having finally reached an agreement. He will be in the State on Oct. 8 and 9. He makes a speech at Salem at 8 o'clock the morning of the first day, and will make car platform speeches that day at Mount Vernon, Benton, Marion, Cairo, Jonesboro, Murphysboro, Percy, Sparta, Redbud, and Waterloo, winding up with an evening meeting at Alton. He will start the second day at Quincy, but his stopping places are not yet determined.

BLUE ISLAND WOULD BE A CITY.

Village Claims a Population of 6,500 and Petitions Are Being Circulated to Change Its Government.

Citizens of Blue Island are endeavoring to have the village incorporated as a city. The men behind the move include Justice William H. Doolittle, Alderman Charles Heckler, George Hodge, and others. Petitions are being circulated to secure the names of one-eighth of the voters, as required by law, in order to bring about a special election or to have the matter decided at the regular November elections. Blue Island claims a population of 6,500. It was incorporated as a village in 1866. The purpose of the proposed incorporation is to prevent Chicago from attaching it and to give each section of the village an equal representation in the management of the village's affairs. It is proposed to divide the village into five wards with two Aldermen from each.

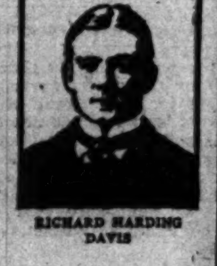
The first of Mr. Henry Norman's notable and timely series of articles is entitled "The Two Capitals," and describes St. Petersburg and Moscow, with an account of a visit to Tolstoy. It would be difficult to overestimate the importance of Mr. Norman's articles on Russia and their value at this time. They are the result of a trip of study and investigation made especially on behalf of SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE. As the author of an important book on the Far East, whose prophecies have been strikingly fulfilled, Mr. Norman stands in the position of proved authority, and accordingly his comments on the present conditions and probable future of Russia and their bearing on the Eastern question have a very special interest and weight. In writing these articles, Mr. Norman makes the closest application of his knowledge to current events, and some of the papers will deal directly with present Eastern conditions. The articles are profusely illustrated from photographs, largely made by the author.

Richard Harding Davis

concludes his articles on the Boer War with an account of the "Fall of Pretoria." Readers of his "Pretoria in War Time," in the August number, will anticipate the peculiar interest of the new article. The fact that Mr. Davis is the only correspondent of the first rank who has seen both sides of this war gives a very special value to these closing papers which bear their own evidence of impartiality and a perfectly clear exposition of the facts.



RICHARD HARDING DAVIS

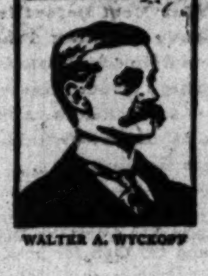
writes of the "Sherman-Johnston Convention," a matter of which, as Sherman's trusted friend and lieutenant, he had the most intimate knowledge; and in his fine vindication of Sherman from what has been thought even by his strongest admirers to have been a serious mistake in his career, he has made a contribution of the greatest interest to history. This article will be read with the closest attention by those to whom the whole affair of Sherman's separate surrender-negotiations with Johnston has always been something of a puzzle.



WALTER A. WYCKOFF

in the October number will tell more of "The Arctic Highlanders," accompanying his article with many illustrations made from photographs. Readers will find in it, besides its capital pictures of the Esquimaux and their life, an admirable description of a typical walrus hunt.

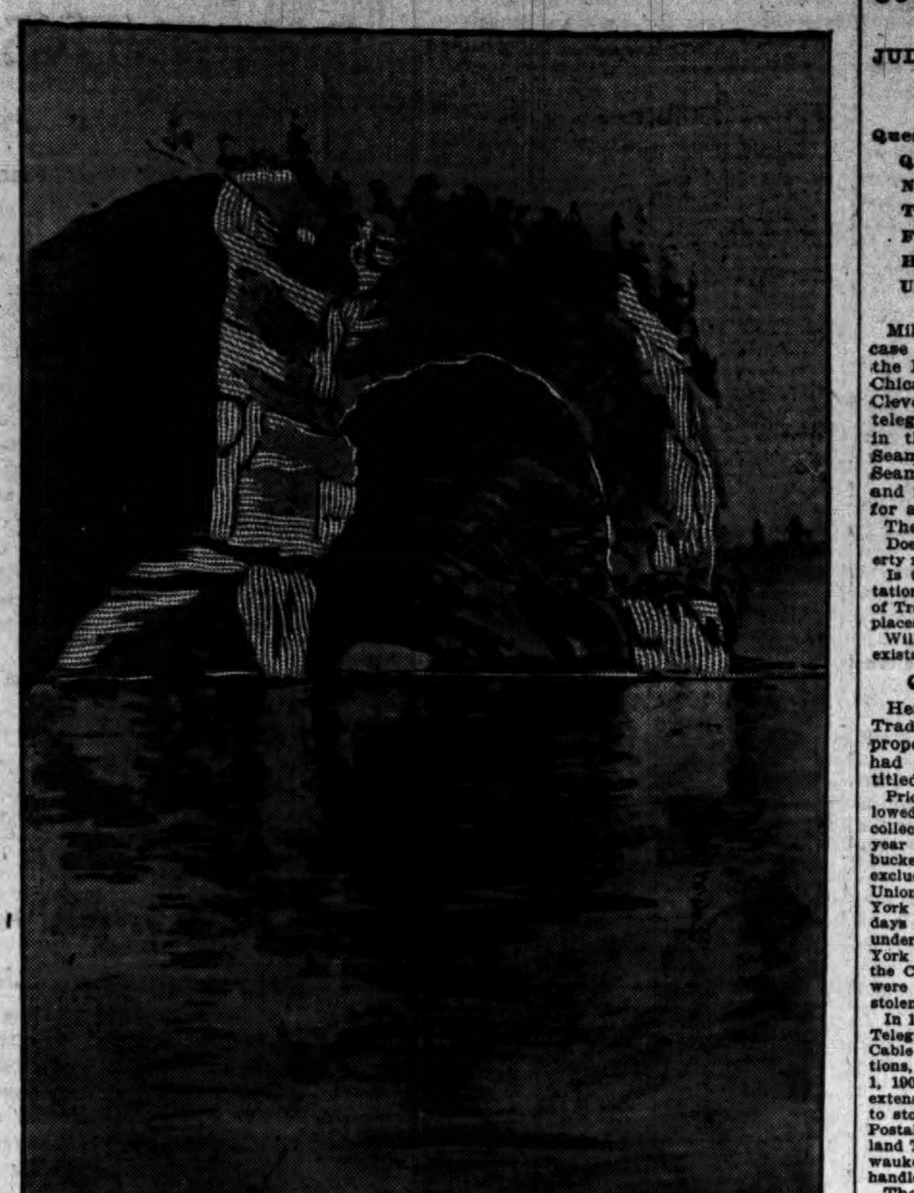
FAMOUS GRAND PORTAL, DESTROYED IN STORM.



This arch, outside the entrance to the "Cave of the Winds," in the Pictured Rocks of Lake Superior, fifty miles west of Marquette, Mich., was wrecked by a rockslide during a storm last week. The "Grand Portal" was the most famous of the curiously shaped rocks of the Michigan shore. It was 100 feet high, and 170 feet broad on the water. Large excursion steamers frequently passed under it, and landed their passengers at the entrance to the cave in the cliffs.

SAYS ALLIES ARE NOT IN ACCORD.

War Expert Williams Points to Chance for Difficulties in China.

RUSSIA DOUBTS GERMANY

St. Petersburg Journal Says Kaiser's Note Gives Chinese Excuse They Want.

DISCUSSING NEW PROPOSAL.

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3:30 a. m.—A semi-official announcement has been issued in St. Petersburg that the European Cabinets are engaged in an endeavor to induce Germany to abandon her demand for the surrender of the instigators of the anti-foreign outrages as a preliminary to peace negotiations.

According to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Express, Germany will make a new proposal—namely: that the great powers form an international court to try the Chinese officials accused of complicity in the outrages.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—Charles Williams, the war expert, predicts that the secession of the American government from the allies' concert in Pekin will lead to possible difficulties.

"With the United States Minister playing the rôle of mediator, the British Minister accompanying the British troops on the punitive expedition, the German Minister loudly demanding punishment without trial, the French government saying ditto to Germany, and the Russians withdrawing a part if not all their force from Pekin, as well as the bulk of their legation, things appear to be quite sufficiently mixed to excite the utmost apprehension," says the expert.

Gives China Needed Excuse.

Then he adds:

"The dissensions between the French and English Generals of forty years ago were bad enough, but did not lead to mischief, for the Chinese had not then up-to-date armaments, as now, and had not the up-to-date training. But they have advanced a great deal, especially in the knowledge of the weaknesses and rivalries of the West.

"The German demand for punishment before trial is likely to give them the excuse they hitherto lacked of putting their backs up and telling Europe and Japan to do their worst."

Russia to Qualify Assent.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times telegraphs: "The German proposal is considered here as vague and difficult of realization, and on account of the absence of the imperial court from St. Petersburg Russia's answer is not yet given.

"The proposal may be agreed to in principle, but with considerable modifications or exceptions, and such qualified assent is rendered all the more possible by today's news from Washington, where it is reported that the explanation of the German representative in that capital removes the idea of an ultimatum which was first conveyed by the German note, and which, according to the Novoe Vremya, greatly diminishes its significance.

Questions German Motives.

"The same paper, however, believes that the German Foreign office will not be able to avert the consequences of having once more shown China that Germany is far from being solely concerned with the interests of trade, and apparently wishes to terrorize the Chinese government.

"This policy cannot help to facilitate the conclusion of peace, in the opinion of this journal, as it will be quite impossible to compel the surrender of Prince Tuan, as the Chinese Emperor and the plenipotentiaries are entirely in his power."

Anti-Foreign Power Grows.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—The Morning Post has the following from its Shanghai correspondent, dated yesterday:

"Prince Tuan's ascendency creates a grave danger. The only hope for foreigners is that the pro-foreign Viceroy of Nankin has not yet been removed. Tuan's emissaries are working hard to get him out of the way by murder or suicide."

Why Russia Takes Manchuria.

General Gribsky, military Governor of Amur, has issued a proclamation declaring the annexation of Manchuria to be a punishment for the attack made on Blagoveschenk.

A semi-official article in the Cologne Gazette, disavowing any desire on the part of Germany to execute the instigators of the outrages on the strength of the testimony of the foreign Ministers, says:

"The international court of justice would decide upon the question of guilt and would pronounce sentence. To look on complacently while a mockery of justice such as the United States demands was being enacted would mean a renewal of the massacres."

Says America May Retaliate.

Commenting upon the reproaches which the Cologne Gazette and other German papers have leveled against the United States, the Berlin correspondent of the Times says:

"Whatever may be thought of the attitude of the United States, it hardly seems wise, from a diplomatic point of view, to hurl these taunts at a nation which, as experience has shown, is by no means in the habit of pocketing or forgetting such attentions."

THINKS M'KINLEY IS FRIENDLY.

Vienna Journal Says Reply to Von Buelow's Note Is Result of Political Consideration.

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—The Freie Presse regards the United States' reply to Von Bülow's circular as a declination of Germany's proposal, but adds, "This refusal need not be regarded as an unfriendly act toward Germany, for it results only from inner political considerations and from McKinley's wishing to fight shy of a further pursuance of that imperialism which a large portion of his fellow-citizens condemn."

According to information received here tonight from a reliable source closely connected with St. Petersburg Cabinet circles Russia's reply to Germany's proposal promises to be favorable to Von Bülow's note, which finds hearty approval in political circles, and although owing to the Czar's absence from St. Petersburg Russia's answer has not yet been sent there are many reasons for believing that it will contain an approval of Germany's suggestions.

France Likes German Plan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—France's reply to Germany's note making the punishment of the instigators of the Chinese troubles a preliminary to peace negotiations is not entirely an acceptance of the proposition. France argues that punishment is necessary, but would negotiate under certain conditions without first punishing the guilty officials.

The Foreign office reports that M. Pichon, the French Minister at Pekin, will pass the winter at the Chinese capital, in spite of the difficulties of the telegraph service, as Tien Tsin is considered to be uninhabitable after the sacking of that city.

German Press Indignant.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The refusal of the United States to accede to Germany's proposition regarding the Chinese settlement is prominently commented upon by the entire German press. A high Foreign office official, referring to the matter today, said:

"Germany adheres firmly to her proposition. She has no occasion to doubt that favorable answers will come from all the other powers. We have received hints that Russia will agree to the German note, and the same course is confidently expected of Japan and Great Britain. We hope the answer of the United States is not final, especially in view of the possibility that it was influenced by temporary conditions."

FLEE ACROSS GOBI DESERT.

American Missionaries from Kalgan Driven Into Wilderness by Chinese Reach London.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The American missionaries, J. H. Roberts, Mark Williams, William Sprague, Mrs. Sprague, and Miss Virginia Murdock, who escaped from Kalgan, Province of Chi-Li, China, in June, were pursued across the Gobi Desert. Thence they traveled by way of Siberia, and have just reached London in good health. They will go immediately to the United States.

"We had no notion of having to escape across Siberia," said Mr. Williams, "but wherever we attempted to stop the officials ordered us away, declaring the Boxers were on our heels. Finally, reaching a Mongol encampment at Harausa, we began our flight across the great Gobi Desert. Having secured a caravan, we started on June 23. Just before starting seven Swedish missionaries, with their families, who had just escaped with their lives, joined us. One woman had horrible experiences. She had been almost clubbed to death, while some of the men were frightful spectacles, being covered with blood.

"When we reached Kiakhta Mr. Tower, the United States Ambassador to Russia, obtained permission from the authorities at St. Petersburg for our journey over the Siberian railway."

MURDER NATIVE CHRISTIANS.

Boatload of Women Said to Have Been Butchered Near Kum Chuk.

HONGKONG, Sept. 24.—Advices from Canton say that a boatload of native Christian women at Kum Chuk on West River was fired upon, and that the women were then taken ashore and butchered in cold blood. Native Christians are flocking to Canton from the surrounding country. Canton itself is quiet. The native city is full of bad characters, anxious to create trouble, but they lack leaders.

RUSSIANS TAKE LU TAI FORTS.

Dispatch Received in Vienna Says They Hold Town North of Taku.

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—The Admiralty has received the following dispatch:

Lu-Tai is situated about forty miles northeast of Tien Tsin and is about twenty miles due north of Taku.

SERVIAN PRISONERS RELEASED.

King Alexander's Elaborate Celebration of Birthday of New Queen—Shah Leaves Vienna.

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—In honor of the birthday of Servia's new Queen today King Alexander has not only decreed that the day shall be a national holiday but has granted complete amnesty to all save one of the Radicals condemned to imprisonment in the treason trial. The one exception is Kresovic, who was the chief accusing witness in the trial, and whose testimony was especially damaging to himself as well as to all his fellow-conspirators.

Shah Goes to Buda-Pesth.

The Shah of Persia left Vienna this morning for Buda-Pesth, where he arrived this evening at 7 o'clock. The Emperor conducted him to the station, and, after being shown the usual military honors, the Shah, through an interpreter, made a lengthy speech, wherein he expressed his thanks and declared that he could scarcely find words to voice his gratitude for the unparalleled hospitality and magnificent reception accorded him.

SOCIALISTS DECLARE A TRUCE.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Grace Corneau.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The French section of the Socialist Congress has declared a truce over the internal hostilities between the Guesdists and the Millerandists until after Thursday, in order to permit the French Socialists to participate in the international congress.

M. Meline declares that the world cannot follow the Socialist Congress too closely, as its deliberations are of interest to every class, particularly as the objects of the congress are to examine into a practical method of arriving at an international understanding between Socialists, fixing a minimum salary scale, upholding the right to strike, suppressing the permanent armies, the destruction of all fortunes, and the establishment of a commune.

Rival Actresses Meet.

Lily Langtry and Jane Hading, by a coincidence, took the same train for Eubonne, the summer home of Pierre Berton, author of "Zaza." The two actresses, according to the press accounts, snubbed each other and were furious when they found that Berton's villa was the common goal. Mrs. Langtry wants a play in which she can appear as Marie Antoinette, and it is promised for November.

Poet Vaucaire Dead.

The poet, Gabriel Vaucaire, is dead. He was a great favorite of the French people.

BRITISH TAKE BOER CAMPS.

Lord Roberts Reports Capture of Large Quantities of Supplies.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Lord Roberts reports from Pretoria that the Guards, under Pole-Carew, occupied Komatipoort this morning. The bridge was found intact. Much rolling stock, locomotives, and truckloads of "Long Tom" ammunition were captured, and that Paget has captured Erasmus' camp, 3,000 cattle, 8,000 sheep, and twenty-three prisoners.

Lord Roberts reports that the few Boer troops remaining in the eastern Transvaal are completely "out of hand," and says they are mostly burghers.

"Steyn and Reitz," says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Lourenzo Marquez, "will remain with the fighting burghers, and it is estimated that a force of Boers aggregating from 7,000 to 12,000 is planning to harass the British lines of communication."

Reject Independence Resolution.

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 24.—Mr. J. W. Sauer, the former Commissioner of Public Works, introduced a resolution in the Cape Parliament today, declaring that the spirit of independence in the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies might be kept down with bayonets for a time, but it would rise again. The peace of south Africa, he further asserted, called for the restoration of the independence of the two republics.

The House by a vote of 41 against 39 decided to go into Committee of Supply, without discussing Mr. Sauer's motion.

CAMPOS' FUNERAL IS SIMPLE.

Famous General Buried, According to His Own Request, Without Ostentation.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—A dispatch to the Standard from Madrid says. "Premier Silvela, Minister Polavieja, and many statesmen and Generals of the Conservative party today arrived at San Sebastian from Madrid and different parts of Spain on the way to Zarauz to be present at the funeral of Marshal Campos this afternoon.

"This was carried out without any state ceremonial, and the only military honors accorded were the presence of the colors and a band of a line regiment.

"As the General had expressed a desire to be buried without ostentation and in the nearest cemetery to the place he died, the remains, after lying in state in the modest villa he had occupied, were conveyed to the quiet little cemetery near the old Basque Church of Zarauz, the bell of which was tolled until the body of the great soldier was laid to rest.

"Splendid wreaths were laid on the coffin.

"The Queen Regent and the government would have preferred to pay more homage to the memory of the man to whom the monarchy owed so much in the past."

COURT HAS BOARD'S PLEA.

JUDGE SEAMAN AT MILWAUKEE TO RULE ON INJUNCTION.

Question as to Whether Chicago Grain Quotations Are Private Property or Not Is Argued Before the Federal Tribunal—Commission Firms Insist Figures Are News and the Public Has a Right to Them—Motion Taken Under Advisement.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The case of the Chicago Board of Trade against the Milwaukee commission firms using the Chicago quotations without paying the Cleveland or the Chicago and Milwaukee telegraph companies for them was argued in the United States Court before Judge Seaman today. At the conclusion Judge Seaman took the case under advisement, and it will be some time before the motion for an injunction will be granted or denied.

The questions involved are:

Does the Chicago Board of Trade have any property right in the quotations it makes in its pits?

Is this right (if it exists) destroyed when quotations are given out or posted in the Open Board of Trade at Chicago and in other authorized public places?

Will a court of equity protect such a right if it exists?

Quotations Claimed as Property.

Henry Robbins of the Chicago Board of Trade argued that the quotations are the property of the Board of Trade and no one had a right to use them except people entitled thereto. He said:

Prior to 1883 the telegraph companies were allowed on the floor of the board and permitted to collect quotations and send them out, but in that year the board undertook to stop the evil the bucket shop had brought all over the country and excluded the telegraph companies. The Western Union thereupon quoted the prices of the New York board, but had to stop operations in a few days because the bucket shops could not exist under the quotations from New York, for the New York board had to depend upon the quotations of the Chicago board. For the next two years there were no quotations given out, except they were stolen.

In 1892 the board again gave the Western Union Telegraph company and the Postal Telegraph Cable company the right to send out the quotations, and they continued this practice until Aug. 1, 1900. But the bucket shop evil had become so extensive in the West that the board again decided to stop quotations. The Western Union and the Postal refused to send them, and only the Cleveland Telegraph company and the Chicago and Milwaukee Telegraph company bought the right to handle the quotations.

Thomas W. Spence opened for the Milwaukee firms. He contended the Chicago Board of Trade had not established its property right to the quotations. He explained how the prices are made and how the prices of the Chicago Board of Trade are posted continuously and simultaneously in the Chicago open Board of Trade. In this place every one may enter and take these quotations. They are public property, of which all may avail themselves without paying for them. He then took up the questions of speculation and said:

The members of the Board of Trade cannot set themselves up as being better than the operators of bucket shops. They pretend there is a delivery in the future contracts when they know, and everybody knows, there is no delivery in 99 out of every 100 of such contracts. The bucket shops do not mask their transactions with such pretensions. It is true the members of the Board of Trade are honorable men and that losses and profits are promptly paid, but the only difference is that in the bucket shop the money is always behind the counters.

JUDGE SEAMAN—In the bucket shop the money is always on the table and on the Board of Trade they pay in chips.

MR. SPENCE—That is the difference. This is no moral crusade, it is only a fight for business.

Nathan Glicksman, representing C. C. Rogers, said, in substance, the Chicago Board of Trade had no more property interest in the quotations than a racing association had in the news of the result of a horse race. There was no property interest in information of this kind. He added:

The prices on the Chicago Board of Trade are the market prices of Chicago. They are made by conditions affecting the grain crop in all parts of the world. There is no place where the court can say "Stop! You shall not use or give this information," as it is merely news and is the property of him who gets it to use it as he sees fit. If it were conceded for the sake of the argument there was a property interest, it would be owned by the Cleveland and the Chicago and Milwaukee Telegraph companies, and they would be the proper parties to bring the suit, not the Chicago Board of Trade.

NEW EPIDEMIC IN LONDON.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—A new epidemic has struck London. The doctors have not given it a name yet, but it seems to be the old-fashioned influenza with a few frills added. The symptoms are those of catarrhal trouble, with high fever and the general feeling of unspeakable misery associated with genuine grip. The sufferers are numerous in all quarters of the metropolis. The doctors say they are unable to account for the outbreak.

Americans sailing on the St. Louis are: F. C. Cochran and family, George Childs Drexel and wife, James W. Ellsworth, wife, and daughters, the Vicomte de Gramment, Henry C. Kirk and Miss Kirk, N. P. Otis and family, Ada Rehan.

FEARS EXPANSION BY CHILE.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Sept. 25, 3 a. m.—A Times special from Buenos Ayres says:

"The entire Argentine press criticises most severely the attitude of the Chilean government towards Bolivia with regard to the ultimatum presented by the Chilean Minister of Foreign Affairs, demanding the recognition of the sovereign rights of Chile over the Bolivian territory occupied after the war of 1882. Leading newspapers publish editorials urging the necessity of a combination of the South American republics for the purpose of restraining the aggressive policy of Chile in this and other matters."

OPPOSES YERKES' PARIS PLAN.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Grace Corneau.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—A prominent city official declares that the reported proposition of Charles T. Yerkes of Chicago to establish a rapid transit system in Paris is impracticable, and has met with fierce opposition, as such transit is impossible without traversing the Place Concorde, and that such desecration is enough to cause a revolution. The City of Paris, he says, is jealous of the beauty of the streets, and would never allow them to be cut up by tracks. On the other hand, he says, the omnibus monopoly is likely to be extended as the company in control of it is closely allied with the government.

NANSEN AND ABRUZZI TO JOIN.

Norwegian and Italian Explorers May Undertake a Joint Expedition in Search of North Pole.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Dr. Nansen and the Duke of Abruzzi, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from Christiania, have agreed to undertake a joint expedition into the north polar regions.

Plan a New Revolution.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 24.—Direct advices from Carthhagena, Colombia, say the rebels on Sept. 3 attacked the town, but government troops from Colon arrived just in time to prevent their success. Plans are proceeding for another revolution against the new but unrecognized government.

PORT HURON, Mich.—When the down-bound boats, which were held by the United States Engineer's orders above here all night, started to move a dense fog had settled down on the river, and the clearing up of the night's fleet was slow. The up-bound boats were held all of this time, waiting for the down-bound boats to get by, and the fleet grew to great numbers. The down-bound boats got by here in safety in the following order: Norwalk, 9:10 a. m.; Parnell, Folsom, Mitchell, 9:30; Cherokee and consort, 9:50; India and consort, 10; Crescent City, Cambria, 10; Huron, 10:30; Tampa, Egan, 10:40; Ira Owen, 10:50; Omaha, 11; Andaste, 11:10; Progress, Tasmania, 11:20; Forest City and consort, Madagascar and consorts, 12:10 p. m.; Green, Coralia, 12:20; Hall and barge, Avon, Pawnee and barges, Mariska, 12:30; Oglebay, Olympia, 12:40; Palmer, 12:50; Glasgow, Saxon, Corsica, 1; Oregon, Foster, Aurania, 1:30; Hopkins and barges, 1:40; Donaldson and barges, 1:50; Rose and barges, 2:10; Tempest and barges, 2:20; Wallace, Ashland, 2:30; Wright, Toltec and consort, 2:50; Matoa and consort, 3; China, 3:10; Aztec and consort, 3:30; Devereux, 3:40; Iron Duke and consort, 4:40; Oscoda and barges, 4:50; Bulgaria and consort, 5.

Commercial Employes for McKinley.

The result of a test vote taken among the employés of the wholesale department of Marshall Field & Co. shows that out of approximately 1,000 voters in the establishment 851 are for McKinley and only 149 for Bryan, making the majority for McKinley 702. It is probable that the same overwhelming ratio for McKinley would be shown in practically every other commercial house in Chicago, were test votes taken. The reason why the employés of commercial houses like that of Marshall Field & Co. are so overwhelmingly for McKinley is primarily that they are intelligent men, which they must be to be fitted for the common sense exactions of commercial work. Their intelligence shows them that their interests and the interests of their employers are identical, not opposite, as Bryan teaches. They know that good business for their house means more employment, more chances for rising, and better wages than poor business means. Those of them who go on the "road" understand what a hard task it would be to get satisfactory orders were Bryan to be elected, and that the fear that he might be elected tends to limit the size of orders, many of which have to be obtained on a commission basis. Generally speaking, commercial employés are too smart to be gulled by the promises of Bryan.

Chicago Business-men's Sound Money Association.

Four years ago the Chicago Business-Men's Sound Money association contributed greatly toward piling up that great majority by which this city and State repudiated the dangerous financial heresies of Mr. Bryan. When the election was over its members believed that their work was ended for all time. They were mistaken. The free silver error, though crushed to earth in 1896, has risen again with several other errors hanging to its skirts. There is again a possibility of the debasement of the currency through the election of a candidate who takes no delight in the prosperity which the country has enjoyed since he was last defeated. Under the circumstances a number of the leading members of the Business-Men's Sound Money association deem it most desirable—as do the friends of sound money generally—that it should be reorganized so that it may do effective service on the side of good, honest government during the present campaign. A meeting for this purpose is to be held at the Pacific Hotel tomorrow night. It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance. The business-men who belonged to the association in 1896 should be there. So, too, should the business-men be who have come to Chicago since then. There is no time to be lost. The business-men should organize and get to work at once.

Chance for Croker to Show His Sincerity.

It appears that there is at last a chance for Richard Croker to prove his sincerity in the cause of the sainted leader of Democracy. Much boasting, some predictions, and a few bets on the result of the election are all well enough in their way, but what the Bryan managers really want is a liberal contribution to their campaign fund. By the size of his contribution they are prepared to judge the fervor of his sincerity. This is a standard which should appeal to Mr. Croker because it is the only standard which he himself recognizes in politics. It is said that Croker personally promised to raise $2,000,000 among his Eastern friends as a contribution towards the campaign expenses of the Nebraska candidate, and that he has so far failed to make good his promise. One of the matters which is said to have been discussed at yesterday's conference of Democratic leaders was Mr. Croker's apparent forgetfulness in this regard. It is to be hoped for the sake of the peace of mind of Chairman Jones and Mr. Stone that the grizzled old tiger of Tammany Hall will soon see the wisdom of "making good." It is extremely disturbing and disappointing to find that a man who, like Croker, estimates men and measures only by "what there is in it" fails himself when the same financial yardstick is applied to his protestations of loyalty and support. There will be general distrust at Democratic headquarters until Mr. Croker comes to the front with the cash.

One Solution of Coal Strike Problem.

There is a possible remedy for the present troubles in the Pennsylvania coal mining field in the inducements which are held out to the striking miners to find employment elsewhere. Some of these men, it is stated, have already returned to Europe. Some have left the anthracite for the soft coal region. Others are tempted to leave by advertisements offering more for Pennsylvania miners in the Utah, Wyoming, and Washington mines, and in the saw mills, shingle mills, and logging camps around Puget Sound, where wages range from $1.75 to $4.50 per day. It is generally admitted that, outside of the tyranny of the great coal combination, the principal cause for low wages in this particular coal field is the congestion of labor there and the neglect of miners to reduce the oversupply of labor by emigration to other points where there is an undersupply and consequently better wages. Should such a labor movement take place it would go far toward solving the problem and bringing the coal combine to terms. It would be a practical method for a raise of wages in the Pennsylvania coal fields and, fortunately, the operators could not prevent them from going by the shotgun, as has happened in the South when the colored mine laborers have shown a disposition to leave. That there is a pressing demand for labor, and especially for this kind of labor, in other parts of the country is sufficiently evident from the advertisements inviting it. If the Pennsylvania miners are wise they will avail themselves of this remedy and at the same time be thankful that had it not been for the prosperous McKinley years there would not have been such a remedy.

DRIVING CAPITAL AWAY.

The Democratic national platform pledges the party to "an increasing warfare in nation, State, and city against private monopoly in every form." The Democrats are in power in twenty-one States. What have they done in those States to molest "private monopoly"? It is well known what they and their Populist associates have done in Nebraska and what they did in Kansas when in power in that State. They made war on capital and drove it away. They attacked business enterprise as if it were a public enemy. But what "trust" did they break up? What "private monopoly" has been uprooted by the legislation of any Democratic or Populistic State?

Texas has a rigid anti-trust law. The Democratic State administration tried to enforce it. It revoked the license under which a company, acting for the Standard Oil company, distributed petroleum throughout the State. The local courts sustained that revocation. The Supreme Court of the United States sustained the State courts. There was rejoicing at the victory which had been won over a "trust." At once application was made to the Texas authorities for a charter for a new company to be controlled by the same people who controlled the concern which was denied the right to do business. The charter has been granted because the laws do not warrant its refusal. Congressman Bailey, that great Texas Democrat, is the counsel for the new organization and defends the State authorities against attacks made on them for allowing it to do business.

In this case anti-"trust" legislation has been ineffective. In other States it has been more effective and mischievous. Because of Illinois anti-"trust" laws and the judicial enforcement of them the Steel and Wire company has removed its general headquarters from this city to New York. Records and employés departed in a spectacular fashion in a special train. The city has lost some residents and a landlord has lost some tenants. Neither the city nor the State has gained anything. Before long the Diamond Match company will move its general offices to New York. There will be one "trust" the less in Illinois, but the power of that "trust" will remain unchanged.

At the close of this month the general offices of the Associated Press will be removed to New York. Before the year has expired that association will be reorganized under a New York charter, abandoning its Illinois charter because of the rigid "anti-monopoly" views of the Supreme Court of Illinois. It is impossible to see what Chicago will gain by that decision which has caused the Associated Press to decide to go East. It is easy to see what the city will lose. It will lose that prestige which it has enjoyed for some years as the central point for the collection of news in the Western world. New York will regain an advantage which it long enjoyed, but which the energy and enterprise of Chicago men took away from it. Hereafter Chicago will be merely a subsidiary news-collecting point—a way station.

From a business point of view the loss of general offices is not so serious a matter for a city as the loss of factories. But if a number of large corporations move their headquarters from Chicago because of the effectiveness of the anti-"trust" laws of this State it will not be necessary to rush the construction of new office buildings here. The owners of those whose corporation tenants have left or are about to leave will be able to meet new demands for rooms for some time to come.

If all that can be done against "private monopolies" under Illinois laws is to drive their general offices out of this State into some other State, where they will be made at home, what good end has been accomplished by those laws?

REAL DANGER OF FREE SILVER.

Many of the Democrats who voted against Bryan in 1896, but who are going to vote for him this year, say they are as much in favor of the gold standard as ever, but that its maintenance will not be endangered by Bryan's election, because there is certain to be a majority for sound money in the Senate for two years at least.

The men who have advanced in good faith this reason for their contemplated votes should read and meditate on what Senator Allison had to say last week about the inevitable effect of Bryan's election on the political complexion of the next Senate. The Iowa Senator is no professional alarmist. He does not conjure up a danger where there is none. He is a sagacious observer of the political situation, and hence is able to see far more clearly than those gold Democrats who are going to vote for Bryan, while they are opposed to free silver, the hazards to which they are going to subject the monetary system of the country by their votes.

The currency law of the last session, which the Democratic platform denounces with great energy, passed the Senate by 18 majority. It got the votes of two Democrats—Lindsay of Kentucky and Caffery of Louisiana—who will be succeeded by free silver men next March. The terms of a number of Republican Senators who voted for that law expire next March. Several of those Senators come from States west of the Missouri. Regarding those States Senator Allison says:

> Mr. Bryan's friends claim that he will not carry many States, but in order to be elected there are certain States that he must carry, and in some of those United States Senators are to be elected. There is one Senator to be elected this winter in each of the States of Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, Utah, and Idaho. Republicans hope to carry all these States, and I believe will carry most of them, but Mr. Bryan carried them all in 1896, and must carry them this year to give him even a chance of success, and the same votes that will give him these Electoral votes will also elect Democratic Legislatures.

Should Bryan be elected and as a consequence the States mentioned above elect Democratic to succeed Republican Senators, the Republican majority in the Senate will be reduced to two. Senator Kyle of South Dakota, while generally acting with the Republicans, did not vote either way on the currency law. If the Democrats should undertake to repeal it and he, who has always voted hitherto for free silver, were to vote with them, the Senate would be a tie. Then the deciding vote of Vice President Stevenson would make a majority for a bill to repeal the new currency law. "With that law repealed," says Senator Allison, "without affirmative legislation for free silver, it is possible in my belief for a President hostile to our present standard of money to force the silver standard upon the people."

With that law off the statute books there would be nothing to keep President Bryan from ordering the redemption of greenbacks in silver. Furthermore, as Senator Allison says, "the same forces that would repeal the currency law of the last session would be brought to the point of passing a free silver law."

The voter who is opposed to the debasement of the currency of the country will take no chances. He will not contribute towards the election of Bryan, hoping that by some happy fortune there may be in the next Senate a majority against his financial heresies. The most effective way to defeat those heresies is to defeat Bryan.

Death of Marshal Campos.

The death of Marshal Campos, former Captain General of Cuba, calls for rather more regret than Americans would bestow upon that of any other Spaniard, unless it be Admiral Cervera. Campos was the most humane Captain General the Cubans ever had, and if the island had always been ruled by men like him there would probably have been no Cuban insurrection and no Spanish-American war. His term at the head of the Cuban government was largely devoted to trying to secure home rule and better treatment for the inhabitants. This promptly aroused the enmity of the corrupt Spanish officials who were growing rich on Cuban misrule, and the Madrid government, with its customary genius for choosing the wrong course, recalled Campos and sent Weyler in his place. By so doing Spain sealed its own doom. Weyler's policy of cruelty and extermination forced the intervention of the United States, and caused the loss of all Spain's island possessions. If the Madrid government had chosen the policy of Campos instead of that of Weyler it might still be ruling Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines.

REGULATING HOMES FOR BABIES.

Mrs. Clara Doolittle, a sanitary inspector recently appointed by the Health department to investigate the public and private asylums where babies are cared for in Chicago, says these institutions are not all conducted as well as they could be and should be. There are over forty such homes in this city where infants are cared for as a money-making enterprise. Mrs. Doolittle says she was unable to locate all these private asylums, but those which she visited showed a strong contrast to the public institutions. The death rate in most of them is high, and it will continue so as long as the conditions remain unchanged.

The great evil of these places is the number of children allowed in a single asylum. The attendants are not numerous enough to do all the work required, and the infants suffer from neglect. A high death rate is the inevitable consequence. In some cases the sanitary arrangements are not good and should be looked after by the Health department. The tendency to overcrowding in such asylums is inherent in the system, for the women who conduct these homes do it for a livelihood, and are not likely to refuse new accessions when the limit of their facilities is reached. One of the most serious points in Mrs. Doolittle's report is the statement that the majority of the women at the head of these private institutions are incapable of caring for the number of babies now in their charge. She remarks that the popularity of the business is in itself a proof that it needs regulation.

Conditions in these private asylums in Chicago can never approach the abuses that existed in London in Dickens' time, or that are ascribed to present-day Paris in Zola's last novel, yet the matter is one that should be carefully watched. The abnormally high death rate reported by Mrs. Doolittle is a sufficient indication that these institutions need looking after. It would be well to have them made subject to frequent inspection and careful regulation.

PUNISHING NEGROES FOR CRIME.

The Tribune recently printed an editorial article showing that the ratio of negro arrests to the total arrests in Chicago has in recent years grown to be seven times greater than the ratio of negro population to total population. It was also shown that the proportion of negro criminality in this city exceeds that in Washington or Charleston or other Southern cities where the colored population is larger. A correspondent explains this excess by pointing out the fact that Chicago's negro residents are chiefly adult males, while the negro population of Washington or Charleston is made up of a normal proportion of women and children, among whom there is naturally little crime. This will account for the unfavorable difference so far as Chicago is concerned, but the fact still remains that punishment for crime among the negroes in all parts of the country is increasing more rapidly than punishment for crime among the whites. The causes for this unpleasant fact must be looked for in other directions.

The larger share of criminal cases among the negroes is due to a variety of causes. First of all, they are more harshly dealt with by the police than any other class of offenders. Then they suffer from the difficulty of getting honest employment, the inability to hire good lawyers in defense, and the fact that punishment does not carry with them the same degree of opprobrium as among whites. The barring of the negro from many trades and professions is the most fundamental of these causes, because it underlies the poverty and the lack of self-respect which figure in the two other counts. The poverty of the negroes prevents them from getting the benefit of the legal technicalities which often procure the acquittal of whites under similar charges. They also have less fighting stamina and plead guilty more readily, which may be traced partly to the fact that negroes do not look on a convict with the same horror as do white people in similar social strata. These facts help to increase the criminal statistics, if not the crimes, of negroes.

The poverty that leads the negro so constantly toward crime is largely due to the difficulty of his getting regular employment. He is pushed out everywhere. Places where blacks were formerly employed as barbers and waiters are now largely closed to them, for the whites have driven them out. No traction company in the North will employ them. The labor unions pretend not to discriminate against them, but they do it. The unions are always able to find excuses for keeping out colored men from membership. There are not so many vocations open to the blacks in the North today as there were a quarter of a century ago. They are driven off on the one side toward the status of day laborers and on the other toward that of servants to the vices of the whites. As day laborers they are excellent. They did better work than the whites when employed on the drainage canal. As employés in saloons and gambling-houses they are always menials. They cannot become barkeepers or dealers at gaming tables, but can become janitors or scrub the floors.

Being thus brought into contact with the most vicious of the whites, both in their work and in their home localities, it is natural that they should contribute a larger percentage of criminals, especially as they have not the courage to defend themselves, the wit for escape, nor the money for defense usually enjoyed by white offenders. They are at a disadvantage in every way. Their poverty pushes them toward crime, and they miss the restraining influence of that abhorrence of ex-prisoners which prevails among the whites. The situation is one to be regretted on every account. The cure is not an easy one to discover.

LABOUCHERE VS. CHAMBERLAIN.

Mr. Labouchere, the editor of London Truth, who has been the victim of bitter attacks for the hostility he has shown to the policy of the British government in south Africa, comes back at Mr. Chamberlain in a most vigorous manner in the last issue of his paper. His reply covers several pages and makes an exhaustive analysis, based upon the official statements of the blue book, of the diplomacy which led up to the Boer war. Mr. Labouchere shows that the objects which Chamberlain professed to have in view in his diplomacy were a five years' franchise for the uitlanders, which was conceded; an adequate representation in the Volksraad, which was conceded in more generous measure than was asked for; and a commission of inquiry into the effect of the proposed concessions, which was also conceded. Mr. Labouchere asks what there was of all the demands made during four months of haggling that was not conceded, when suddenly the negotiations were suspended with the announcement the government would settle the matter in its own way.

The most crushing reply which Mr. Labouchere makes to Mr. Chamberlain is his citation from a speech made by the latter in the House of Commons in 1896 in reply to Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, when war with the Transvaal was imminent. Upon that occasion Mr. Chamberlain declared that a war in south Africa would "be in the nature of a civil war. It would be a long war, a bitter war, and a costly war. It would leave behind it the embers of a strife which I believe generations would hardly be long enough to extinguish." Still more pointedly did Mr. Chamberlain condemn his present policy when he said: "To go to war with President Kruger in order to force upon him reforms in the internal affairs of his state, with which successive Secretaries of State, standing in this place, have repudiated all rights of interference, that would have been a course of action as immoral as it would have been unwise."

Mr. Labouchere is evidently capable of holding his own against the storm of abuse that is being hurled against him. He has judged Chamberlain out of his own mouth. He asks in closing his long reply: "For what have we been fighting now close on twelve months?" and answers it in Chamberlain's own words.

A YEAR'S WORK FOR 60,000 MEN.

There is an unfortunate tendency often manifest during national campaigns to foment labor troubles and to breed strikes with the idea that the resulting discontent will have a political effect. In this way laboringmen are sometimes made the playthings of politicians who in the overmastering desire to gain their ends are willing to cause or at least suggest and advocate strikes in order that the suffering, starvation, and riots which sometimes follow may be made the texts for partisan appeals.

It is therefore a significant and hopeful sign that in the midst of the prevailing political excitement the joint committees of the iron and steel workers and operators have found a way to compromise their difficulties and agree upon a scale of wages which guarantees steady work for 60,000 men during the remaining months of the year ending July 1, 1901. That the agreement was only reached after repeated fruitless conferences, and then only at the end of an all-night session, emphasizes the fact that both sides to the agreement were represented by men who, while determined, knew how to draw the line between obstinacy and good sense.

After signing the agreement at 7 o'clock on Sunday morning, the employing members of the conference, before they went to breakfast, sent telegrams ordering the fires to be lighted on Monday morning in more than twenty mills in six or seven States. Consequently, there was work yesterday for 60,000 men who have been idle for several months, and there will be food and clothing and comfort for the possibly 250,000 people who are dependent upon them.

There are, of course, cases in which such vital principles are at stake that a man or a body of men are justified in going to almost any length in support of them. In most controversies, however, which involve chiefly rates of wages and hours of labor, a compromise is possible, providing only that the men who represent the parties to the controversy are fair-minded and honest. Progress by compromise may not suit fanatics or interested politicians, but in the long run it is certain that more is accomplished in this way than by disastrous strikes, which so often entail suffering on the part of women and children.

At any rate, both the iron and steel workers and operatives are to be congratulated on the fact that their representatives have been able to reach an amicable agreement. They have resisted any temptation to play partisan politics and have been guided in reaching an agreement only by the best interests of the organizations which they represent.

MR. AND MRS. LEASE.

Some long-smoldering embers in the Lease household have at last burst into flame. In a public statement made by Mr. Charles Lease, druggist, of Wichita, Kas., husband of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease, stateswoman, that gentleman avers that, although he has no control over his wife's political opinions and has no right to interfere with her, he is nevertheless greatly displeased because she has flopped over to the support of McKinley, and her continuous flopping wearies him, forgetful of the fact that changing her mind is one of the conceded prerogatives of the sex. He forgets that woman is "uncertain, coy, and hard to please."

Doubtess Mary Elizabeth has flopped many times, this being a habit of politicians. Instead of being weary with her flopping Mr. Lease should rejoice that she has flopped at last to the right side and to the side that is going to win. The trouble with Mr. Lease is that his political convictions are in such a mixed-up condition he cannot flop. If he wished to flop ever so much, in what direction could he go? Mr. Lease is an ardent believer in 16 to 1, notwithstanding the unprecedented prosperity of Kansas and the rapid increase of his drug business. But as to anti-expansion, which Bryan declares is the paramount issue, he is unsound. He believes in the extension of American sovereignty, but from his point of view 16 to 1 is the paramount issue, and if he should flop to McKinley because he believes in his expansion policy he would be a traitor to 16 to 1. Having nowhere to flop he must remain where he is. Mrs. Lease, on the other hand, has views which are more elastic. She has a love of variety. Her recent flop shows that she is progressive. More than that, she has been through one campaign with Bryan and knows him. Mr. Lease says: "I remember the time when he used to be her political idol." He forgets, however, that when women find their idols insincere they promptly knock them off their pedestals and worship changes to disgust.

The Fusion State Central committee, encouraged by Mr. Lease's public criticism of Mrs. Lease, will endeavor to induce Mr. Lease to take the stump against her when she goes to Kansas. If Mr. Lease is a farseeing man he will do nothing of the kind. He will be likely to hear from Mrs. Lease in a manner which will not be pleasing to him, and long before November there will be little left of him, for there is no fury like that of a "woman scorned." Mr. Lease will be better employed in sticking to his business with a feeling of thankfulness for the McKinley years of prosperity which have enabled the people of Wichita and vicinity to pay him cash for his pills and boluses.

*And deliver.

Religious papers? How could they do otherwise than support McKinley and still be religious papers?

It would seem to be the part of wisdom for Dowie's elders to abandon Mansfield and try some other field.

Mrs. Lease says the issue in the present campaign is Copperheadism against Republicanism, and for that reason she is for McKinley. Mary Ellen is not always wrong.—Cleveland Leader.

But "Mary Ellen" certainly is wrong. Her name is Mary Elizabeth.

After all, however, it does not appear that President Harper worked the customary pull this time.

The Hon. Jeems Corbett is coming back to vindicate his name. The job may occupy his attention all winter.

Some people are so constituted that it seems impossible for them to give Lieutenant Hobson a square deal.

Oom Paul Kruger bore up bravely till Web Davis abandoned him and came back home. Then it was, probably, that his stout old heart broke.

Having made a bet of $15,000 on Bryan's election, the Hon. Joe Bailey of Texas, as an honorable and law-abiding citizen, surely will not undertake to vote next November.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Decidedly Otherwise.

"And this is the man," exclaimed Mrs. Rambo, "whom, fourteen years ago, I promised to love and cherish——"

"No, m'dear," interrupted Mr. Rambo, grasping one of the chairs as it swam around him and dropping into it. "Man's all made over ev'ry sev'n yearsh. I'm two removes fr'm th' man you married, m'dear."

Easy.

"Mr. Green, this is Mr. Greene."

"Glad to know you, Mr. Greene. You spell it with an e, I believe?"

"Yes. You spell it without the e, I infer."

"I do. I am just plain Green."

"Well, I am just as plain a Greene as you are a plain Green."

"I think not. The Greenes with the e evidently wish to be distinguished from the plain Greens. That's why they put on the e."

"I think not. The Greens without the e are careful to leave it off so nobody can mistake them for the Greenes with the e."

"But the original spelling was Green, without the e."

"You mistake. The original spelling was Greene, with an e. Leaving it off, moreover, is a mark of self-conceit. You Greens are always thinking more about yourselves than we Greenes are."

"How do you make that out?"

The Public Be—Blessed!

Reporter—"Colonel, I would like an expression of opinion from you as to the probable outcome of this coal strike."

Prominent Citizen—"My dear sir, I have no right to an opinion. I am merely one of the millions of outsiders who are putting up increased prices for their coal on account of the strike and can have no possible concern in its outcome. Good morning, young man."

Relative Powers of Endurance.

"When my grandfather was a young man," said the boy with the snub nose, "he could run ten miles without stopping."

"I heard my grandfather make a prayer twenty-five minutes long once, at a prayer meetin'," responded the boy with the dirty face, "an' it didn't faze him."

Flattered.

"I wish I knew," said Archie, "whether Miss Quickstep meant to insult me or not when she called me a squab the other day."

"A squab," replied Miss de Muir, "is a young pigeon. A young pigeon is a bird. She meant to say something nice to you, you goose."

Amended Form.

Caller—"You think Lutie has been exposed to some of those annoying diseases children have? Why don't you fasten a bag of asafœtida about her neck? That is what my mother used to do when I was a little girl."

Mrs. Highmore—"It is too late now, I fear. It would be like locking the booth after the automobile has been abstracted."

PERSONALS.

Erika Paulas, a German architect, 25 years old, has been commissioned to build a hospital at Mediasch, Germany. She is the daughter of an engineer, and has already planned and erected several large and expensive buildings.

Captain T. A. Brassey, who is Acting Civil Commissioner at Pretoria, does not relish the task that has fallen to him of regulating the sale of liquors. All the bars in the city are closed, hotels only being authorized to sell liquor by retail.

James D. Reid, organizer of the Old-Time Telegraphers' association, superintended the construction between Washington and Baltimore of the first telegraph line. He taught Andrew Carnegie to be an operator, and is now manager of the steel man's Scotch estates.

Christine Nilsson cherishes in a unique way mementos of her triumphs on the concert stage. One of her rooms is papered with leaves of music taken from the various operas in which she has appeared. Another is decorated with receipted hotel bills made out in her name during her tours.

Sir Thomas McIlwraith, who died recently in London, arose from a poor emigrant boy to be three times Premier of Queensland, Australia. In this position he achieved fame by trying to annex New Guinea to his colony without the knowledge or consent of the Home office. A furore arose, but was checked by the prompt disavowal of the act by Lord Derby, then the British Premier.

"Weakest Stand Ever Taken."

Washington Post, Sept. 23: "The Democratic position on the subject of our relations to the Philippines is the weakest stand ever taken by one of the great parties on an important question," said Mr. I. M. Harter of San Francisco, who was among the guests at the Raleigh last night. Mr. Harter was in Manila a year or so ago, and while there made a close study of the Philippine question. "The Democrats demand an independent Filipino government under our protection; that we should not interfere with the internal affairs of the Philippine Islands, and should allow no other power to do so. Such a course would be in effect the guaranteeing that anarchy be allowed to reign without interference from the United States or any power of Europe or Asia. Everybody familiar with the Philippine situation knows that the withdrawal of our troops would be followed by a carnival of blood and robbery never equaled in the history of modern times.

"And while this murder and looting of peaceful natives by Tagal brigands was in progress the Democrats would have us look calmly on, doing nothing ourselves to preserve order and forbidding any other power to step in and stop the fight. Such a policy is inconceivable. How long do you suppose the other powers would respect our protectorate if we refused to govern a people that are not capable of governing themselves? The situation is simply this: The Philippines must be governed by a people other than Filipinos, and America must either govern them or get out and let some other power take her place. It seems to me that the Democratic contention that the Monroe doctrine forbids us exercising the functions of government over the Philippine Islands, but that it will allow us to establish a protectorate over them, is absurd. If the Monroe doctrine forbids anything in the Orient, it forbids us being there at all. If we can be in the Philippines as a protecting power, we can certainly be there as a governing power."

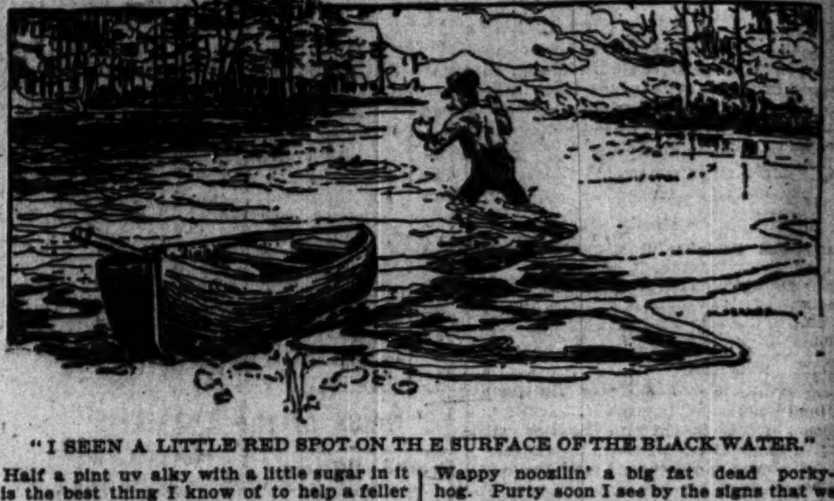
"Andy" Alexander, 60 years old, knelt on his bowlegs in the stern of his pine dugout and sent the heavily loaded boat flying across the black waters of the lake.

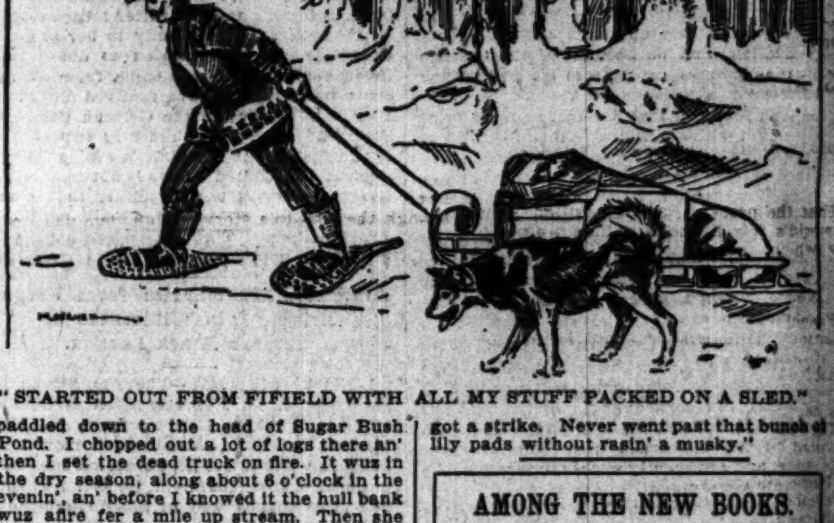
"Look at 'er," he said, pointing to the gaunt dead pines and tangled masses of gray roots which lined the shores. "Jes' murdered the whole country, that's what they did. Looks like a buryin' ground, and that's what it is. First they cum in an' git out all the big timber; then their shavings and camp truck catches fire and burns over the country; then finally they dams up the rivers and drowns out miles of land. Look at all this drownded land, with the old dead trees sticking up like telegraph poles half a mile from shore. When all the pine was gone they lit out an' left the carcass of the big woods to rot.

"I've been a lumber jack for forty year. I druv logs down the Alleghany in the '60s. Sometimes nowadays my feet ache for the feel of sharp shoe corks in a floating log, but I can't stand for the looks uv this country. Half a pint uv alky with a little sugar in it is the best thing I know of to help a feller forgit how it usto look.



"I SEEN A LITTLE RED SPOT ON THE SURFACE OF THE BLACK WATER."

"It was five years ago when they got all the big pine out an' quit this country. They left behind 'em all up an' down the Flambeau the big log booms that was built to keep the road open for the floating logs during the drives. These booms ketched all the windfalls and deadheads and floating timber that cum down stream, until finally both banks of the Flambeau looked like the track of a cyclone through the big woods. The mouths uv all the cricks was blocked, and you couldn't git into Reilly Lake er Bass Lake er any uv the best fishing waters. It wuz one winter when 'Put' Black an' I wuz camping at the foot uv Little Bull Rapids. We wuz out after bob cat—that wuz before the State took off the bounty of $6 a scalp—an' bear, an' dryin' a little venison and fish on the side. One day I got so tired uv bein' blocked by the pesky booms an' the drift wood that I took up my ax in the canoe and paddled down to the head of Sugar Bush Pond. I chopped out a lot of logs there an' then I set the dead truck on fire. It wuz in the dry season, along about 6 o'clock in the evenin', an' before I knowed it the hull bank wuz afire fer a mile up stream. Then she jumped acrost and commenced a roarin' up that side. An' I commenced to think uv old 'Put' Black up at the camp on the island at the foot of Little Bull. I had the canoe, an' I knowed 'Put' couldn't swim a stroke fer all he'd been in the woods an' on the river every winter fer thirty year. So I starts up river to rescue 'Put.' Say, you talk about yere fire engines an' yere climbin' down fire escapes on yere sky scrapers. You ought to a-been in my canoe that night. It wuz a wall uv fire on either side fer two mile uv rough water. I wuz a-polin' up stream like a musky on a bender, an' all the time great big wads uv fire wuz blowin' an' a whoopin' past my ears. The hull sky wuz lit up an' the cranes and heron an' wild ducks wuz flyin' an' screechin' like wild. Purty soon the water got so hot that the big fish commenced to jump up into the air to cool off an' my canoe wuz beginnin' to warp an' crack. The pitch oozed out uv 'er ez if it had been water an' I felt my hair an' mustach crispin' up. All the time I wuz thinkin' uv old 'Put' up there on the island, not knowin' how to swim a stroke.



"STARTED OUT FROM FIFIELD WITH ALL MY STUFF PACKED ON A SLED."

"It must hev took me two hours to pole up Cedar Rapids, where they's some nasty pitches an' twists, before I gets in sight uv the camp. Then I sees a regaler sheet uv flame a-sweepin' across the hull river from side to side, an' no sign uv 'Put.' I grounded the canoe at the foot of the island an' commenced wadin' around the edge a-yellin' fer 'Put.' It wuz as light as day and every little ripple on the water wuz plain to the eye. I yelled an' yelled an' got no answer. Then finally I seen a little red spot on the surface uv the black water 'bout ten feet frum shore. I tiptoed out and grabbed ahold of it. It wuz the end uv 'Put's' nose and the hull uv him riz up after it. He wuz out there a-keepin' out of the range uv the fire.

"Ever see 'Put'? Blamed peculiar looking cuss, he is. Got a terrible red nose. Used to be always putting his nose into other people's business. That's why they call him 'Put.' But his long nose saved his life that day all right. Nothing in sight but the end uv it above the water, an' though that got mighty red, it always did kind-a run to that color.

"That fire I started did a lot uv good, though. I told you we wuz a-dryin' venison and fish fer the market. Well we had six deer an' about forty fifteen-pound muskies a-hangin' up outside the camp jest ready to smoke on the night uv the fire. An' the fire did a better job on 'em than we ever did. Found the stuff all smoked an' dried an' ready to ship when the fire burned itself out. The commission firm down in Chicago wrote back and said they never tasted such good dried meat and fish an' they'd like all we could make like it. But we couldn't start a forest fire every time we had stuff ready to smoke an' so we never got jest that flavor agin."

"Andy," said the man in the bow of the dugout, "how cold does it get up in this country?"

"I don't rightly know. Coldest I ever knowd uv fer long at a stretch wuz fifty-two degrees below. I wuz out campin' all alone at the foot uv Big Block House Rapids. I started out frum Fifield on snowshoes with all my stuff packed on a sled. Nobody but my old Injun cur dog along. He wuz better'n any hound I ever see on deer er bear. An' he could lick a link in a fair fight. Long about sundown I drawed the canoe up out'n the water and propped 'er up on 'er side with the top towards the fire. Then I laid down inside her and tried to go to sleep. All night long it snowed and the wind blew. There wuz three feet on the ground when I started out and I reckon it snowed three feet more that night. I could hear the big windfalls crashin' down through the other trees and every few minutes I had to git up and cut more dry pine and pile on the birch bark to keep the fire blazing. By mornin' no human could have found the trail out of camp er followed it ef he had. It wuz buried six feet in snow an' barred every ten feet by big windfalls. I made up my mind I jes had to stay there 'till somethin' happened. All day long it kep' gettin' colder an' long about dark Wappy—that wus my dog—commenced to howl. That made it some more cheerful.

"First two weeks I wuz in camp there I had plenty uv grub fer both uv us. We melted snow at the fire fer water an' my alky bottle held out all right. Then, finally, I wakes up one mornin' an' finds that they ain't no more stuff left on the sled. Alky wuz all gone, too, an' the pine logs I'd drawed up close to the fire wuz burned up. Nex' seven days I had a terrible time hustlin' fer grub. Finally got so I et a couple of loon skins I found in the old shack up on the hill. Got so weak I could hardly stand up. One night I piled about two cords uv pine on the fire and lay down in the dugout plum beat.

"Next thing I knowed I wuz waked up by a gun shootin' off. I looked around me an' didn't see nothin' uv the camp er the fire er the canoe. All aroun' wuz the snow an' the woods an' down in front uv me wuz Wappy noozilin' a big fat dead porky-hog. Purty soon I see by the signs that we wuz three miles up the trail close to the Upper Camps.

"Say, ye know what I did? Got up in my sleep I had an' followed Wappy while he run out that blame porky-hog. Say, ef you fellers from the city knowed how good porkypine soup tasted to a cuss that wuz starvin', you wouldn't go 'round shootin' 'em jes because they can't run away.

"Wuzn't that a curious thing fer a man to do in his sleep? I've heard about fellers fallin' out of winders in their sleep an' not gettin' hurt. But I never did hear uv a man goin' huntin' in his sleep and followin' a trail fer three mile that he wouldn't uv tackled ef he'd been wide awake."

"But, Andy," pleaded the sad-eyed man in the bow of the dugout, "how did you know it wuz fifty-two degrees below zero all this time?"

"Read about it in an Ashland paper after I got back to Fifield. Look out there. You've got a strike. Never went past that bunch of lily pads without rasin' a musky."

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

"Hypnotism in Mental and Moral Culture." By John Duncan Quackenbos. Harper & Bros.

If hypnotism will do all that Professor Quackenbos claims for it, then must it be looked upon as one of the most powerful moral and curative forces in the world. Its phenomena, writes its defender, are scientifically explicable on the supposition of a double self, each self possessing a distinct consciousness. "The moralist and preacher address the self that is not in control, the flesh-entangled, hesitating, easily tempted, and entrapped objective self; hence their appeals are so often futile. The suggestionist invokes the better subliminal self, invests it with control, and seldom fails to effect the desired purpose."

The author goes on to tell in what manner these purposes are effected, of the qualifications that a hypnotizer should possess, and the kinds of cures that he himself has accomplished. He has been most successful with the cigaret smoker, with the kleptomaniac, and with the morally depraved. To these degenerates the author has given new life and hope, and his accounts of various difficult cases are interesting and important. For the Christian Scientist, with his "unprincipled effrontery," the author has nothing but contempt, and he waxes warm in his repudiation of the tenets of that faith. The only way in which the Christian Scientists can be cured of their mania, declares this enemy, is by counter-treatment through reputable hypnotic channels.

It is not gratifying to a normal individual to feel that his character and habits are so readily swayed by a suggestionist, and one feels that in this volume sufficient credit is not given to those good things, will and reason. But it is the scientist who must have it out with the hypnotist and who must analyze the powers and explain the limitations of that individual. The book is clearly and forcibly written, and no one can doubt the earnestness and enthusiasm of its author.

A Lively Love Story.

"The Plain Miss Cray." By Florence Warden. New York: F. M. Buckles & Co.

For a good, old-fashioned love story of the Duchess variety, "The Plain Miss Cray" is not bad. The author begins her story with three romances which she keeps going in the most exciting and energetic manner until the last chapter, where everything is arranged exactly as it should be. All the events, crowding as they do thick and fast, cover but a short period and occur at a house party, the place of all others in which Cupid is most likely to find his victims off their guard.

The young and pretty Miss Cray, whose mother is frankly determined she shall marry well, with the perversity and irresponsibility of youth falls in love with a poor Irish Baronet who farms his own land. The older and plain Miss Cray, who has long been given up as a failure matrimonially, secures the most eligible man in the party after a courtship that has been one long, constant quarrel. They have called each other every opprobrious name in the social dictionary and said the frankest and most disagreeable things, all of which makes their engagement a climax of momentous interest. The third romance—that between the host and hostess is a little more serious, a little more complicated, and perhaps a little more interesting.

Mrs. Cray is meant to be amusing in her character as anxious mother, and the author succeeds in making her so without rendering her obtrusive. There are a few freakish servants who fill in the background and there is a villain who makes a lurid streak across the foreground and who goes the way all villains should go. Altogether, it is a lively little comedy.

TO REVISE STUDY COURSE.

OVERBURDENED GRADES MAY BE RELIEVED.

Proposed Changes Will Result in More Thorough Work on the Part of Pupils and Less Expense to Parents for School Books—Superintendent Cooley and Members of the Board Favor Revision—Permit Taken Out for a $120,000 Building.

Superintendent of Schools Cooley and the district superintendents will consider methods of relieving what are considered by the school authorities to be overburdened courses of study in the four upper grades. It is affirmed that if a teacher follows the course of study outlined for pupils, especially in the seventh and eighth grades, the classes would have too much work to do. If they skim the course, as many are said to do, it results in dissipation of energy. Another reason for revising the courses is the expenditure which the purchase of numerous text books imposes on parents. Objections based on both reasons have been made.

Superintendent Favors Change.

Superintendent Cooley will support a plan for revision and members of the board have stated their opinion that the courses should be relieved.

"If teachers follow the course of study outlined for the eighth grade," said Superintendent Cooley, "the work is too burdensome for pupils. As a matter of fact, many do not, as I have discovered. They lighten the course by skimming over it. That leads to another evil. An attempt to cover so much ground without going over it thoroughly is a dissipation of energy. I have spoken to several District Superintendents, who are more familiar with the matter than I, and I find they are of the same opinions."

City Supplies Needy Pupils.

Against the proposition of expense entailed by the purchase of numerous text books it is argued that the city furnishes a fund with which to supply needy pupils. It is stated that the apprehensions of the possibility of children being kept from school on account of inability to procure books are not founded. It is stated that 40 per cent of the school children are using these fund books.

Members of the Board of Education will support a proposition to reduce the courses. Trustee Thomas Gallagher, Vice President of the board, said:

"I realize that we are trying to teach the children too much. Their minds are not matured and should not be subjected to too great a burden while developing. I would certainly favor a reduction in the number of studies, if it could be determined which ones can be left out. This would also result in a saving of money to the parents for school books, and what the pupils learned they would remember."

Civil Service examinations for the position of secretary of the board will be held tomorrow. Three candidates from the board have entered for the position, which is now held by Louis Legner.

Plans New $120,000 Building.

The board purposes to build at a cost of $120,000 a three-story brick schoolhouse at Forty-first street and Calumet avenue. A building permit for the structure was issued yesterday. The new building is designed to take the place of the Springer School, Wabash avenue and Forty-first street, which was erected in 1874. The school authorities have taken this step because the Springer School is out of date, and is but poorly furnished and equipped for the large number of pupils living in its vicinity.

MRS. ADAMS HOME FROM PARIS.

Says Chicago Women Take Prominent Part in Social Life—France Jealous of Russia's Silks.

"That the present Paris exposition is the last world's fair France will hold is a possibility which the French people themselves declare," said Mrs. Milward Adams, who returned to the city yesterday. "Russia's fine exhibits of silk aroused the jealousy of the French nation to such an extent that an exposition official made the statement to me that if France wished to maintain its supremacy in the fine arts and manufactures she would hold no more great fairs and give away her secrets to the world.

"The reason so many Americans were disappointed in the fair was because the exhibits were not arranged collectively as at the World's Fair, and it was hard to find all the exhibits of any one country.

"Chicago may be proud of the part our women took in the social life of Paris. They nearly all had apartments or houses and greatly assisted the American commissioners. It seemed that every other house in Champs Elysées had a Chicago woman in it. Mrs. Potter Palmer had a house with great suites of rooms, and Parisians declared that Mrs. Palmer's entertainments represented the idea of the French salon more than those of any other American woman. Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick also entertained beautifully, and Miss Nina Gillette had a charming villa just outside the city. Mrs. Caton entertained with Mrs. Augustus Eddy, and the Clarence Eddys gave musicals to which all Paris came. Other Chicago women have been abroad so long they are like old habitués of Paris. Everywhere the verdict was that the Chicago women were more Parisian than the women of any other city."

RENEW THEIR MARRIAGE VOWS.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christin Ride to Church in Automobile and Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christin, 423 West Harrison street, began the celebration of their golden wedding yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock with a ride in an automobile from their residence to the French Catholic Church of Notre Dame de Chicago, Vernon Park place and Sibley street. Six other automobiles, carrying members of the family, accompanied the venerable couple on their trip, which extended through the West Side parks. The ceremony renewing the marriage vows made fifty years ago was conducted by the Rev. A. L. Bergerson, after which the party rode to the home of Mrs. W. H. Lampher, 271 Loomis street, a daughter, and sat down to a banquet.

FATHER, MOTHER, AND CHILD, ACTORS IN KIDNAPING SUNDAY EVENING.

Mrs. Marion Thornton Egbert.

Erica Thornton Egbert. The KIDNAPED BABY.

Dr. Jerome W. Egbert.

No trace had been discovered at a late hour last evening of Dr. Jerome William Egbert and his stepbrother, Arthur C. Fort, or the 3-year-old daughter, Erica, of Dr. Egbert, who was kidnaped on Sunday evening by the two men from the home of Mrs. Egbert, 5467 Madison avenue. Neighbors of the child's mother express much sympathy for her. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the two men, charging them with assault and battery, and the police are confident that they will be apprehended.

Mrs. Egbert, although an invalid since her return from India, and almost completely prostrated by the loss of her child, visited the Hyde Park Police Station during the day, and later visited many places in the vain hope of discovering some clew to the whereabouts of her husband or the child. Since her return from the country where Erica was born Mrs. Egbert has had four surgical operations as a result of illness contracted there. Mrs. Egbert asserts that for many months no remittances have been received from her husband, who has a large income from his profession of dentist at Madras, India. Though enfeebled by illness Mrs. Egbert says she has supported herself and Erica by writing for Chicago papers and the Eastern magazines. She was until recently editor of the Bachelor Book.

Dr. Egbert is the court dentist of many potentates and Princes of India, numbering among his patients the Nizam of Hyderabad, the Dewan of Travancore, the Rajah of Travancore, and the Jaghiredan of Arni. He receives princely fees, and has been the recipient of many presents and decorations from his patrons. He was offered an enormous fee and a cavalry escort through the Khyber Pass to visit the court of the Ameer of Afghanistan recently, but declined the offer. He is 28 years of age, and 6 feet 3 inches tall. He was born in Minonk, Ill. His parents, who are wealthy, are residents of Minonk.

Kate Johnson	Margaret Dale

A restful, interesting play lifted above even its plentiful merits by unforced acting and vivid characterization. This is the opinion one gained last night of "Brother Officers," as presented by William Faversham, Miss Margaret Anglin, and their associates. Lest there should seem to be a hint of shoulder shrugging in the array of so many calm virtues one hastens to add that the soul-stirring note of romance and idealism is in the piece as surely as if its action passed on battlefields instead of in clubroom, terrace, and study. Not that the intimation is of stilts, heroics, and fetid sentimentalism. There is sentiment, but the players keep it high even where the play would let it sag, and there is heroism, none the less strong because quiet.

One neither knows nor cares whether this hitherto unknown young English officer, Captain Leo Trevor, treats truly or falsely of customs in the English army. The First Lancers, their uniforms and their regimental creed, are merely the settings—effective though they be—to a story remote from national provincialism. The self-sacrifice of which a strong man is capable is the reverberant chord, and Lieutenant John Hinds is the man.

A Victoria Cross gained by bravery and a hundred soldierly deeds soldierly done, have brought him from the ranks and placed the Queen's commission in his hands. When he makes our acquaintance he has come to report for duty with his regiment, the swagger First Lancers. The chilliness one would expect to see displayed by officers of aristocratic birth toward a rough, clumsy fellow is absent. They know Hinds for his worth; one of their number, Lieutenant Pleydell, knows him for savior at a moment when a tiger had him down. All this, however, can not make his social way easy for him. His moment of introduction to the regiment is likewise the moment of his meeting with Pleydell's cousin, the Baroness Roydon, peeress in her own right, and his mother, Lady Margaret Pleydell. He flounders in trying to find words, and blunders upon the wrong ones when he does speak.

Though he feels himself a gentleman at heart, he realizes he is the boor in manner. Pleydell promises him guidance, but in a moment when he is left alone he scandalizes a tiresome dean by calling for "two wets" and suggesting they drink together to the health of the church. The ladies return and he bids them join him at champagne. Pleydell has told him to be genial. At an instant of embarrassment to all but the unrealizing Hinds the short-tempered Colonel enters, sees the wine glasses, and in anger tells Hinds that the "instincts of a gentleman" should have kept him from his vulgar mistake. It is a gentlewoman's ready wit which keeps the blow from having crushing force; Lady Roydon takes a glass and drinks to the health of Lieutenant John Hinds. The scene concludes a first act which brims with a comedy the rest of the piece does not have. It is a picture, however, and movement has to wait on the second act.

In that it develops a trifle heavily that Lieutenant Pleydell has gambled with an Australian millionaire and that he has lost to the tune of many thousands of pounds. Not a cent has he to meet his obligations, having refused to receive longer an allowance which he finds comes from his cousin, Lady Roydon, whom he loves. Hutton, the millionaire, does not care for payment, but he wants to be helped to social position, a demand made hard by his shadiness of reputation and by his peculiarity of reaching for hs left off at the first utterance of words. Pleydell balks, Hutton threatens exposure, and the harassed officer arranges to exchange to a West Indian regiment. Hinds, now a gentleman even in outward bearing—for a year has passed—learns his friend's plight and meets the man Hutton on the same night at Lady Roydon's house. The peculiarity of a crushed hand sends his memory back and in Hutton he recognizes Jim Stanton, bookmaker's tout, who robbed his father and ran away with his own mother. The device is melodramatic, but it does not jar.

When Hinds comes to take account of events—it is the third act—he realizes he can save Pleydell. He has learned already that he loves Lady Roydon, but not until from a screening chair does he hear his own name mentioned does he realize that his affairs of love and friendship are to conflict. He discovers then that his feeling for Lady Roydon and its hopelessness is a matter of gossip, and is told unintentionally that her affections are centered in her cousin. For one moment only he falters. Silence will send Pleydell away a broken man and leaves the field to him, but he stands on parade and looks above temptation. He will free Pleydell from the leech. In a scene which—as played by Mr. Faversham and Edwin Stevens—is one of the best in the play he meets a hardened bluffer, Hutton, and calls his hand. Private vengeance Hinds puts aside and for a price demands and gets Pleydell's I. O. U.'s. To Lady Roydon and Lieutenant Pleydell, by this time confessed lovers, he gives the notes and goes away. He will seek the West Indian exchange. "It hurts," he says, as he stands alone, "but I have run straight; I have played the game."

Mr. Faversham has not had many better rôles than that of Lieutenant Hinds nor acted many of them in a more pleasing way. The manliness of the characterization was its dominating quality, and it made it for some unnaturalness of tone and bearing disclosed chiefly in the second and third acts and then in the weak spots in the play—its soliloquies and asides. Miss Margaret Anglin won her hearers by her ease and reposeful charm of acting and by the sweetness of her manner. Though she has not appeared here since she played Roxane in "Cyrano de Bergerac," she was welcomed as an old friend. She earned her reception, and from this engagement on will be regarded as one of the best of the young leading women. Edwin Stevens gave rare distinctness to the sinister, cold-blooded, but acute Hutton. Guy Standing pictured Pleydell as a good-natured weakling, and Joseph Wheelock Jr. gave character value to the portrayal of a young aristocrat. Mrs. Whiffen was happy as ever in her impersonation—that of an English mother.

Opera at Studebaker's.

It seems as if the Castle Square company is bent upon presenting every light opera in the entire list. This week it is offering for the entertainment of its patrons a merry piece, which, although far from new, possesses many features of novelty at this time—Lecoq's "Girofle-Girofla," a composition much more familiar to the opera-goers of a dozen years ago than to those of the present day. Last night's presentation did not pass off quite as satisfactorily as the ensuing ones are likely to do, when the familiarity to be gained from another performance or so shall have smoothed out the rough places. There was a noticeable lack of unity between the orchestra and the people on the stage—in the first act, particularly—and some of the principals exhibited signs of nervousness. Director McGhie labored manfully, and succeeded in averting any serious mishap. But to get through the act the assistance of the prompter was necessary on several occasions.

Frank Moulan was as comical as ever in the part of Don Bolero, and he struggled bravely with such singing as he had to do, although he was seriously handicapped in this direction by a severe cold.

William Pruette made his first appearance of the season in the rôle of Mourzouk, and met with a cordial reception. Mr. Pruette last season proved himself one of the most valuable members of the Castle Square company's light opera section, and his work last evening was quite in keeping with the standard he then set for himself. A hearty encore in the third act crowned his evening's efforts.

Reginald Roberts, as Marasquin, was rather weak dramatically, and vocally he also failed to reach any great heights. Gertrude Quinlan was cast for the comparatively small part of Pedro, and acquitted herself creditably. Maude Lillian Berri found much favor with the audience in the double rôle of the twin sisters, Girofle and Girofla. She presented a girlish and attractive appearance, and during the course of the evening did some excellent singing.

Blanche Chapman, as Don Bolero's vixenish wife, Aurore, ably seconded Mr. Moulan in his funmaking, and may fairly be said to have divided with him the honors of the comedy part of the performance. Eva Lynn had a better opportunity than last week to show what she can do in the way of singing and acting, and succeeded in making a tolerably good impression, in the part of Baquita. She has a pleasing voice, fresh in its quality and inclining to richness, but rather light in volume. Greater rhythmical accuracy is an item to which she needs to devote careful and speedy attention. Her performance is in her favor, and her acting, when she shall have acquired greater stage experience, promises to be bright and interesting.

A Royal Rogue at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Jefferson De Angelis produced his new operatic comedy, "A Royal Rogue," at Ford's Opera-House tonight, and to judge by the enthusiasm of the large audience present it scored a most emphatic success. It is in two acts and was written by Charles Klein, the author of "El Capitan" and other comic operas, and the music is by W. T. Francis. The plot hinges slightly on the supposed attempted assassination by Socialists of the Duc de Chartres in Paris in 1797, but the piece deals principally with the troubles of a boulevard café proprietor, who innocently gets mixed up in the conspiracy. As restauranteur Ballou De Angelis has a character that fits him to perfection. The chorus is strong and well trained. Jessie Mackay, the soubrette, is clever, and her singing, while not up to the standard tonight, will no doubt improve. Henry Norman's baritone solos were a feature. The production is beautifully staged and costumed.

"Belle of Bohemia" in New York.

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—It does not follow that because one Sam Bernard is funny that two should be funnier. Proof of this was given at the Casino this evening. The "Belle of Bohemia," with a plot more or less incoherent, is simply a feeble effort to tell a comedy of errors story with the popular comedian as one dromio and his less known brother as the other. The effort was certainly feeble, and the consequences—to the audience—somewhat dispiriting. While Sam Bernard was individually as comical as ever, with his improvised gags flowing freely, the others were ineffective, some wasting their talents in meaningless rôles, others struggling with opportunities of which they made nothing.

In the Palace of the King.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Miss Viola Allen scored a hit tonight at the National Theater as Doña Marie Dolores de Mendoza in "In the Palace of the King." This was the opening of Miss Allen's season in Stoddard's dramatization of Marion Crawford's novel and she was greeted by a large and distinguished audience. Several members of the Cabinet and other well-known officials were present. The play is one of thrilling interest, dealing with the time of Philip the Second, King of Spain, and curtain calls were frequent. The supporting company is a strong one, Robert Haines, as Don Juan of Austria, dividing honors with the star.

Disaster to a Tank Drama.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—During a rehearsal today at the Hyperion Theater of Joseph Arthur's new play, "Lost River," the tank used exploded with a tremendous crash and 2,000 pounds of heavy plate glass and 1,500 gallons of water broke and surged on the stage among the actors. Manager, actors, and stage hands fled in alarm through water half way to their knees.

Marquise de Fontenoy Letter

Copyright, 1900, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD SACKVILLE, the former British Minister at Washington, has been having no end of trouble in connection with his children, whose mother was a member of the corps de ballet at Paris, and whose names do not figure on any of those pages of the "peerages" that are devoted to his name and family.

His daughters will be remembered in this country, for they were with him at Washington, where the eldest did the honors of the English Legation. But their brother never came to this country during his father's stay here. Lord Sackville, appreciating the difficulties of the position, undertook to provide for him only so long as he would remain in south Africa, to which part of the world he had been dispatched when quite a lad.

About a year ago this son, who had meanwhile grown into a man, moved by the description of the glory and splendor of his father's magnificent country seat at Knole Park, which constitutes a favorite theme of illustrated newspapers, came to the conclusion that he was unjustly treated by being kept in south Africa on a mere pittance. Accordingly he went to England for the purpose of securing what he was pleased to call his rights, being under the impression that the act of recognition which Lord Sackville had made in France of his daughter Victoria as being his child applied also to the other children, and legalized their position in England. Of course it did nothing of the kind. Only in the case of Victoria has Lord Sackville given his name as father, although he might just as well have done so with his other children, since there were no matrimonial entanglements on the part of either himself or of the mother.

Young West (for that is the name which he bears), on reaching England, proceeded to Knole Park, announced himself as Lord Sackville's only son, and asked to see his father. Lord Sackville declined to see him or to recognize him, and when the young man insisted he had him forcibly ejected by the servants. The son, with his clothes showing signs of rough treatment, thereupon betook himself to the principal inn of the little town or village of Seven Oaks, which is situated at the gates, so to speak, of Knole Park, and told his story, finding ready sympathy on the part of the villagers, by whom Lord Sackville has succeeded in getting himself quite as strongly disliked as in this country. On explaining that he was penniless, one of them, a carpenter, offered him employment, and for several months afterwards Lord Sackville was unable to drive out of his park gates without meeting his son, arrayed in the garb of a workingman, and without feeling that the sympathy of not only the people of the village but of the entire countryside was with the young man.

Finally, when the unrecognized sisters of the young man, notably the one who had married Mr. Salanson of the French Legation at Washington, but who is now separated from him, had announced their intentions of coöperating with him in pressing their claims upon their father, the situation became so intolerable that some sort of a compromise was arranged, the negotiations being carried on through the recognized sister, Victoria, who, married to her cousin, Lionel Sackville West, nephew and heir to Lord Sackville's peerage and estates, will herself become in course of time Lady Sackville and chatelaine of Knole Park, of which she now does the honors for her father.

Of Lord Sackville's conduct in introducing his daughters at Washington, in investing one of them with the rôle of Ambassadress, and then refusing to recognize them as his offspring in Europe, it is impossible to speak too strongly. Lord Sackville, however, who is heir presumptive to his nephew's earldom of De La War, is, however, a man who has throughout his life been forever doing the wrong thing, and who is on this account probably the most unpopular member of the House of Lords.

The Sultan's gift to the nation in connection with his jubilee was most appropriate and truly Oriental. By an imperial proclamation he remitted all arrears of taxes that had been due for more than fifteen years, a gift which on paper amounted to over $50,000,000. Arrears of taxation that have been left unpaid for more than fifteen years are never likely to be paid at all, and the consequence is that the Ottoman ruler's gift to his people is magnificent only on paper and has not cost him a penny piece.

A good deal of attention has been aroused in connection with this jubilee of the Sultan by the extraordinary failure on the part of foreign Mohammedan communities and nations to take any notice of the celebration. In fact, the jubilee has been a terrible blow to his pan-Islam aspirations. For all his efforts to get up a great demonstration of loyalty from foreign Moslems in connection with the event has met with dismal failure.

ALL JEWS OBSERVE NEW YEAR.

Even Prisoners in County Jail Keep the Customs of Their Religious Feast.

The celebration of Rosh Ashona, the Jewish New Year holiday, was at its height yesterday and the festival will close at sunset tonight. A feature of the services in the synagogues was the blowing of the rams' horn trumpets, suggestive of the sacrifice of Isaac. Even the Jewish prisoners at the county jail observed the holy custom. Twenty-five of them petitioned Jailer Whitman for the privilege. Max J. Meir, held on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails, had charge of the ceremonies.

Several Large Parties and Many Dinners, Luncheons, and Informal Affairs Announced—Mrs. Harold Peck to Take a House on the North Side—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harding Davis to Spend the Winter in New York—Movements of Society People.

It will not be all golf at Wheaton next week, and with the tournament will be no end of luncheons and dinners and informal affairs. Scattered Wheatonites from over the country are returning again, and several large house parties are planned. Mr. Charles B. MacDonald is coming, and after the tournament Mrs. MacDonald will return with him to their new home in New York. Mr. and Mrs. William Farquhar have returned from eighteen months' absence abroad, and will caperone Mr. Medill McCormick's house party. The guests will be Miss Mary McCormick and Miss Louise Brega, who return from the East next Sunday, and Mr. Herbert Stone, Mr. Clive Runnells, and Mr. Potter Palmer Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor will be the guests of Mrs. C. L. Stroble. Mrs. Frederick S. Eames will give a dinner on Thursday evening. Mrs. Arthur Ely also will have a house party, and the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. John McClennon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otis, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ireland, all of Cleveland.

Mrs. Harold Peck will return from Paris soon, and take a house on the North Side. Miss Josephine Peck and Miss Haroldine Peck will be introduced this winter.

Mrs. J. Kirkland and the Misses Kirkland, Rush street, have returned from Coburg, Ont., where they spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, who have been with Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clark at Marion, Mass., since their return from abroad, will spend the winter in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Eddy and Miss Catheryn Eddy will spend the winter abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman are returning home from Paris, and have purchased the house at 160 Rush street formerly occupied by Mr. Allison Armour.

Mrs. Martin Ryerson has returned to the Auditorium Annex.

Mr. Arthur Aldis has returned to the city. Mrs. Aldis will remain in the East until Oct. 15.

Mrs. George W. Cass and the Misses Cass have returned from Europe, and are in New York. They will open their house at 2715 Michigan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kimball, who went abroad in July, are in New York, and will return to Chicago this week.

GIRLS DISAPPEAR FROM HOMES.

Three Hyde Park Misses Run Away Together, Leaving No Clew for Police or Their Mothers.

Three girls, whose combined ages make but forty-three years, have disappeared from their homes in Fifty-fifth street, and their distracted mothers have appealed to the Hyde Park police in the hope that the triple mystery may be cleared up. The girls were close friends of each other, they lived not more than a block apart, and the circumstances attending their disappearance seem to indicate that they had planned it several days ago. The names of the runaways are:

ROMURE JACQUOSSIN.

Nellie McNevan is an orphan. She made her home with her cousin, Mrs. Leaf, and earned her living by helping with the housework and taking care of the children. Mrs. Leaf describes her cousin as a beautiful girl, though shy and retiring. She had reached the long skirt age, but had no young friends who called at the house. She left home on Friday evening, saying that she was only going out for a little while.

Romure Jacquossin did not go to school on Friday, remaining home at the request of her mother, who has been ill for two weeks. She left the house on Friday morning, and since her departure the mother has discovered that three of her skirts are gone.

Mabel Simons lived in a flat with her mother and grandparents. Mrs. Simons attributes the actions of her daughter to her intense love for her father, who left his wife and child about two months ago. Mabel was greatly attached to her father, and the mother is of the opinion that the disappearance of the girl is caused by her grief over his absence.

MOTHER VISITS MISS COTTON.

Will Leave Daughter in Hospital Until She Recovers from Apparent Self-Hypnotism.

Miss Josephine Cotton, 53 South Curtis street, who was seized with a violent attack of hysteria while shopping at Rothschild's store last Thursday afternoon, as reported in THE TRIBUNE at the time, still lies in a peculiar mental condition at the County Hospital. She was visited yesterday by her stepmother, Mrs. Fred Cotton, who decided to leave her at the hospital until she recovers.

The physicians and nurses at the hospital say that the mental state of the woman borders on self-hypnotism. She lies for hours in the same posture, without making a movement of any kind, yet her eyes betray the fact that she is conscious of even casual scrutiny. She will respond to suggestions made by others, such as taking food when placed near her, and has even walked at the suggestion of the nurses. When left to herself, however, she seems powerless to initiate a movement of any kind and refuses to utter a word. The physicians are much puzzled by the case, especially since the woman's pulse and temperature are normal.

The young woman's stepmother informed the nurses that the patient had been subject to hysterical attacks for several years, but never before had been in her present condition. Miss Cotton will remain in the hospital until she recovers from her peculiar mental state.

HORSE-OWNERS ORGANIZE.

ASSOCIATION FORMED TO ASSIST THE LOCAL TRACKS.

Committee to Be Appointed for the Purpose of Straightening Out Turf Congress Muddle and Preventing Curtailment of Chicago's Racing Dates—Jockey Kiley Breaks Collarbone in a Spill in Last Race at Hawthorne—Gilmore Is Blamed.

When the owners and others interested in racetracks south of the Ohio River voted at the Turf congress meeting to curtail the racing dates in Chicago for the benefit of their own tracks they thought they had next season's racing situation in the palms of their hands, to do with as they saw fit. They thought no racing plant or organization would dare do other than abide by the rulings of the Turf congress. It was powerful in the past and, according to those interested in tracks outside of Chicago, St. Louis, and New Orleans, is considered a power at present. Racing, however, has become too popular and is too strongly entrenched in the three above named cities to be pushed into the background by the Turf congress or by parties interested in tracks in smaller cities. Washington, Harlem, and Hawthorne will not take cognizance of the dates dealt out to them and the horse owners are with them.

New Organization Is Formed.

The latter, to show their sincerity in the matter, yesterday organized what will in the future be known as the Owners and Trainers' Mutual association. The object of the association is, principally, to pooling racing in Chicago and St. Louis, regardless of the vote at the Turf congress meeting curtailing the season. Furthermore, the association aims to have a voice in future Turf congress meetings, as the owners and trainers support the congress. To sum it up in a nutshell, they, as part and parcel of the racing game, figure they ought to have a voice in everything pertaining to the interests of all concerned.

A meeting, at which a committee of five will be appointed to wait upon the Turf congress and track officials to straighten out the present tangle, will be held shortly. Owners and trainers argue that the smaller tracks have not sufficient stable capacity, and if the local and St. Louis tracks are compelled to keep their gates closed until June 10 it would be disastrous to the game, as one-third of the horses in training would be obliged to stand in their stalls.

The racing at Hawthorne yesterday ended with Lady Meddlesome, Catastrophe, Dad Steele, and several others bumping into each other at the first turn, which caused the first named pair to go down. Buchanan, who rode Lady Meddlesome, escaped injury, but Kiley, who sat astride Catastrophe, besides breaking his collarbone, received a bad shaking up.

Gilmore, on Dad Steele, was blamed for the accident and was set down for thirty days. Buchanan, however, said Gilmore was not accountable for what had occurred, but the judges thought otherwise. Lady Meddlesome was a heavily played favorite. Hood's Brigade, at 9 to 2, won the race. Highland Lad was second and Larkspur third.

Frond, in the steeplechase, was the only favorite to win, and she won by 100 yards. The opening event went to Water Plant at 30 to 1, with If You Dare and Fonso the nearest behind him. Brownie Anderson was picked to do the trick in the second race, but Minyon, Mitten, and Emma R. passed under the wire first in the order named. Fridolin and Kohnwreath had it out between them in the fourth, the former receiving the verdict, and that after deliberately fouling Kohnwreath within fifty yards of the wire.

The judges took no cognizance of it, but in the next race disqualified Headwater, which finished second to Specific, for fouling at the far turn. Fridolin's foul had a decided effect on the race, while Headwater's foul did not. The judges fined Buchanan $100 for his supposed woolly ride on Headwater. Vititoe's ride on Sly last Saturday was not admired by the officials, and he was debarred from riding at the track the remainder of the season.

POOR DAY FOR FAVORITE PLAYERS.

Criterion and Star Bright the Only Ones to Win.

New York, Sept. 24.—Favorite players again found little consolation at Gravesend today. Only two were in front at the finish, Criterion, at odds on, in the first and Star Bright in the fourth. The Parkville Handicap was the only fixture. Rockton was the nominal favorite. Killiashandra won by a length, Contestor beating Rockton a neck for the place.

"Cash" Sloan Rides a Winner.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—At the first international meeting at Maisons-Laffitte "Cash" Sloan won the Handicap de la Tamise, 20,000 francs, over a course of 1,800 meters, on Prince J. Murat's Diction. The Prix de la Manche, 10,000 francs, over a course of 1,000 meters, was won by Rigby, the American jockey, on Mme. Menier's Avant-Garde.

JUDGES ENFORCE RULES RIGIDLY.

Opening Day of Terre Haute's Fall Trotting Meeting.

[BY H. T. WHITE.]

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The annual trotting meeting over the four-cornered track where so many world's records have been broken was begun today under the most favorable circumstances as to weather, condition of track, and size and quality of the fields engaged. The association is especially up to date in the management of the judges' stand, its occupants being men who know the rules and are not afraid to enforce them.

The work today was clean cut, and five drivers who did not come out promptly were fined, while some others were assessed for scoring ahead of the pole horse. The starting was also first-class, and while W. P. Ijams, President of the track, was not in the stand he exercised a general supervision over affairs, and saw that they went well.

The racing was of a high order, and especially good was the 2:16 pace, in which more than a dozen started. It was won by Iona, a daughter of the gray stallion, Moody, which was owned in Chicago for many years. The mare is owned in Canada, and got all the half mile track records in Manitoba before starting away from home. Her winning heats were the second, third, and fifth, and she can beat 2:10 a couple of seconds right now. A feature of the race was the fact that after Therese Wilkes had finished first in a hard drive in 2:08¼ in the fourth heat the judges took the heat away from her for changing her position after entering the homestretch, thereby interfering with Daisy J., who got the heat. In the fifth mile these two raced head and head to the stretch, but Iona made a great finish, closing a gap of five lengths in the last quarter, and finished strong.

Major Green Works Too Hard.

The 2:26 class was a Waterloo for those who played the favorite. This was Major Greer. He went two hard races at Fort Wayne last week, losing one of them on its merits. This was on Thursday, and yet he was started again today, and was given a workout before the race that was quite a battle in itself. He showed prominently for two heats, but the local horse, Crito, had the speed of the party, and but for a break just as the word was given in the third heat would have won off the reel. As it was, this mistake gave Joe Rea a chance with his Futurity filly, Lady Thisbe, and she won in racehorse style from the others in 2:16¼, and then forced Crito to trot the final mile in 2:15½.

She is owned by Marcus Daly, the Montana copper magnate, and he had another starter today in Green Silk, one of the field in the stake for 2-year-olds. Green Silk is a full sister to China Silk, that was a sensational 2-year-old trotter in 1896, making a record of 2:16½ at that age. The younger member of the family is a good-looker, and steps like a trotter, but has not much speed, as she was last all the time today. The winner, Hawthorne, is a full sister to Susie J., 2:17½ as a 3-year-old, but, like the other starters in the race, has no sensational speed. The Allerton filly, which divided honors with Mary Leyburn, is over sixteen hands high, and the best-furnished thing of her age that ever started. The fourth race on the card was not finished, but Lady All Right was the best of the lot, taking the two heats paced easily.

The Abbott Starts Today.

Tomorrow will be the occasion of the first attempt this week of The Abbott to beat the world's trotting record. He was scheduled for Thursday, but Geers has decided to try tomorrow if the day and track suit him, and, in case he fails, can have another shy at the mark on Thursday. Horsemen generally are of the opinion that the record will be beaten if the horse is steady, but last week at Fort Wayne he was unsteady in his work. Tommy Britton was to have gone tomorrow against the stallion record of Cresceus, but the announcement was made today that the horse was not in form and would not parade. George West started the pony pacer Dacy today and he went well. The summaries:

Prince of Wales Engages Sloan.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—As a culmination of the ascendency of American jockeys, it is announced today that the Prince of Wales has engaged Tod Sloan, at a large retainer, for 1901. Many horse owners who have hitherto hesitated to desert the home talent will doubtless follow the royal lead.

HARD DAY FOR MAROONS.

Director Stagg Tries Out Several Candidates for the Two Important Positions—Practice Game Is Played with New Men in Line—Place Returns and Wins the Commendation of the Coaches—Monmouth's Lineup for Tomorrow's Game.

The Maroon football candidates were given over three hours of hard practice yesterday afternoon by Coach Stagg. Two of these were devoted to punting, place kicking, and the development of new center rushes and quarter backs. The remainder of the time was spent in scrimmages, the line-up being quite different from any that has been tried heretofore.

Two new candidates were tried at quarter, Eldridge and Snider, while Flanagan and Fowler were pitted against each other at center. Although the weather was too warm for fast football the men went at the work with spirit and vigor, the rushes being especially fierce. Two new men appeared on the field, A. W. Place and E. C. Ellsworth of Morgan Park Academy. Place was on the scrub team last year, and entered into the practice so heartily as to win the commendation of Stagg. He was tried at right half, and scored the only touchdown for his side, besides making a brilliant tackle which ended Henry's twenty-five-yard run. He weighs 162 pounds.

The feature of the preliminary work was the number of men who were tried for center and quarter. Six were experimented with at quarter—Eldridge, Goodenow, Garrey, Lord, Snider, and Petet. Flanagan, Fowler, Carey, Ervin, Strauss, and Freeman all tried their hand at snapping the ball, while Ervin and C. Ellsworth were put at work punting. Henry was given a chance at place kicking under Herschberger's tuition.

In the practice game the team under Herschberger's direction carried the ball by fierce rushes over Stagg's goal line in about ten minutes, the gains being due mainly to Henry's line bucking. Stagg's men were unable to hold Henry back, and were constantly ordered by the veteran coach to hold tighter. Ervin failed in his attempt at goal. After the next kickoff the ball was carried back to the fifty-yard line, where, after one or two attempts to buck the line, Henry got the ball and went through the line for a twenty-five yard run with a clear field before him when Place made a fine tackle from behind and brought him down. Stagg's team then braced up and held Herschberger's men for downs and carried the ball from the twenty-five yard line back to the center of the field. Petet then got the ball for a twenty-five yard run, but was caught by Sheldon. Goodenow then made a ten-yard gain and the ball was pushed over the line for a touchdown by Pierce. McNab kicked goal, giving Stagg's men the victory by a score of 6 to 5.

The lineup:

Ervin	L. G.	Backhouse	L. G.
Fowler	C.	Flanagan	C.
Bodwell	R. H.	Place	R. H.
Henry	L. H.	Horton	L. H.
Strauss	F. B.	Carey	F. B.

Speed did not go into the game, but helped in the coaching. Captain Smith of the baseball team arrived from his home at Houston, Tex., and has requested Stagg to cut down the baseball squad before the fall work is commenced.

Director Stagg is in receipt of a letter from Roy Graham, manager of the Monmouth football team, giving the lineup for tomorrow's game. Monmouth has eight old men back this year. If the team has as much confidence as the manager they ought to put up a plucky fight. He writes: "We have a good team this year, the average weight being between 170 and 175 pounds. We expect to play a good game and give you as much practice as two years ago, when we scored against you."

CANDIDATES FOR THE PURPLE TEAM.

Northwestern's football team lined up for practice in the rain yesterday and showed unexpected dash and energy after the game of Saturday. Henry Hanson, left tackle on last year's team, has returned to college and will be out in a suit today. His appearance has bettered Northwestern's chances. Hanson weighs only 170 pounds, but has great pluck and endurance. T. C. Shock, half back on the Portland, Ore., Athletic club was out for practice. He will be in the dental school this year, and if his work will permit will try for the team. Joe Hunter and Bert Potter are expected in Evanston this week to assist Dr. Hollister in coaching.

	Weight.	Height.	Age.
Elliot	170	5 11	24
Smiley	165	5 10	24
Deitz	194	5 10	24
Johnson	155	5 8	21

HARVARD'S FIRST ACTUAL LINEUP.

Kendall and Stillman Make Coaches Happy by Coming Out.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Harvard began football today. Heretofore glass men would have been safe in the practice. Today with lineups, elevens partially picked, and a host of coaches on the field, the season took definite form.

Teddy Kendall, right half last year, returned today. All he could say was that he had changed his plans. He will be at Harvard, and the fact that he was played at his old place the first day out shows how much the management wanted him. Then Stillman put all fears to rest by appearing, and Harvard is happy. The first lineup was for punting and blocking, as follows:

First team.	Position.	Second team.	Position.
Barnard	R. G.	Carroll	L. G.
Sargent	C.	Sugden	C.
Lee	L. G.	Riggs	R. G.
Knowlton	L. T.	Blayden	R. T.
Endicott	L. E.	Clark	R. E.
Sherlock, Daly	Q. B.	Motley	Q. B.
Gierasch	L. H.	Sawin, Hersy	L. H.
Kendall, Derby	R. H.	Kervan, Taylor	R. H.

This selection is a fair index. It shows two surprises. Eaton, left back, is slightly ill, so Knowlton was played there and Endicott at left end. Endicott played on his class team and Knowlton was on the second last year. Ristine and Campbell, left ends last year, are not out yet.

Another business-like feature was the presence of many coaches. Jack Moulton, end in '98; Lewis, '95; Muchie, '95; Dibblee, '98; F. J. Cochrane, '98; and Bert Waters, '94, were on the field. All save Waters and Dibblee were in togs and got right into the work.

Roberts of Salem High a freshman, was out. He is the biggest man Harvard has had in years. He weighs 274 pounds. Lewis gave him points, but he looks fleshy for a center on a lively team.

SCRUBS SCORE AGAINST VARSITY.

King Starts Wisconsin at Hard Work Earlier than Usual.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The lower campus was too soft for football practice today and Coach King took his squad out to Randall Field for work. After ten minutes spent in punting, a couple of elevens were selected and formations and interference practiced, Coach King having charge of the varsity and Jerry Riordan and Peele of the second eleven. The two teams were then lined up for a hard half-hour's scrimmage, which called forth considerable comment to the effect that King was starting his men in at hard work much earlier this year than previously.

The varsity lined up about the same as in Saturday's game. Skow went in at center and Webster and Leerum at guards. Grass played left tackle and is at present the favorite for Blair's old place. Marshal was in at quarter, Krapp and Abercrombie at halves, and Driver at full. Grissel played full on the second eleven. The work of the varsity was decidedly ragged. One touchdown was made soon after play started, but after that the scrubs got the ball and under the coaching of Riordan and Peele pushed the varsity down the field for twenty yards. The varsity took a brace and rushed the ball down to the scrubs' goal, when Kellogg of the scrubs grabbed the ball on a fumble and ran the whole length of the field for a touchdown.

Larson, last year's crack half back, and Ware, a promising player, who was injured in practice last fall, showed up today.

CONSENT OF FACULTY NECESSARY.

Yale Team Willing to Play Princeton in New York.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Manager Hixson of the Yale eleven said today that if Princeton wishes to change the Yale-Princeton game to New York, as rumored, the Yale football team was willing, provided the Yale faculty would give its consent.

When Malcolm Lee McBride, Captain of last year's Yale eleven, arrived this afternoon and took charge of the eleven for this season as head coach, he found fifty candidates on the squad. He divided them into four elevens and sent them into the first scrimmage since they reported, just a week ago. The scrubs were given the ball and on a fumble by Chadwick lost it on the second down. The varsity rushed it from the center of the field, on center plunges without losing possession of it, for a touchdown in seven minutes. This was the only scrimmaging done during the day. Four coachers were present—McBride, Cutten, Wurtemberg, the Dartmouth coach; and Mike Murphy. Captain Brown stopped coaching today and resumed his place in the line.

Today's Games.

Chicago at St. Louis.
New York at Boston.
Philadelphia at Brooklyn.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 24.—Boston and New York played a tie game today, the game being called at the end of the seventh inning on account of darkness. Heavy batting and poor fielding marred the work of both teams. Davis was put out of the game in the second for kicking, Mercer taking his place. Boston tried a new man behind the bat, Connor of Bridgeport. He did not make a good impression, making two wild throws and having two passed balls.

Both teams wanted the game to improve their respective positions. Trouble developed in the latter half of the first inning. Hamilton was given his base on balls and Long drove a hit over right field fence for a home run. New York made a big kick, as the ball apparently went foul by two feet, but Umpire Snyder called it fair. Barry and Tenny made safe hits and Carrick a wild throw off Collins' bounder. Freeman followed with a safe drive, on which Collins was thrown out at the plate by five feet, but Snyder called him safe. Another kick followed and was kept up at intervals until Captain Davis was finally put out of the game in the second inning. Seymour replaced Carrick in the second and was succeeded by Taylor in the fourth. The score:

PIRATES MOWED DOWN BY YOUNG.

Luck Enables St. Louis to Score a Single Run.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Tonight the heart of Barney Dreyfuss is sick from hope delayed, for his team, aspiring for pennant honors, went down before St. Louis and the great speed of Cyrus Young.

The game was a battle royal between Waddell and Young, and for seven innings the teams fought desperately for an opening. St. Louis hit Waddell hard, but the Pirates fielded in wonderful style, and many times cut down base hits. After saving Waddell when he was hit hard the Pirates succumbed to luck. In the seventh inning Wallace smashed a vicious bounder towards second, which Ely reached by a despairing effort and fumbled. Zimmer made a clever catch of a foul, but Wallace reached second on the play, and a moment later romped home with the one tally of the game when McGann's fluke fly fell safe at Ely's finger-tips in left.

The Pirates were helpless before Young. Only twice did they even threaten to score—once when Waddell cracked a double to right, and again when Leach led an inning with a hit. Waddell should have sacrificed, but elected to hit, and the game was lost.

The score:

Philadelphia, 9; Brooklyn, 6.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Philadelphia won today's game from Brooklyn by bunching two triples and a brace of singles, with a couple of errors in the seventh, Flick supplying a three-bagger with the bases full. The fielding of Monte Cross and the base running of Sheckard, who scored twice from second on infield outs, were the features. McFarland was removed from the game for kicking. The score:

Magnates in Conference.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—John T. Brush, Barney Dreyfuss, Stanley Robison, and Adolph Becker met at the St. Louis ball park this afternoon and another of Mr. Brush's mysterious conferences ensued. All refused to tell what happened at the meeting except Dreyfuss, and he was so excited over his team's defeat that he did not know. It was currently reported Mr. Brush was trying to secure the services of John McGraw as manager for the Cincinnati team. The Chicago club, which arrived from Cincinnati this morning, sat in the grand stand and pulled for Pittsburg to win, all but Griffith and Callahan, who attended the races. Chicago will open a series with St. Louis tomorrow.

Pitcher Easson Reports.

Easson, the latest pitcher signed by Manager Loftus of the Chicago National league club, reported to President Hart at the Fisher Building yesterday. The new man comes from the Courtland club of the New York league, which closed its season Sunday. He was expected to join the Orphans at Cincinnati, but missed connections and will remain here until the team's return on Friday.

May B. Claims the Win.

It transpires that the impromptu race Saturday afternoon between the yachts May B. and Spray was merely from the harbor entrance to the four-mile crib, and did not include the return to the harbor. Those on board W. L. Shepard's yacht say May B. beat Spray fully two minutes to the crib.

Internal Revenue Receipts Increase.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—The August statement of the collections of internal revenue shows that during that month the receipts from all sources amounted to $25,505,716, which is an increase over the month of August last year, of $1,174,751.

NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS.

ENTRIES FOR THE WESTERN AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Sixty Golfers Will Compete for the Honors Over Onwentsia's Course This Week, Twenty-three Less than Last Year's List—David R. Forgan, the Present Champion, a Notable Absentee—Sixteen Players from Out of Town.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Entries for the amateur championship of the Western Golf association and the Marshall Field trophy, which are to be played for at the Onwentsia club this week, closed tonight with Secretary David A. Edgar. Sixty players have entered for the amateur championship, the list being as follows:

Skokie Country club—A. G. Bennett.

Homewood Country club—John Stuart.

St. Paul Town and Country club—B. F. Shurmeier, M. Doran Jr., H. P. Bend, W. M. Balcom, W. P. Trowbridge.

Sinnissippi Golf club—Albert Schaller.

Marshall Field trophy for teams of five—St. Paul Town and Country club, Riverside Golf club, Midlothian Country club, Belmont Golf club, Onwentsia club, Edgewater Golf club, Milwaukee Country club, Glen View Golf and Polo club, River Forest Golf club.

Smaller than Last Year.

The list of entries does not come up to expectation either as regards quantity or quality. In the tournament held last year at Glen View, from Sept. 6 to 9, there were eighty-three entries. It was argued at the time that a number of players were away on their vacations or the list would have been even larger. This year the tournament is being held at a time when most people have returned from the summer resorts, yet the entry list is considerably smaller.

From the standpoint of quality it is certainly not any better than that of last year. Chief among the absentees is David R. Forgan, the present champion. His absence will detract somewhat from the interest of the tournament. E. B. Bliss of Riverside, B. F. Cummins of Washington Park, W. R. Kirk of Onwentsia, M. C. Cummings of Washington Park, Murry Nelson Jr., F. R. Hamlin of Chicago, and Chester Allen of Kenosha, all of whom qualified last year, are not in the list.

Of the sixty entries sixteen are from out of town clubs, as against eleven last year. The St. Paul Town and Country club will have five representatives, and two of them are good enough to get a place in the qualifying list. Five players will come from the Milwaukee Town and Country club, and Louis Allis, who won the open championship of the club last month from a field including several Chicago cracks, should be able to keep in the race until near the finish. B. S. Horne, the sole representative of the Allegheny Country club, was a competitor last year and finished fifth in the Western open championship with a score of 181. Albert Schaller of the Sinnissippi club of Janesville, Wis., is also a strong player.

Local Clubs Well Represented.

Of the local players who competed last year and qualified W. E. Egan, the runner-up, William Holabird Jr., John Towne, William Waller, W. I. Osborne, Richard G. Watson Jr., J. M. Sellers, and G. A. Carpenter have again entered.

Both the Onwentsia and Glen View clubs will be strongly represented, and should be able to make a strong fight for the final honors.

The junior element is not as large as was expected, many of the boys being by this time away at school. Walter Egan and R. G. Watson Jr. of Onwentsia; F. D. Frazier, William Holabird Jr., and John D. Towne of Glen View; J. Waller Knott and W. E. Clow Jr. of Edgewater are the best representatives of the coming school of champions.

The match for the Marshall Field trophy should prove interesting if the clubs entered can produce their best quintets of players. Riverside, Glen View, Onwentsia, Milwaukee, and St. Paul appear to have the best chance of carrying off the cup. It is, however, a thirty-six hole match, and at this distance quality will tell.

HUTCHINSON WILL PLAY HERE, TOO.

He Expects to Win Open Championship from Englishmen.

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Americans will have a chance to see the open golf championship of Great Britain practically repeated when the open contest of America takes place at Chicago next month. J. H. Taylor, the 1900 winner at St. Andrews, and Harry Vardon, holder of the title at three different times, are to meet there next week and the fight is sure to be furious.

These cracks will strike a hard proposition in Tom Hutchinson. They knew him in England, and last Thursday at Morristown Vardon found him to be stronger than ever. Hutchinson is taking good care of himself now, for the first time since his arrival in America six months ago, and there are golfers who would not be surprised to see him carry off the honors.

ACCIDENT IN GRADE CLIMBING.

Automobile Is Wrecked, but Operator Unhurt by the Breakdown.

A grade climbing contest was the most interesting event at the automobile exhibition at Washington Park yesterday. It not only served to demonstrate the ability of the vehicles to travel up an incline, but afforded the spectators a chance to see one of them in a collision. Among the competitors was Albert Shaw, who made several unsuccessful efforts to reach the top of the chute. On his last trip down something went wrong with the works and his vehicle ran amuck, twice caroming on the side of the runaway and finally running into a post at the bottom.

Shaw was not hurt, but the machine was wrecked. First prize in this event was won by the Chicago Motor Vehicle company, which used a motor vehicle with a combination delivery body. J. D. Firth, the driver, sent his vehicle to the top of the incline and bumped into the rail at the top. He then came down a few yards and again ascended to the top, a feat he repeated several times. The first test was from a fixed position fifty feet from the base of the chute and the second from the base. Second prize was won by the St. Louis Motor Carrying company. The prize for the oldest automobile on exhibition went to the Columbia Perambulator company.

Hewitt and Linstrom had a walkover in the two mile merchandise delivery race, their wagon making the distance in 10:11. No pretence was made at delivering a parcel, the driver simply jumping out of his seat and jumping back again after it had gone a few yards. J. D. Firth did some clever driving in the fifth event, a trick and fancy driving contest, open to all types of motor vehicles. A box was placed on the track and he brought one of the rear wheels on top of the box. Then an egg was placed on the track and Firth gradually let the vehicle down until the rear wheel marked the egg without cracking it. He also rode over a pile of scantling three feet high and ten feet long. Second prize went to the St. Louis Motor Carrying company.

The ten mile free-for-all race was postponed until today. Nine events are scheduled for this afternoon, including three ten mile races and a five mile woman's race.

SMITH MAKES DELIBERATE FOUL.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 24.—Joe Walcott and "Mysterious" Billy Smith fought at the Coliseum tonight, the bout being scheduled for twenty rounds. At every stage of the fight Walcott proved himself to be Smith's superior.

He fought him all over the ring, landed at will, and at the end of the ninth round Smith had received so much severe punishment that he complained of his left hand being bad and wanted to quit.

Johnnie White of New York, the referee, refused to allow him to do so, and in the tenth round Walcott went at Smith hammer and tongs, administering terrific right and left swings in the stomach and head. Smith, who had fought foul in some of the earlier rounds, realizing that he was no match for Walcott, deliberately fouled him by holding, whereupon he was disqualified and sent to his corner by the referee, and Walcott was declared the winner.

Barry Defeats "Cuban Wonder."

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—The new Badger Athletic club had an auspicious season's opening tonight at the West Side Turn Hall. The bouts furnished excellent sport for 1,000 persons. The main feature was a six-round bout between Emil Sanchez, the "Cuban Wonder," and Dave Barry of Chicago. They fought six exciting rounds, the decision going to Barry, who knocked his man down twice during the performance. Joe Percente and Mickey Riley of Milwaukee fought a draw, as did "Kid" Black and Charles Neary, also of this city.

Bennett Put Out by a Fall.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—One round and thirty seconds were enough for Eddie Kennedy of Pittsburg to put out Jack Bennett of McKeesport tonight. Kennedy was the favorite at 2 to 1 at the ring side, though Bennett commanded even money at 8 o'clock. The first round ended in Kennedy's favor, though the fighting was fast and vicious. After half a minute's fighting in the second, during a clinch, both fell to the floor. Bennett's head struck and the fatal nine was counted before he could rise. Patsy Gavin was referee.

Fast Bouts at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24.—Tim Callahan of this city and Oscar Gardner, the "Omaha Kid," fought six hard and scientific rounds tonight. At the finish Callahan had slightly the best of it. Harry Burke and Eddie Gardner, a brother of the "Kid," fought six of the hottest rounds ever witnessed in this city, in which Burke seemed to have the advantage.

Sporting News Notes.

The Young Men's Athletic association will hold its weekly bout at Apollo Hall, Blue Island avenue and Twelfth street, tonight at 8 o'clock. Eddie Santry will referee.

GENERAL NEWS OF RAILWAYS.

Increase of Grain Rates from Buffalo to New York Expected Oct. 1—Rock Island Seeks to Enter St. Paul.

Traffic managers of the five lines which recently reëstablished the New York Grain committee to control and increase the movement of lake-and-rail grain from Buffalo to New York, have been conferring for the purpose of determining the new rates which will be made effective, it is asserted on Oct. 1. The rate from Buffalo to New York will probably be four cents per 100 pounds, the rates recently having varied between two and one-half and three cents, including elevator and lighterage charges. It is claimed that with grain moving at these changing and widely varying rates the interests of grain shippers, as well as the railroads, have suffered, and the reëstablishment of the Grain committee or pool was in part due to the protests of the grain men at the irregularity of the freight rates. They asserted that the manner in which these low rates were made was of no advantage to them and that the discrimination which resulted was more injurious than the maintenance of higher and fixed rates.

East-bound grain shipments from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard by the all-rail lines last week amounted to 1,334,000 bushels, against 1,223,000 bushels for the week previous. The increase is due to the anxiety of shippers to forward all the grain they can at the low rates in effect during the last few weeks, orders having been issued by the Eastern trunk line Presidents to restore the rates to tariff on Oct. 1. It is supposed that by that time all the grain contracted for at cut rates will have been disposed of.

The Erie still continues to lead in the amount of grain carried. The Michigan Central is a close second, as it has been for the last two or three weeks. Excepting the Grand Trunk, which secured a fair share of the business, the shipments by the other lines were quite light.

Following is a statement of shipments of flour, grain, and provisions from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard by the East-bound roads last week:

	Flour. Barrels.	Grain. Bushels.	Provisions. Pounds.
Wabash	[illegible]	90,000	3,178

Baltimore & Ohio	10,850	89,000	3,510
Grand Trunk		159,000	5,200
Nickel Plate	4,065	63,000	2,800
Erie	1,112	386,000	2,594

Rock Island After St. Paul Line.

Railroad officials say that, even should the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern succeed in making a traffic arrangement with the Chicago Great Western between Faribault, Minn., and St. Paul, the arrangement would be only temporary, for the reason that the Burlington and Cedar Rapids, which is a part of the Rock Island system, will undoubtedly be pushed through to the Twin Cities from Faribault next year. The distance would be fifty-four miles.

Passenger Agents to Meet.

Executive officers and General Passenger Agents of transcontinental roads will meet in this city today to take final action on the proposition to organize an independent Transcontinental Passenger association. The main obstacle in the way of the formation of the association is the demand of the Santa Fé to be guaranteed a larger proportion of the military business than the other roads are willing to grant. The Northern Pacific and Great Northern refuse to join the combination, but the association, it is said, can be carried on without them.

Woman's Burdens

are many. On every side they cry out for relief. Hundreds have come to believe that there is no cure for the distressing ailments that sap beauty and life.

This is an error. There is a cure for everything. If one medicine does not relieve, it is the wrong one. This is simple common sense.

Most womanly derangements spring from congestion or a catarrhal irritation of the mucous membrane lining the pelvic organs. The remedy which reaches, heals and strengthens this delicate lining, will stop the weakening drains, correct painful irregularities, heal all inflammation, and irritation.

Such a medicine is Pe-ru-na. Hundreds of strong, healthy women can testify to its wonderful efficiency. It is just as good for the girl in the teens as it is for her mother, and it will prove an excellent tonic for both.

Pe-ru-na is not an experiment. Its result is not an uncertainty. It lives up to its claims, and faithfully used rarely fails to effect a permanent cure.

BID FOR CEREAL STOCK.

MANAGEMENT NOT IN OFFER OF ENGLISH SYNDICATE.

If Proposition Is Accepted American Company Will Be Continued as at Present Without Combination with Outside Corporations—Money Rates Grow Firmer—Growth of Chicago as a Financial Power—Sales on the Local Exchange.

It develops that the deal for the purchase of the American Cereal company at $175 a share on behalf of an English syndicate is being carried on independently of the management. The stockholders who are conducting the negotiations are President O. C. Barber of the Diamond Match company, Treasurer J. K. Robinson of the same corporation, and M. Otis Hower, a director in the Cereal company. Their combined interest in the Cereal company is a large one. On the authority of a member of the syndicate it is stated that the company will be continued as at present, without combination with outside corporations, if the present offer is accepted.

Mr. Barber's letter to stockholders says that the offer is conditional on the annual statements of the last three years being verified as correct by a firm of public accountants. He adds that he is assured by the officers that they are correct.

The stockholders are asked to sign blanks agreeing to sell, and also requests to the officers of the company that the accountants be permitted to make the investigations.

The stock of the Cereal company has advanced considerably since the deal with the English syndicate was started. Recently 143 to 150 has been bid for it, but little is offered. The company was organized in 1891 in Ohio. It has a capital stock of $3,400,000, of which $3,341,700 has been issued. There is in addition a bond issue of $1,600,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage gold bonds, due in 1911, but redeemable at the option of the company after 1896. Eight per cent dividends are paid on the stock. In February, last year, an effort was made to combine the various outside cereal properties with the company, but the deal fell through.

Further Advances in Money.

Further advances in rates for time money were made by leading banks yesterday. One of the largest raised its rates ½ per cent on all loans, and is not placing any money at less than 5 per cent. The loss of nearly $10,000,000 in the reserves of the New York associated banks in the last two weeks has been followed by a corresponding shrinkage in the twelve banks which make weekly reports here. New York banks apparently are not buying any paper, as it is being offered here freely at 5½ per cent. The possibility of gold export figures in the situation. The Bank of England sold £303,000 to Germany yesterday and received £158,000 from Australia.

Chicago a Financial Power.

The growth of Chicago as a financial power is being commented on generally by bankers. The improved position of several of the largest banks through enormous increases in deposits and amalgamations enables them to transact much business of a character which only large New York banks could handle before. This growth in itself attracts business. The statements which several of the banks make now bring customers from the country who heretofore did all their business with New York banks. Numbers of country banks keep in Chicago the balances which were held in New York before.

The New York Financier publishes a table showing the national banks holding $5,000,000 deposits or over, in which the First National of Chicago stands third, with $66,966,900. The National City of New York is first with $159,098,100, a gain of $28,701,900 over June and of $35,290,400 over September, 1899. In October, 1896, the National City held $31,780,100, so that in four years it has gained $127,318,000. The Continental of Chicago is ninth in the list with $31,-[illegible].

Financial Topics.

The directors of the American Woolen company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable on Oct. 15 to stockholders of record on that date. Transfer books close on Oct. 3 and reopen on Oct. 16.

The pool in the stock of the American Hide and Leather company, including, it is stated, the entire $13,000,000 preferred stock and nearly all of the $11,500,000 common, expires on Friday, after which the holders will be at liberty to dispose of their holdings.

PEOPLE'S GAS DROPS SHARPLY.

Rumor of Unfavorable Legislation Causes Stocks to Tumble—B. R. T. Violently Attacked.

[BY E. W. HARDEN.]

New York, Sept. 24.—[Special.]—People's Gas was the most active and the weakest stock on the exchange today. Under persistent hammering by the bears and in the absence of any inside support quotations went off from 86 to 82¾, with a close at 83¼, a net loss of 2⅝ points from Saturday's final figures. According to the stories in circulation in Wall street today the City Council in Chicago is to pass a resolution forbidding the extension of mains by either the People's or Ogden company until the price of gas is reduced to 75 cents.

This was the main cause for today's weakness in this stock. There were further reports that negotiations which have been on for some time looking to an ending of the differences between the People's and Ogden companies had been terminatd and there was no prospect of an immediate ending of the gas war. There was heavy selling of People's Gas stock for Chicago account, all of the private wire houses with Chicago connections having big selling orders today.

The stock market this morning was fairly strong and recoveries were shown in a number of the railroad issues as well as in other stocks. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was subjected to heavy hammering. Early in the day a paper which is considered as the personal organ of Richard Croker was distributed gratuitously in the Wall street district. It contained a violent attack upon the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company. It was said in this attack that the plan of forcing the company to put its wires underground was to be carried out and that there were other reforms which the company was to be compelled to inaugurate.

In Wall street it is not believed that this resolution was introduced in good faith. It is admitted by those most friendly to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company that the carrying out of such a plan as this would be a serious blow to the company. The expense involved in a change in the system to underground trolley would be enormous and it would entirely wipe out the present stock. The company has never paid dividends on this stock, and if it were compelled to expend the amount requisite to put all its wires underground it would be many years before there would be any earnings applicable to dividends.

IN THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The market found some support from sundry causes at times today, and prices were at one time lifted to a level quite substantially over that of Saturday at the close. Weakness persisted in some individual stocks, and the announcement of a small failure early in the afternoon put a stop to advancing tendency of prices, so that the closing was heavy and dull, with only a few net gains remaining. Tobacco, Sugar, and the New York public utilities were notably weak. The steel stocks were prominent in the early strength of the market on account of a settlement for the coming year of the schedule of wages. Several stocks in the group were marked up from 1 to 1½. Tennessee Coal came under pressure on the advance, and was marked down 4 points, but rallied over a point and closed with a net loss of 1⅜. The whole group yielded to some extent with the later weakness in the market.

In the money market interest rates were not changed, but the outgo to the interior continued on a liberal scale. The growth of stringency in foreign markets, especially London and Berlin, promises renewed pressure upon New York for gold, although the bills of commercial exchange in the market today were sufficient to depress the sterling rate a fraction. Last week's small exactions by the Subtreasury were due to the large outgo from that institution on account of pensions and on account of the renewal of bond conversions and premium payments forced by the measures taken by the Secretary of the Treasury to withdraw government deposits secured by the called 2 per cent bonds unless substitution were made of other bonds.

The majority of bonds showed declines, but there were a few advances. Total sales, par value, $875,000. United States old 4s and new 4s, registered, declined ¼ per cent, the new 4s coupon, ⅛, and the refunding 2s, when issued, the 3s, and 5s ¼ in the bid price.

Money on call firmer at 1¾@2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5½ per cent. Sterling exchange heavy, with actual business in bankers' bills at 486⅝@486¾ for demand and 483@483¼ for 60 days. Posted rates 484 and 488. Commercial bills, 482¼@482¾. Silver certificates, 62⅝@63⅝. Bar silver, 62⅝. Mexican dollars, 49⅝. Government bonds weak. State bonds inactive. Railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—The tone of the local stock market was firmer today. There was almost an entire cessation of the recent liquidation and new buying orders more than took care of the decreased bear selling. New York was a good buyer of the Atchison, Federal Steel common, and some of the arbitrage stocks in this market, and a seller of Burlington and Sugar.

Home railroads were dull and heavy. New Haven lost ⅛, to 209½; and Albany 1, to 245. Elevated was 1 lower, at 147; and Massachusetts Electrics was unchanged, at 22. Dominion Coal lost ½, to 38; and Gas and Coke bonds were firmer at 59 and 59¼ sales. American Telephone lost ½, to 138; and Erie ⅛, to 96½. New Engand was offered at 123 and 120 was bid. U. S. Oil was up ⅛, to 16.

The coppers were irregular, with weak and strong spots. Butte and Montana attracted attention, the former breaking 1¼, to 54¼, and the latter 3, to 306. Arcadian was off 1, to 16; Parrott ½, to 39¼; and Utah ¾, to 28. Amalgamated advanced ½, to 85½; Osceola 1, to 65; and Old Dominion ¼, to 16.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

The markets here continued dull and featureless today, shipments of gold to the continent having a depressing effect. Americans, after a weak opening, rallied on a report that the coal strike had been settled. No confirmation of this being received and New York offering no support, prices weakened and closed only a little above the worst. Tintos were weak on a slight fall in copper. Money was in strong demand, the market applying to the Bank of England for a large sum at 4½ per cent for one week. The bank lost £303,000 gold in German coin and received £158,000 from Australia.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The outgo of gold to Germany today, amounting to £303,000, stiffened discounts. Money is hardening, partly because tomorrow 2,000,000 of Treasury bills must be paid for. The Jewish holidays and the approach of the settlement check fresh engagements. On the Stock Exchange the tone was cheerful, except in the case of Americans, which, at the opening, were weak in sympathy with the New York market, and owing to fears of strike developments and dearer money. Later, however, they rallied. Business was of an entirely professional character. Grand Trunks were weak, copper shares were lower and Kaffirs had a sagging tendency.

Consols for money, 98 7-16; consols for the account, 98¼; Atchison, 27¼; Canadian Pacific, 89½; St. Paul, 114¼; Illinois Central, 118; Louisville, 71¼; Union Pacific pfd, 73¼; New York Central 130½; Erie, 11; Pennsylvania, 64¼; Reading, 7½; Erie first pfd, 32½; Northern Pacific pfd, 70⅞; Grand Trunk, 6⅝; Anaconda, 8⅜; Rand Mines, 40⅝. Bar silver, dull, 28 15-16d per ounce. Money, 3½ per cent. Short bills, 4 per cent; three months' bills, 4 per cent.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The tendency of business on the bourse today was to be flat, the China news being considered less favorable. In most of the departments there was a continuance of selling. Rentes were firm and there was a good investment demand.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Business was quiet on the boerse today, owing to many of the leading operators being absent. International securities were neglected. Americans were weak, notably Northern Pacifics, on unfavorable traffic receipts. Banks and industrials declined owing to the continuance of selling.

Packers purchased 27,900 hogs and shippers 8,000, leaving 4,500 in the pens. Armour bought 8,500, Anglo-American 3,000, Boyd & Lunham 1,500, Continental 7,000, Hammond 1,600, Lipton 1,500, Morris 3,900, Swift 7,000, and butchers 1,400. Droves averaging 162@170 lbs cost $5.54@5.55; 230 @260-lb butchers $5.42@5.45; and 265@305-lb packers, $5.25@5.29.

Eleven markets received 78,000 hogs, against 75,000 a week ago, and 84,000 a year ago.

Cattle—Receipts were estimated at 23,000 head, including 4,000 grass Westerns and 2,800 straight Texas. The supply of strictly good natives was comparatively small, and the better grades ruled steady, while the commoner natives, and Texas, and Westerns ruled weak to 10c lower. The general trade was active, and comparatively few were carried over. Native steers sold at $4.40@5.85, bulk $5.20@5.60. Top lot averaged 1,424 lbs. Corn-fed Westerns sold at $4.80@5.65, bulk $5.30 @5.60; grass Western steers, $3.70@4.85; Western cows and heifers, $3.00@4.30; Texas steers, $3.35@4.20, and Texas cows, $2.75@3.35. Native butcher stock sold 5@10c lower, with canning cows at $2.00 @2.80; "cutting" cows, $3.00@3.50; fat cows and heifers, $3.60@4.50; bulls, $2.75@4.50; oxen, $3.35 @4.25; and veal calves, $5.25@6.50. Stockers and feeders were in good request, and prices ruled 10c higher, with the bulk at $3.25@3.50 for 500@850-lb averages, and $4.10@4.40 for 750@1,100-lb averages.

Hogs—The market opened slow and weak at 10c decline, but later was active, with the closing a shade higher than opening sales. Receipts were estimated early at 44,000, and later at 37,000 to 39,000. Down-town packers received nearly 2,000, which are not included in the Stock-Yard receipts. Packers bought freely, Armour and Swift taking 15,500. Shippers purchased 8,000 and only 4,500 remained in the pens at the finish. The quality showed some improvement, and yet the proportion of 50@100-lb pigs among the arrivals was larger than usual. They sold largely at $4.25@4.50. Top load of selected 195-lb shippers sold at $5.60, with butchers at $5.45@5.50, and packers principally $5.25. Some thin 171-lb grassers sold at $5.10. Quotations follow:

Selected butchers, 200@270 lbs	5.45@5.57½
Selected bacon, 150@190 lbs	5.45@5.60
Mixed grades, 180@250 lbs	5.30@5.57½
Heavy shipping, 250@350 lbs	5.30@5.55
Heavy packing, 280@400 lbs	5.15@5.30
Rough heavy grades	4.95@5.10
Poor to choice pigs	3.90@5.15

Sheep—Feeding lambs sold actively at strong prices, and some of the best sheep and lambs sold steady at the start, but later declined about a dime. Lambs sold at $3.50@5.10, bulk $4.40@5.00, including 40@55-lb feeders at $4.40@4.50. One lot of 912 Idaho lambs averaging 70 lbs sold at $5.05. Native sheep sold at $2.35@4.25, bulk $3.75 @4.10; Westerns, $3.50@4.25, bulk $3.90@4.10. Some thin 93-lb sheep sold to a country feeder at $2.65.

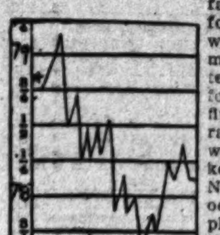
CHECK WHEAT ADVANCE.

BIG RUSSIAN SHIPMENTS A BEAR FACTOR.

Coupled with an Increase on Ocean Passage and in the Domestic Visible Supply They Depress Prices—Continued Rains in Northwest and Strong Markets There a Contending Bull Influence—Trade in Other Cereals and Provisions.

Large world's shipments, an increase of over 2,000,000 bu in the amount on passage, and an increase of over 1,100,000 bu in the domestic visible supply, were the chief news factors which made for lower prices of wheat in yesterday's market, while contending with them for the controlling influence were renewed rains in the Northwest and strong markets there. At first the Northwest situation occupied the larger place in the eyes of the speculative trade, and there was a gain at the opening of ⅛@⅜c. But the ability of Russia and the Danubian countries to export 3,766,000 bu of wheat, more than the total exports from this country for the week, an increase of 1,480,000 bu over their own record for the previous week, and 680,000 bu ahead of the corresponding week last year, was a disturbing element in the calculations of some holders, and caused considerable liquidation. It suggested the possibility of liberal competition from those countries with America, whenever the price became satisfactory, in supplying the deficiencies of the rest of Europe, the total shipments being rather more than the estimated weekly needs, 7,936,000 bu, to 7,458,000 bu the week before, and 7,571,000 bu last year. Prices shaded off about 1c, and then hesitated until the posting of the figures of the visible supply, when there was a further drop of ½c. But the rains Northwest, with a prediction of more in the three States last night, convinced some of the local traders the selling had been overdone, and their buying caused a rally of ½c, closing prices showing a loss of ⅝@¾c. October range was from 79⅛c to 77⅝c, with the close at 78⅛c. The early selling, which counted most against the price, was by commission houses—Harris, Logan, Ware-Leland, and Schwarz-Dupee being prominent. The Northwest was a buyer, the Southwest a fairly active seller. Foreigners were reputed sellers. The amount on passage increased 2,136,000 bu, to 27,152,000 bu, compared with 27,480,000 bu last year, when there was an increase of 52,000 bu. The visible supply, with an increase of 1,066,000 bu, reached a total of 54,993,000 bu, compared with 39,288,000 bu last year, when there was an increase of 440,000 bu. Local stocks in public houses grew larger by 467,000 bu, and are 13,369,000 bu. The Northwest had 850 cars, to 734 the week before and 1,391 last year. Primary receipts, however, showed a gain, being 1,727,476 bu, to 1,594,282 last year. Primary shipments were 791,285 bu, to 665,480 bu last year. Export clearances were heavy at 746,137 bu. There was a good local cash business for millers' account, sales being 160,000 bu No. 1 Northern, but there was nothing done for export, and the seaboard only reported 120,000 bu. The slack business here was due in part to firm views of holders, there being bids for hard winter at 2c under September, c. i. f. Buffalo, a narrowing of the discount by ⅝c, considering the reduction in lake rates. Minneapolis gained ½c for cash and 1-16c December, and Duluth was unchanged. Other domestic markets were weak, New York losing ½c and St. Louis ⅜@⅞c. The Liverpool market was narrow, with the range for futures ¼d and the close unchanged to ⅛d lower. Spot was steady to ½d higher for Californian. London was ⅛@½d higher and Paris ⅝c lower, with Antwerp and Berlin unchanged.



October Wheat Range.

Corn Works Higher.

Corn was strong on the cash demand and the activity of elevator interests in buying in October hedges, with some demand for September by shorts. Big local shipments of 1,007,032 bu to receipts of 413,521 bu had a firming influence. September sold from 40⅞c to 41⅜c, and closed at 41⅛c for a gain of ¼c. October gained ⅛-⅜c and November a split. New crop futures, which were sold heavily against purchases of October, suffered in value, the May discount under October widening to 3⅝c and the December to 4⅜c. World's shipments were small, 2,766,000 bu, to 3,787,000 bu the week before, and 7,043,000 bu last year. The amount on ocean passage decreased 536,000 bu, to 9,200,000 bu, compared with an increase of 2,504,000 bu last year, to a total 100 per cent larger, 18,520,000 bu. The visible supply increased 1,720,000 bu, to 7,322,000 bu, compared with 8,850,000 bu last year, when there was an increase of 743,000 bu. Local inspection was 893 cars, overrunning the estimate 245. Primary receipts were light in the comparison, 695,456 bu, to 1,145,243 bu last year. Shipments were in greater disparity in the other direction, 1,185,532 bu, to 869,787 bu. Export clearances were small at 193,357 bu. Shipping sales were reported of 100,000 bu only, but charters were taken for 500,000 bu at 1⅛c to Buffalo. Sales at the seaboard were 320,000 bu.

Any tendency to weakness in hog products based on a run of 40,000 hogs locally, 5,000 ahead of the estimate, with prices for them 5c to 10c lower, was corrected at the opening by the heavy shipments of lard and a good speculative demand for ribs at the start. There was some buying by packers but offerings were free enough to check the advance and keep the range narrow. October pork was about the only article on the list which lacked support and it closed 10c lower, while January gained 10c. Lard closed 5c higher and ribs gained 2½c. Western receipts of hogs were 59,200, to 50,900 last year. Cash business was good and shipments of lard heavy, 2,386,000 lbs, to 1,531,000 lbs last year. Meat shipments were 2,389,000 lbs, to 2,883,000 lbs last year.

As a speculative market oats did not amount to much. The entire October range was from 22-¼@22⅛c, with other deliveries quite as narrow. The bulk of the business was in selling October and buying December at ¾-1@1c spread. This was done by one house to the extent of about 700,000 bu, which had a tendency to keep the market steady. In the cash market sales were 100,000 bu. Receipts were 397 cars, nearly 100 cars over the estimate. The contract proportion was 51 cars. Estimate for Tuesday is 355 cars. The visible increase was 1,312,000 bu, the total supply now being 11,659,000 bu, against 6,383,000 bu a year ago. The Chicago stock in public houses is 2,999,000 bu, 154,000 bu less than a week ago.

Rye was quiet and a shade lower, following the decline in wheat. No. 2 on track sold 54¼c and No. 3 in store at 52c. October was 53c and December 54½c. The visible increased 75,000 bu, against a decrease a week ago of 37,000 bu. There are now 463,000 bu in public houses, 72,000 bu more than last week. Barley was firm for good grades, light weight and seedy being slow and draggy. Prices on feed ranged from 38@39½c and on malting from 42@55c, though the general outside price was 53c. Timothy seed was steady and firm, only sales being at $4.30 for October, an advance of about 10c over Saturday's bid price. Clover remained unchanged at $10.35. Flaxseed was dull and steady. No. 1 Northwestern ranged from $1.54@1.55, closing at the inside. September sold only at $1.54. October closed $1.50. There were 80 cars here, 66 at Minneapolis, and 84 at Duluth.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Some surprising figures on the wheat yield of the three Northwestern States were issued by the St. Paul road, reporting average yields of 17 bu in Minnesota, 10 bu in South Dakota, and 7 bu in North Dakota. For the entire acreage of the three States these figures would indicate a total yield of 168,625,000 bu, a ridiculous assumption, which forces the conclusion that the averages given were only for points along the line of the St. Paul road. The report says in part: "Crop reports received up to Sept. 21 say the yields so far reported indicate favorable conditions in Minnesota. Frequent rains in Dakota have made thrashing almost an impossibility, and figures so far small. The quality of wheat in both States is good, grading No. 1 and No. 2."

SLOW DAY IN FARM PRODUCE.

Demand Generally Slack and Prices Running About Steady.

Neithehr fruits not vegetables attracted much attention yesterday. Supplies were generally good, but demand was particularly slack. The fact of a Jewish holiday took some buyers off the market. Fancy makes of butter are getting more or less scarce, with receipts not large. Eggs continue firm, with recent advances well maintained.

PRODUCE MARKETS EAST AND WEST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Flour—Receipts, 20,559 brls; exports, 13,920 brls; sales, 7,500 packages. Market was held at old prices on account of the relative steadiness of Northwest cash wheat, and therefore was quiet all day. Minnesota patents, $4.20@4.60. Cornmeal—Firm; yellow Western, 90c; city, 91c; brandywine, $2.45@2.60.

Wheat—Receipts, 325,925 bu; exports, 124,498 bu; sales, 3,980,000 bu futures; 120,000 bu export. Spot easier; No. 2 red, 84¼c f. o. b. afloat and 82¼c elevator; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 87⅝c f. o. b. afloat, new; No. 1 hard Duluth, 92¼c f. o. b. afloat. Options opened steady in sympathy with a sharp Northwest advance, but quickly yielded to pressure of unloading and broke a cent a bushel. Additional factors of depression were liberal increases in both the American and English visibles, a fair increase on passage, light speculative support, and a poor export trade. Finally rallied on covering and closed steady at ⅛@½c net decline. March, 87¼@88c; closed, 87⅝c; May, 86⅞@87½c; closed, 87c; September, 82¼@82 15-16c; closed, 82⅝c; October, 82¼@83c; closed, 82½c; December, 84¼@85 5-16c; closed, 84⅝c.

Corn—Receipts, 168,085 bu; exports, 120,769 bu; sales, 105,000 bu futures; 160,000 bu export. Spot strong; No. 2, 45⅝c elevator and 48¼c f. o. b. afloat to arrive early October. Option market was steady to firm all day on the strength of cash property, a fair demand from shorts, and a large decrease in the quantity on passage. Closed firm at ⅛@⅜c net advance. May, closed, 41¼c; September, 48⅛@48½c; closed, 48½c; December, 41⅞@42c; closed, 42c.

Oats—Receipts, 97,700 bu; exports, 79,975 bu; spot quiet; No. 1, 25c; No. 3, 24¼c; No. 2 white, 27@27¼c; No. 3 white, 26⅝c; track, mixed Western, 24½@26c; track white Western and State, 26@33c. Options dull, but steady with corn. Feed —Easier; spring bran, $16.50@17.00; middlings, $17.00@19.50. Hay firm. Hops quiet. Hides firm. Leather firm. Wool dull.

Coffee—Spot Rio barely steady; No. 7 invoice, 8⅝c; mild, quiet; cordova, 9⅝@14c. Futures opened steady with prices 5@10 points decline and ruled weak under local pressure following the adverse European and Brazilian news, heavy receipts at Rio and Santos, an absence of outside speculation. Closed 5 to 10 points net lower. Total sales, 34,000 bags, including September, 6.85@6.90; October, 6.90@6.95c; November, 7.05c; December, 7.10c; March, 7.30@7.35c; May, 7.40@7.45c; and July, 7.50c.

Cotton—The market was a bull affair. At no time during the session was there the slightest indication of weakness, and in no instance was there an attempt made to bring about a reaction from the opening rise. However, speculation was restricted mainly to the "talent," and failed to reach the huge proportions, which were so characteristic of the bull markets two weeks ago. The opening was steady, with prices up 11@18 points, this being largely a sympathetic movement, Liverpool having advanced far beyond the expectations. Good buying for the foreign account, an indisposition of local parties to sell, and a scare of pit shorts added to the firm undertone.

As the session wore along the local market displayed no sign of returning animation until at the opening of the last hour. Unfavorable crop reports, predictions for a bullish government report tomorrow, reports that spot cotton in the South was rapidly hardening again on urgent export demand, and apprehensions of a bulge in Liverpool tomorrow before our opening started a flurry of covering, which soon grew into a full-fledged bull movement. Prices advanced slowly at first, but later increasing, until at the close the market was firm, with the advance extended to 19@24 points. On the late improvement Wall street was a heavy buyer of the October and January options. The South purchased the winter months freely, and reports of prominent foreign houses were actively engaged in securing the list in general as a matter of precaution. The undercurrent of sentiment at the close was strongly bullish, with the public once more showing intense interest in the staple.

Futures closed firm. September, 10.30c; October, 10.10c; November, 9.91c; December, 9.78c; January, 9.77c; February, 9.76c; March, 9.74c; April, 9.74c; May, 9.74c; June, 9.74c; July, 9.71c; August, 9.63c.

Metals—The price of steel rails was reduced to $26.00, a loss of $9.00, but produced no material effect in metal circles, as there were sellers at even lower figures. In Northern iron a drop of 50 points was recorded, with the market weak, but pig iron warrants continue dull at $9.37½@10.37½. There was an advance of £1 5s in London, due to manipulation, and prompted a firm but quiet market here at $28.00 bid. Lead and spelter ruled dull and quiet respectively, at unchanged prices, while copper showed a steady undertone, but was unchanged at $16.75@17.00. The brokers' price for lead was $4.00, and for copper 16½@16¾c.

INSURANCE AFFAIRS.

President J. M. De Camp of the Western Union yesterday announced the personnel of the different committees and the chairman of each, with the exception of the Governing committee, which elects its presiding officer. The list is as follows:

Governing committee—J. A. Kelsey, John Marshall Jr., W. H. Cunningham, J. H. Lenehan, J. J. Purcell, T. W. Eustis, Law Bros., Cofran & Bissell, H. P. Gray, J. H. Brewster, and Keeler & Gallagher.

- Arbitration—W. S. Warren.
- Bulletin—I. S. Blackwelder.
- Conference—J. H. Lenehan.
- Dissemination of Information—J. A. Kelsey.
- Fire Protection Engineering—H. C. Eddy.
- Grievance—H. C. Eddy.
- Large Cities—Law Bros.
- Membership—Witkowsky & Affeld.

John P. Hubble, general agent of the Greenwich, has been appointed secretary of the Western Insurance union. He is one of the younger element in the union, aggressive, but popular, and his selection gives satisfaction. The union has been particularly fortunate in its secretaries, as Joseph A. Kelsey of the Aachen & Munich, who voluntarily retires after two years' hard work, made a most enviable record. The position is one of honor and no salary is attached.

The Fire Underwriters' Association of the Northwest will open its thirty-first annual session at the Auditorium Hotel at 9:30 tomorrow morning. A large attendance of managers and specials is expected. A number of interesting papers on insurance subjects will be read.

J. O. Wright, Western manager of the Agricultural of New York, states that he has received word from the home office that the company's affairs in Cook County will be continued as formerly and that there will be no general agent appointed for local business as reported about to take place.

A. G. McIlwaine, United States manager of the London and Lancashire and President of the Orient, will sail from New York City on Saturday for a vacation trip to Europe. While in England he is expected to have a conference with the directors of the London and Lancashire regarding company affairs in this country.

An exposition of fire-preventing and extinguishing apparatus will be held in Berlin, Germany, during the summer of 1901. It will be under the direct management of Emil Jacob, 41 Linden street, Berlin, S. W., and will last from six to eight weeks. The exposition will be of an international nature and exhibitions will be given of all kinds of apparatus, methods, and appliances used in every part of the world in preventing and extinguishing fires in all classes of structures.

Hugo Dalmar has been appointed Cook County manager of the Westchester Fire and will assume the duties of the office on Oct. 1.

E. L. Colburn of the Chicago office of the London and Lancashire, has been appointed special agent for Cook County.

The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company
By Indorsement on Each Bond.
The net income of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company, after deducting taxes for the year ended June 30, 1900, was $1,658,469, considerably more than twice the amount necessary for interest on its own and the Stone Company bonds. The surplus, after all obligatory charges for the year, was $685,680, more than three times the amount of Consolidated Stone Company bonds outstanding.
Bonds may be retired after May 1, 1901, serially, at par and accrued interest, but only from earnings so applied by the Board of Directors.
We offer the bonds so that the minimum yield to the investor will be 4⅞%. Such bonds as shall run beyond 1911 will yield more than 5%.

SOLICITORS—WE WANT OLD LINE AND INdustrial life insurance men for State, general, and district managers, to solicit for our 10-year endowment investment bond; $2 for $1 if you live; $2 for $1 if you die. The large majority of the people are too young, too old, or their physical condition is not such as to enable them to pass a medical examination and secure the benefits derived from carrying life insurance, to secure those dependent upon them in case of death, or to create an accumulation of money for a definite time in the future. Realizing the needs of the many, we have decided to issue a ten-year endowment investment bond, a feature of which will provide, in case of death at any time during the ten-year period, to return $2 for each $1 paid in, and at the expiration of ten years we will redeem the bond on the same basis. We charge an annual payment of $1 for each year of age [[which may be paid pro rata monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually, in advance]. We will accept any person, from 1 year old to 100 years old, who is not under a physician's care. The following illustration will show you the amount necessary to pay at a given age and the amount to be returned. We will assume, for illustration, the average age of the purchaser of the bond to be 40 years old:

1 year	$40.00	$ 40.00	$ 80.00
2 years	41.00	81.00	162.00
3 years	42.00	123.00	246.00
4 years	43.00	166.00	332.00
5 years	44.00	210.00	420.00
6 years	45.00	255.00	510.00
7 years	46.00	301.00	602.00
8 years	47.00	348.00	666.00
9 years	48.00	396.00	762.00
10 years	49.00	445.00	890.00

Total paid in, $445; redemption value, 10 years, $890. This method will apply to any age. Should the parent wish to provide for the future of a child, say 5 years old, they would begin payment at $5 the first year and increase $1 each year for ten years, making the last payment $14. This would make a total of $95 they would pay up to the age of 15 years. This would secure to the child, at the age of 15, $190. We fully realize in issuing these bonds and creating this obligation that we are accepting the investor without a medical examination, but we do not assume the risk that an insurance company does if you die, and we can well afford to assume a greater risk than they do if you live. Correspondence solicited. The People's Savings & Trust Co., 45-47 Jackson-blvd., Chicago.

Having purchased the entire stock of the

we take pleasure in announcing to the people of Chicago and vicinity that we will offer these pianos for sale for cash or easy payments at less than half their value. Besides the old and reliable EMERSON, can be found fine specimens of all the standard makes. These pianos, mostly new and fresh stock from the factory, will be closed out at the prices usually asked for the cheapest makes. No level-headed buyer can overlook this great chance to get a strictly first-class piano at a nominal price. You can buy Steinway, Sohmer, Knabe, Decker Bros., Chickering, etc., etc., at as great a discount as the Emerson, as all were included in the transfer of stock.

We also desire to make a

MANDEL BROTHERS.

That great annual sale trefousse gloves

The sale that always starts the season and dictates the correct glove styles for Chicago—the sale which thousands of glove-wise women annually watch for and attend. It's that master glove occasion when Trefousse gloves—the world's standard for perfect glove excellence—are offered at greatly reduced prices—that memorable glove event which for years has been a great and growing success. This sale is remarkable in two important respects:

First—The Trefousse gloves are regarded by the government of France as "Hors Concours" (beyond competition), and were so placed at the Paris Exposition, 1900.

Second—Because you will be permitted to select these famous gloves and other French makes at a great reduction from regular prices. Sale began Monday, and will last one week.

Women's dress and street kid gloves—including Trefousse and other French fine makes—none worth less than $1.35 per pair—annual sale price— 95c

Men's gloves—a regular $1.50 street glove—a remarkable offer; P. X. M. seams—newest London colors, plunge dyed—at 1.00

"The Beatrice"—Trefousse made suede kid glove—cable sewn—also the "Regina"—3 clasp fine French glace kid gloves—overseam and pique sewn— 1.15

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO.

Ready-to-Wear Carpets.

That's exactly what our Carpet Rugs are. They are floor sizes, made from new carpets, with borders to match. Inexpensive because short lengths—remnants really—are used in their making. Sold, made up, at the cost of the materials alone.

To make our September sale of Carpets and Rugs an unqualified success we make the following reductions:

$1.85 Middlesex Axminster Carpet $1.15
$1.15 Axminster..........95c
$1.20 Velvet Carpet..........$1.00
$1.10 Velvet Carpet..........90c
90c Velvet Carpet..........70c
$1.20 Brussels Carpet..........97½c

Rugs.

$22.50 Smyrna Rugs, 9x12 ft....$17.50
Smyrna Rugs, other sizes, in proportion.

Oriental Rugs.

Never such an opportunity to procure Oriental Rugs at such reduction in prices. The success of our Oriental Rug Department is due to our marking Oriental Rugs on the same percentage basis as the domestic products. Good rugs, $6.00, $7.50, and $9.00, worth twice the amounts named.

OUTINGS For a DIME

CHAPTER LXXVII.

One of the most pleasant water-front scenes along the North Shore will be found at the foot of Lunt avenue, Rogers Park. The ride there on the Evanston cars is a desirable outing in itself and the lake at that point is worth seeing. Go up there some afternoon this week; get off at the postoffice; walk east to the lake and when ready to return try some other street intersecting with the car line. This trip will give an idea of North Shore development and the possibilities for the future if one will go

Cars start at Clark-Limits station. Round trip 80 minutes. Cost 10 cents.

SCHLESINGER MAYER

Sans Egal umbrellas $3

We announce for today the annual autumn offering of these famous umbrellas—controlled by S. & M. for all America. 2,500 "Sans Egal" umbrellas that were made for us at sharp manufacturing concessions to keep the factory going during the dull season—offered now at $3.

The Sans Egal has the new lock frame.

It presents more points of correct fashions and thorough workmanship than any other umbrella made. It is made from fine tape-edge taffeta, and has real English furze and boxwood handles—for men and women—special at $3. $3 $3

GOOD STOGIES

Tobies or Stogies—what's the difference? Answering, we might say without desiring to give offense, "it's about 70 miles." It's a case of a "Rose by any——." Wheeling, W. Va., stands sponsor to the Stogie, while Pittsburg, Pa., performs a similar duty towards the Tobie. Either to be at its best should be made at its place of birth. They know how to make them, how to blend the tobacco, their workmen know how to make them. They have made Tobies or Stogies all their lives, and they make them right. Hence they taste better, draw better, smoke longer. Those we sell are made either at Wheeling or Pittsburg, and they are right. So are the prices.

NOTE.—We have recently added to our seed and Havana line 40,000 Seidenberg & Co.'s "Epicures" and "Maria Stuart" Cigars, formerly 10c goods, now on sale at 5c each; $4.80 per 100.
